ing crops, and they will not receive the full amount under the agricultural program.

The county agent's office has notified each of the farmers, explaining that certain requirements have not been met, but still there are many who have ignored the warnings. Soil-conserving payments will start pouring into the agricultural sections shortly, and those farmers who have failed to meet the contract terms will no doubt be disappointed when they are penalized. Doubtless some of them will even attack the program and consider it unfair. It is up to the farmer himself, and if he neglects to meet the requirements, he will find the neglect a bit costly.

Lest We Forget

The Watauga Democrat.

Do you remember February, 1933? All over North Carolina, all through the nation, there was fear. Hunger was almost as widespread. "The banks are going to close," men whispered to each other.

"No help wanted," was the answer to men whose children were crying for food.

"No more credit, I'm broke myself," said the merchant to the farmer in his "Hoovercart."

Terror gripped the entire nation. In cities mounted policemen rode down men, women and even children who were rioting for food. National Guard units were ordered to stand by for trouble. The Federal Government was paralyzed. America looked frantically for a leader.

Do you remember the first of March, 1933? Housekeepers were boarding food.

Men worked feverishly in the darkness to bury what money they had.

Banks crashed, checks bounced.

Credit was wiped away. Neither a man's word nor his bond was worth anything.

Movie theatres were vacant. The streets were filled with vacant stores. Towering stacks stood grim and gaunt against a smokeless sky. Machinery stood idle and rusting. An ominous silence spread over a nation of 120,000,000 frightened people.

From the depths of their dire agony Americans cried: "Save us!"

Then, from the City of Washington, came the voice that spoke in the night. It sped through the air lanes to the fireplaces of a million homes. Its vibrant ring permeated every section of a broken nation.

Calm, confident, courageous, Franklin Delano Roosevelt spoke to the people of the United States!

Here, at last, was the leader who could lead. Here, at last, was the man America had been waiting for.

No president, no king, or emperor, or czar, ever faced a more fateful challenge. Here was chaos in its most dreadful form. Here was blinding and paralyzing fear. Here was a place where one false move would be fatal. And yet the desperation of the situation cried for action—instant, clean-cut action.

Franklin Roosevelt gave America action in its greatest hour of need. With incredible swiftness, and inspired wisdom, he hushed the hysteria of a panicky people. Within one week after his memorable inauguration hope returned to the United States!

The "hard beginning" was hard, indeed. Now, look at America as we find it in the fall of 1936:

The great American industrial machine is humming an old-time tune. Farmers not only are safe for the present but have a future brighter than at any time in our history. These United States have come back. Confidence and optimism are paving the way for a new and greater happiness.

A large number of unemployed remain to keep alive a bitter memory and to remind this country that the job is not completed yet. Franklin Roosevelt has brought us far along the way—and victory is in sight.

There are no food riots and bank crashes and money hoarding and paralyzing fear now.

This is America of the New Deal and the New Day. This is an America punished for its sins and fearless for the future. This is an America moving rapidly toward a higher conception of human rights and social responsibility. This is an America buying priceless progress for a nominal fee.

Better a debt and a people restored to pay it than no debt and hunger—no debt and revolution.

How have the New Deal millions been spent? They have been invested in the safest stock on earth—the rugged stock of American manhood. To call this a waste of money is to call the American people a failure and to hold the future as hopeless.

A desperate and beaten people in 1932; a confident and conquering people in 1936. What driving force brought all this? The answer—FRANKLIN D. ROOSEVELT.

Taking the Profits Out of War

France is beginning a system that will stop profiteering in arms and munitions of war. That nation proposes to take over the big manufacturing plants and manufacture their own arms and ammunition.

In time of war, our government claims the right to "press" or conscript a man into the service of its army or navy, regardless of whether he is willing to go or not. But when it comes to "pressing" or conscripting the property of our big manufacturers into the business of making arms and munitions, they call a halt to the government's right to do such a thing. They say it is illegal, that they have made special preparations to manufacture arms and ammunition and to make big profits in that business.

And in former times the manufacturer has always carried his point because he has invested in private business, and he must be protected; while the man who has prepared himself to make a home and become a useful, honorable citizen has to surrender his aims, desires, and rights and bare his breast to the bullets made by the manufacturers for profit.

SALE OF REAL ESTATE
Pursuant to and by virtue of judgment of the Superior Court in the case of Tiner Biggs et al vs Paul Rogers, the undersigned commissioner of the court will offer for sale to the highest bidder for cash at the courthouse door of Martin County on the first Monday in November (it being November 2, 1936), at 12 o'clock m., the following real estate, and described as follows:
Beginning at the corner of the lot now occupied by Joe Peel on the Washington-Williamston highway and running thence westwardly along the Peel and Martin line about 400 to 500 yards to the line of Paul Rogers, thence running along a fence and Paul Rogers line southwardly to Martin's line, thence eastwardly along a fence and the Martin, Mary Rogers, and Robert Simmons line to the Washington-Williamston highway, thence northwardly along the said highway to the beginning. Remember the time is November 2, 1936, and the hour is 12 o'clock noon.

This the 1st day of October, 1936.
H. L. SWAIN,
Commissioner.

Costly Neglect

Unless they meet certain requirements this week, a group of Martin County farmers will lose several thousand dollars in soil-conservation payments. Over 1,400 farmers in the county decreased their crops in accordance with the program, but more than 100 failed to plant the necessary acreage to soil-conserv-
