

RAISE MULES AT HOME IN FUTURE

Carolina Farmers Purchase About 22,000 Horses and Mules Yearly

North Carolina farmers must replace about 22,000 horses and mules each year.

"Few horses or mules are seen in cities and towns but out in the country, this form of power is still used almost exclusively by landowners," declares Prof. Fred M. Haig of the animal husbandry department at the State College.

it necessary for Tarheel farmers to replace about 22,000 animals each year. As most of these animals are purchased from without the borders of the State, this constitutes a heavy drain upon the farm income.

Therefore, Professor Haig advises that at least enough colts be grown at home for replacement purposes. This can be made practically a non-cash cost, he says, because feed grown at home on adjusted acres might be used to grow the colts at little cost.

Three things are essential for success in raising colts at home, Haig says. First select good mares and high class stallions or jacks. Take good care of the mare and feed her properly while she carries the colt. Then, while the foal is growing, handle him with gentleness and see that he is properly fed.

WARM AND DRY WEATHER SEEN THIS CENTURY

Period of Prolonged and Disastrous Droughts Are Forecasted

Cambridge, Mass.—A "warm and dry" weather forecast for the rest of the twentieth century and warning of a coming period of disastrous droughts were issued by a weather specialist recently before the American Association for the Advancement of Science.

Playing a role much like the Biblical Joseph who warned the Egyptians of "lean years" to come, H. W. Clough, of Arcade, N. Y., told the scientists that along about the turn of the century "there are likely to be prolonged and disastrous droughts, possibly causing extensive migrations of people now inhabiting regions that border upon deserts."

These great droughts will result, he said, from the fact that four great weather cycles controlled by the sun will synchronize somewhere around the year 2,000. At that period the hot, dry phases of each of the four cycles all will strike the earth at about the same time. The cycles are 37, 83, 300, and 1,400 years in length, the short ones repeating themselves several times during one long one, with weather swinging alternately from hot and dry to cold and wet through each.

The United States is now having exceptionally warm dry weather because the warm, dry phases of a 37-year and 83-year cycle are now roughly coinciding, Clough said.

"Around 1950 or 1955, the weather will be considerably cooler and wetter than at present," he added. "However, it is probably that the present century as a whole will prove to be exceptionally warm and dry as compared with the past two centuries."

The United States and foreign countries have been growing warmer in general since the 1860's, Clough said, culminating in January 1932 which was the warmest January in 155 years in at least one section. Coupled with the increasing warmth have been recent severe droughts which still continue in many regions.

Clough said England now is experiencing the lowest prices for wheat in almost 300 years, the result of large crops favored by the current warm, dry weather. Similar low prices for wheat, he has found, have prevailed during the warm, dry phase of every 37-year cycle since the year 1,250 A. D.

Shay offers to give any corn-hog farmer definite information about how the plan is to be worked if the matter is taken up with him early enough for the movement to get started in this State.

To obtain benefits under the corn plan, for instance, Shay says the grower must agree to reduce his corn acreage by 20 percent under the average of 1932 and 1933. He may then collect at the rate of 30 cents a bushel for the corn which this rented land was capable of producing. Thus, if a man grew an average of 100 acres of corn in 1932 and 1933 and reduced this amount to 80 in 1934, he may collect a rental payment for the 20 acres on the basis of what the land had produced. If the land had produced 40 bushels to the acre, the rental for the 20 acres would amount to $240—a very good rental for the average corn land in North Carolina.

Tells How To Prevent Winter Injury to Trees

A mound of earth thrown up around the base of peach and apple trees will, to some extent, prevent serious winter injury. In many orchards, however, this injury extends up the trunk and must be controlled by wrapping the trunk with paper. Old newspapers or wrapping paper may be used. Where the bark is cracked or otherwise injured the paper should be wrapped around the trunk and tied so as to protect the injury from winter freezes. The mound about the base will also protect the tree from injury by field mice.

CORN-HOG PLAN OFFERS PROFITS

Farmers Raising Hogs for Market Will Benefit by Signing Contract

A premium on hogs and a rental payment for corn land taken out of production in 1934 is offered North Carolina farmers along with those of the middle west.

"I would suggest that farmers of North Carolina who are growing either corn or hogs for commercial purposes to make plans to sign a corn-hog reduction contract, especially where they are also signing either the tobacco or cotton contracts for 1934," says W. W. Shay, swine extension specialist at State College. "The Agricultural Adjustment Administration is attempting to reduce the production of corn and hogs with the view of increasing the prices of the two commodities. Therefore the AAA will pay rent for corn land according to its fertility and will pay
