

PLAN STRICT ENFORCEMENT TRAFFIC LAWS

Raleigh.—More arrests and fewer warnings is going to mark the activity of the State Highway Patrol in the future, especially with the number of automobile accidents increasing all the time, Captain Charles D. Farmer said recently. During the past month, the highway patrolmen stopped 10,351 drivers for various violations and let 9,441 go with nothing more than warnings, the report of the patrol for September shows. But from now on there are going to be more arrests and fewer warnings. A total of 632 were arrested in September, a larger number than usual. But Captain Farmer thinks a great many more than 632 drivers should have been arrested.

Not only have the patrolmen been instructed to bear down harder on reckless drivers and speed fiends, but they have also been ordered to go after trucks and wagons that are not properly lighted at night. There has been an increasing number of accidents due to vehicles that have not had the proper lights, and the patrolmen are going to go after these, it

Describes Fire-Break And Its Principal Use

A "fire-break" is a cleared strip thru the woods varying from 10 to 100 feet wide and is kept free from all litter by plowing or burning. These breaks are used to divide large wooded areas or as property lines between separate farm lands. A properly built break will check a slow moving ground fire and also serves as a vantage point in fighting more heavy fires that are fanned by a stiff wind.

They are also going to see that the large number of tobacco and cotton trucks, now so prevalent at night, are properly lighted.

Patrolmen have been hampered somewhat during the past two months by their additional duties as gasoline and oil inspectors and by having old motorcycles that are almost worn out, Captain Farmer said. But they have now gotten their new duties so systematized that they do not take as much time as formerly. The patrolmen are now receiving 50 new motorcycles recently purchased. The new machines are much safer and faster than the old ones. As a result Captain Farmer is expecting the patrolmen to make a much better showing during the remainder of this month.

ASSOCIATIONS TAKE NO BONDS

Raleigh.—Doubt is expressed that many, if any, building and loan associations in North Carolina will accept bonds of the Home Owner's Loan Corporation, created by act of Congress to relieve distressed property, even though Attorney General Brummitt holds that this may be done in certain cases.

Mr. Brummitt is not certain about his ruling, as he suggests that a test case be brought before the North Carolina Supreme Court for its decision. "Upon such a case, an authoritative decision could be expeditiously had and all doubts and uncertainties resolved one way or the other." One case in which these bonds may be accepted to advantage is when an association takes over property and has to sell it, the bonds might be accepted to advantage when a borrower member is behind and a sale is imminent, and the association has to buy it in when no buyer appears, and the association may take over bonds of the corporation in exchange for the note and mortgage of the borrower.

Insurance Commissioner Dan C. Boney had previously sent out a letter in which he pointed out that the law permits Building and Loan Associations to invest on United States or North Carolina bonds and bonds or notes of the Home Loan Bank, the latter by the 1933 General Assembly act, and as no others were specified, these were all.

It is very rare, it is stated, that a building and loan association actually sells the home of a borrower member, even in case of long default. It is further stated that $68,000,000 of the $86,000,000 in mortgages on North Carolina homes, is held by building and loan associations, the bulk of the balance being held by insurance companies.

Belief is expressed that directors will not invest in the bonds of the Home Owners' Loan Corporation, even if they may legally do so. To get a test case it is believed that it will be necessary for some association's directors to adopt a resolution to purchase some of the bonds, and then for a member of the same association to bring an injunction action to prevent completion of the action. In that way it could get to the Supreme Court and that is probably the only way it could get to the tribunal for an authoritative opinion.

not be replaced in a day, a year, or a number of years."

To this million and a half acres now lying out will be added thousands of other acres released from cash crop cultivation under the crop reduction program, points out Graeber and he advises farmers not to cut timber and clear the land but to plant trees on much of the land that it not now in cultivation.

Many farmers are even now cutting down trees that within a few years would make valuable lumber, Graeber says. This timber, in most cases, is not of commercial size but, in a few years, would be worth considerably more as saw logs than they will bring this year as cord wood.

Pines that are from 15 to 20 years old are increasing in value from two to three dollars an acre which is enough to pay taxes and have little surplus if figured from a money saving standpoint. Any additional clearing will only mean more land to wash away and the farmer will lose in both soil and timber value, says Graeber.

Floating Theatre May Come To Williamston

The Adams Floating Theatre, recognized as the original show boat, may visit here week after next. An agent of the amusement boat is now trying to make arrangements to bring the boat up the Roanoke Sunday, November 5.

It was about 10 years ago that the floating theatre made a visit this far up the Roanoke. The show, playing in Manteo this week, is scheduled to stop in Plymouth next week.

PLANT NOW FOR SPRING PANSIES

Too Many People Depend Nurseries for Stock; Not Difficult To Grow

The pansy is becoming more popular in North Carolina flower gardens, but too many growers depend on buying plants from nurseries rather than producing them at home.

"We have found that the average gardener may grow his own plants with fair success by observing a few simple rules," says J. G. Weaver, in charge of horticultural greenhouses at State College. "The pansy grows best in cool weather and there is still time to sow seed for flowers next spring. To grow the plants successfully one must prepare the seed bed carefully. This means pulverizing the soil for about six inches and raking away all rubbish. Add about one inch of well-rotted stable manure to the bed and place about one-half an inch of good garden soil on this. Smooth it down and soak the bed with water."

Weaver says the seed may be planted on this bed in rows or broadcast. It is better to drill the seed and cover them lightly with fine sand. Keep the surface moist but not wet. This may be aided by covering the bed with unbleached sheeting. As the plants come through, gradually remove the shade. Never allow the beds to become dry, as this will be fatal to growing strong plants.

As soon as the true leaves are formed, remove the pansy plants to their permanent location. Weaver says it is not wise to transplant any more than is absolutely necessary. He says also that exhibition blooms may be obtained by preparing the permanent bed rather carefully. This means preparing the growing place with the same care as was used with the seed bed.

As fast as the plants bloom remove the blossoms when the petals fade. This will assure continuous blooming.

SAYS IDLE LAND DOES MUCH HARM

Now Over Million And Half Acres Lying Idle in This State

With over one and one-half million acres of cleared land now lying idle in the State any additional clearing by cutting off timber will only add to that land on which the farmer is paying taxes and from which he is getting no return.

"This idle land is just as harmful in an economic way as idle labor," says R. W. Graeber, extension forester at State College. "The natural erosion and leaching will cause untold losses in soil fertility and this can-
