Founder's Week Is Observed By A & P

The founder of the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, George Huntington Hartford, who created the modern retailing method of direct buying and straightline, mass distribution, will be honored by all A & P stores during Founder's Week, Feb. 12-19, the company announced here today.

Retailing principles established by Mr. Hartford when he opened the first red-fronted A & P store in 1859, company officials pointed out, are used today by countless chain and independent merchants as the means of providing greater savings to consumers.

A young man from Maine, Mr. Hartford entered the retailing field in New York City, where he was impressed by the prevailing high price of tea. A & P executives said. He believed that by purchasing tea direct, eliminating the many handling charges and middlemen's profits and retailing through his own store, he could materially reduce the price from the prevailing scale of a dollar and more per pound.

During Founder's Week, all A & P stores will lay special emphasis on tea, as their original stock in trade, and coffee, another early item of which the company is now
