L. T. Weeks Speaks Of Problems Now Facing the Grower

to have a surplus in the winter in the form of canned goods and dried food, plenty of meat, corn for bread and small grain.

As to the cultivation of the crops and the planting, the speaker recommended that 200 pounds of fertilizer of 4-8-3 be used to the 100 square yards of the tobacco beds. Experiments show that best results are obtained when 50 per cent of the nitrogen comes from water-soluble sources and 50 per cent of the nitrogen comes from water insoluble sources.

As for the dressing to be put on the bed it was suggested that a mixture containing two to four pounds of nitrate of soda, ten pounds of dried blood, twenty pounds of cotton seed meal, one-half bushel of hen house manure, thoroughly mixed and applied to 100 square yards of bed when found from experience. This should be applied only when the bed is dry and when the plants are the size of a nickel to the size of a half-dollar.

For the fields it was suggested that from 800 to 1000 pounds per acre of 3-8-6 be applied to the average soil. For stiff land or very fertile soil, 3-10-6 has proven more successful.

Where nitrogen comes from two-thirds water soluble sources and one-third water insoluble sources better results are obtained from the value standpoint, than in cases where the nitrogen comes from half water soluble sources and half water insoluble sources. In a test conducted in 1939, the results showed an advantage of $20.60 per acre in favor of the 2-3 and 1-3 formula over the half and half formula.

In no case should more than two per cent of muriate of potash be used. Where "Sand Drown" is not and that because the treasury already had collected processing taxes to finance the benefit payments.

The question of $225,000,000 in "parity" payments to help swell farm income was raised in the appropriations committee but a move to appropriate that sum as in other years was shouted down by a loud chorus of "Noes."

Farm members said privately they saw no use in asking the House to restore that item—which was not asked by the President. They seemed to be passing that task to their colleagues in the Senate, which last year insisted on parity payments.

Before the cuts became known, Agriculture department officials expressed gratification over the fact that the index of farm prices had risen three points this month to 99 per cent of the 1909-1914 level—the highest in two years.

At the same time, they figured that Congress' appropriations for parity last summer would be distributed in this manner among the major crops: cotton, $94,000,000; corn, $81,000,000; wheat, $46,000,000; rice, $5,000,000.

Publication of hearings on the agriculture bill disclosed that Secretary Wallace, like many House members, recommended some permanent self-financing farm subsidy program.

Asserting that farmers had been subject to the "shifting winds of political sentiment," Wallace suggested that Congress adopt a streamlined processing tax or consider special manufacturer's and luxury taxes.
