Barnhill-Stephenson

The wedding of Miss Emma Gay Stephenson of Pendleton, and James Garland Barnhill, of Williamston, was solemnized Wednesday evening, June 15, at 8:00 o'clock in the Robert's Chapel Baptist church in Pendleton. The Rev. R. D. Stephenson, uncle of the bride, of Franklin, Va., officiated.

The entire altar, covered in white was flanked with ferns and greenery outlined with twelve tall white candelabra of graduated heights. Between the candelabra were tall white pedestals holding baskets of white gladioli, gypsophelia, and feverfew. Directly back of the altar an archway was outlined with ivy from which hung white wedding bells. The center aisle of the church was outlined with burning white candles in holders six feet tall, which were in the center of clusters of flowers. The pews were connected by ribbons from each candle holder.

A program of lovely wedding music was rendered by Miss Inez Matthews, pianist, of Windsor who played On Wings of Song, by Mendelssohn, and Liebestraume, by Liszt; Mrs. Joseph A. Fleetwood, violinist, of Conway, who played Meditation from Thais, by Massenet, and Ave Maria, by Schubert; Mrs. Perry Bryant, soloist, of Lasker, who sang I Love You Truly, by Carrie Jacobs-Bond; and Mr. Bruce Wynne, tenor, of Williamston, who, with Mrs. Bryant, sang, Ah Sweet Mystery of Life, by Victor Herbert. Mr. Wynne sang, O Perfect Love, by Burleigh as a prayer at the close of the ceremony.

The bridesmaids were Miss Lela Brown Barnhill, of Williamston, sister of the groom; Mrs. Errol P. Dixon of Kinston; Miss Mary Louise Johnson, of Raleigh; Miss Helen Stephenson, of Petersburg, Va.; Mrs. Ray Bandy, of Rocky Mount; and Miss Frances Dailey, of Wilson.

They wore pink silk lace and net, the bodies being fitted basques of lace and the skirts of net with inserted lace. Their sandals were blue, and they carried arm bouquets of blue delphinium and pink roses tied with blue tulle.

Miss Sylvia Green, of Williamston, as junior bridesmaid, wore a floral white taffeta and carried an arm bouquet of yellow gladioli, pink roses and blue delphinium.

Miss Ruth Stephenson, sister of the bride, was maid of honor. Her dress in blue with pink sandals was identical with the bridesmaids. She carried pink roses and blue delphinium tied with pink tulle. All attendants wore tiaras of real flowers.

Leman Barnhill, of Williamston attended his brother as best man. Ushers were Vernon Bunting, of Bethel; Roy Coburn, of Greenville; Dr. Hugh S. Edwards, of Worcester, Mass.; William Leale, of Jackson; and C. B. Clark, William G. Peele and Henry Griffin, of Williamston.

The bride entered with her father by whom she was given in marriage. She wore a gown of Lumara Satin, with Chantilly lace used lavishly on the sleeves, the yoke and standing collar, and as godets in the train. Satin flowers around the front of the collar added a quaint touch to the dress. Her veil, which fell from a tiara of satin flowers with an allusion cap, was entirely edged with chantilly lace. She carried a bouquet of bride's roses and lily of the valley.

The mistress of ceremonies, Mrs. Benjamin D. Stephenson, wore a peach lace gown with a corsage of talisman roses.

The mother of the bride wore a gown of hyacinth blue lace with a corsage of briarcliff roses, while the groom's mother wore midnight blue lace and a shoulder-corsage of gardenias and baby breath.

Mrs. Barnhill, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Harry Stephenson, secured her education at Chowan College, Murfreesboro, from which she received an A. B. Degree and diplomas in Piano and Public School Music. She has traveled extensively in Europe and throughout the United States and has won for herself a wide circle of friends. For the past several years she has taught English in the high schools of Severn and Williamston.

Mr. Barnhill is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Thomas Barnhill, of Williamston. He received his education at Randolph Macon Military School of Virginia and later graduated from Massey Business College in Richmond, Va. For several years he has been connected with his father in the mercantile business and farming, of Barnhill Supply company in Everetts and Barnhill Bros. in Williamston.

