committee's expose of the munitions "racket" probably would have done more to promote the cause of world peace than all the treaties, disarmament conferences and peace conferences that have been held since the World War.

If the masses should wake to the fact that the real war-makers of the world are the munition manufacturers and certain governmental and military leaders who work hand in glove with them, the masses might see how utterly stupid they are to offer their lives in order that this handful of trouble-makers might become enriched through the sale of more and more instruments of death. If the masses ever come to realize that one is more a pawn and a "sucker" than he is a hero when he takes up arms for his country, the masses are going to balk at the very suggestion of war. And if the masses decline the glory of being cannon-fodder, there must necessarily be a slump in armed hostilities throughout the world. The capitalists and military leaders can start a war, but the masses must fight it.

Alas, though, the masses are asses, utterly incapable of benefiting from lessons as plain as the nose on your face. And as soon as the munitions makers and the militarists succeed in starting another conflict, the masses, egged on by the clergy, the press, and the politicians, will hurl themselves foolishly into the thick of the fray, risking life and limb for patriotism and capitalism.

IN MEMORIAM

In memory of Martha Roberson, who died August 19, 1934.

Two months ago today,
Our darling Martha has gone way,
No more upon this earth to stay;
But thoughts of her will always remain
And nothing will ever be quite the same.

She was as sweet as sunshine,
And as beautiful as flowers;
Never complaining at anything,
Being patient at the most trying hours

To know her was to love her
She made friends all the way;
And O, how we will miss her
Now that she has gone away.

She is up in heaven with our Master above,
We are comforted by this, for Him she truly loved.
Let her goodness and kindness be a lesson to us, we pray,
So we may join her up in heaven, when we, too, must go away.

GENEVA ROBERSON.

One of Thousands

While Samuel Insull is being tried in Federal court at Chicago, a man passes through Williamston who worked for him nine years and invested all he had in Insull companies at high prices. Then when the crash came, the poor man lost his all, and is now a beggar. There are hundreds of thousands just like this man, who now has to ask alms as he passes looking for work. Their savings have been swallowed up by the big stock gamblers.

Probably the most regrettable thing about the Insull case is that he hasn't more lives to punish than he has. He is a man whose greed was so great that he destroyed the homes and hopes of many thousands.

No Sympathy Here for Non-Signers

Greenville Reflector.

While individual non-contracting tobacco growers in another part of the state are organizing to fight the government tax placed upon non-cooperating growers, a delegation from Eastern North Carolina is visiting Washington to not only voice its approval of the crop control plan with its penalizing tax on non-signers but to petition the government to undertake at this time a new sign-up campaign that would extend the present contracts for another five years after they expire next year.

The contracting growers in this tobacco belt this fall have had it proven to them that through the government crop-control plan they have come back from a position of almost financial despair to one of financial independence and certainly they are right in urging that the plan be continued for another five years after the present contracts expire with the harvesting of next year's crops. Then, too, they have little or no sympathy for that small minority of growers who would not sign to reduce their crops, hoping to make the proverbial killing in a financial way at the expense of the growers who did cut their crops. So far as getting any help from the Eastern Carolina farmers in the way of support in a movement for removal of the taxes, the non-cooperating grower would do well to get by with the tax at its present level, for we honestly believe that it does our cooperating growers good to see that the non-signers have to pay the tax—and a higher one, if possible—for the refusal to cooperate in a movement that has done so much good for the entire tobacco-growing section.

It is our sincere hope that the new sign-up movement for extension of the contracts will get under way at an early date and be carried to a successful completion, for it has been proved to the satisfaction of all in this section that the curtailed crop means more money for the growers, and we cannot hope to keep the production down without government supervision and control.

LUKE RILEY SAYS THE RATS DIE BEFORE REACHING THE RIVER

Since moving near the river several years ago, we've always used BEST-YET. We watched the vicious water rats nibbling at BEST-YET, outside the house. About 15 minutes later they darted off for the river to cool their burning stomachs, but died before reaching it. Kills rats and mice only. Will not hurt cats, dogs, or chickens and there is no smell from the dead rat. BEST-YET comes in two sizes: 2 oz. size 25c; 6 oz. size 50c. Sold and guaranteed by Culpepper Hardware Co., Williamston.

More Liquor—More Drunken Drivers

Liquor makes drunken drivers, and more liquor makes more drunken drivers; and still more liquor makes still more drunken drivers.

A report made at a recent meeting of International Police Chiefs, shows that since the repeal of the Eighteenth Amendment drunken driving cases have increased 479 per cent in Los Angeles, 380 per cent in Cincinnati, 300 per cent in Philadelphia, 122 per cent in New Orleans. In Rhode Island the increase has been 100 per cent. The State of Connecticut showed the lowest increase, with only 1 1-2 per cent.

This report conclusively shows that the more liquor we have the more folks will get drunk; the more drunken people there are the more drunken drivers; and the more drunken drivers the more people killed.

Two things may be truthfully said about alcohol—One is that it is useless; the other is that it is dangerous.