Immediately following the wedding, Mr. and Mrs. Benjamin D. Stephenson, uncle and aunt of the bride, entertained at a reception for relatives and out-of-town friends.

Receiving at the door were Mr. and Mrs. Stephenson who directed the guests to the guest book where Miss Clara Edwards and Miss Edna Barnhill, of Williamston, presided. Mr. and Mrs. J. Archie Johnson, of Norfolk, Va., introduced the guests to the receiving line composed of the wedding party and the bride and groom's parents.

Mrs. J. Paul Simpson, of Williamston, and Mrs. W. A. Jones, of Hamlet, received in the dining room where Mrs. W. Joseph Beale of Jackson, and Mrs. N. Cortez Green, of Williamston, served molded cream, bride's cake wrapped in white, cake and mints in designs and cashmere nuts.

The banquet table had a centerpiece of mixed white flowers, at each end of which was an old English candelabra on centerpieces of fine Mexican lace. On either side of the table were three big bowls of white tulle draped and fastened to individual candle sticks.

Assisting in serving were Misses Tom Long, Foy Stephenson, Mary Virginia Horne, Daphne Pegrarn, Lucy Britt, of Boykin, Va.; Elizabeth Johnson, of Raleigh; Grace Rogers, of Everetts, and Ethel Edwards, of Norfolk, Va.

In the back room, Mr. and Mrs. Will M. Stephenson introduced the guests to the second receiving line which was composed of the Rev. Mr. Stephenson and the musicians.

Mrs. Walter Garris, of Suffolk, Va., and Mrs. Hudson Conwell, of Franklin, Va., received in the library where Mr. and Mrs. A. P. Barnhill, of Everetts, Mrs. Leman Barnhill, of Williamston, and Mr. Ferd Pollard, of Bethel, served punch, assisted by Miss Margaret Stephenson and Miss Janet Jones of Hamlet. Mr. and Mrs. L. L. Hoggard of Suffolk, Va., furnished the piano and violin music during the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. Joseph C. Edwards said the good-byes and invited guests next door to the home of the bride where the gifts were displayed. Receiving there were Mr. Errol Dixon, of Kinston, Mr. and Mrs. S. G. Lee and Mrs. Maggie Knight, of Portsmouth, Va.; Mrs. J. I. Lee, of Raleigh, Mrs. Harvey Vinson of Woodland, Mrs. J. M. Edwards and Mr. N. C. Green, of Williamston.

For traveling, Mrs. Barnhill wore a two piece dress of dark blue with pleated chiffon skirt and taffeta and chiffon striped blouse. Her large hat was of corn colored rough straw trimmed in dark blue taffeta. Her accessories were of corn color and dark blue.

After June 27 Mr. and Mrs. Barnhill will be at home in the Tar Heel apartments, Williamston.

Mr. and Mrs. Barnhill have been entertained at many parties. On Wednesday, Mrs. Errol P. Dixon, of Kinston, and Mrs. W. Joseph Beale, of Jackson, entertained the wedding party at a luncheon at the home of Mrs. Beale in Jackson.

On Tuesday evening immediately after the rehearsal, the parents of the bride entertained at a cake cutting.

On Wednesday evening the wedding party was served a buffet supper in Pendleton.

Note of Thanks

I want to extend to my friends in the Second Judicial District my deep and sincere gratitude and I want them to know that I deeply appreciate the splendid support accorded me in the recent primary. I hope we may have opportunities for further useful service together in the Democratic Party and in its primaries.

I promptly congratulated and tendered my services to Judge Bone and I here tender to him and the full Democratic ticket the same unstinted service which I have heretofore given in each campaign since I was old enough to vote.

The fact that people in my community who have known me best and longest were overwhelming in their support and that the people in the township where my opponent and I both live and in the county where we both live accorded me a majority of their votes justifies the belief that my philosophy of life and of government finds hearty response in the minds of average North Carolinians.

Itimous T. Valentine
