

Committees To Act On Six Amendments Within A Few Days

(Continued from page one) adjustments over a period of years to eliminate excess supplies of tobacco. Such a procedure would be particularly desirable when the full adjustment required is so large that drastic reductions in allotments would be required if all the adjustments were made in one year.

Amendment No. 4. This amendment would remove the present provision in the act that the marketing quota for any state in the case of flue-cured tobacco shall not be less than 75 per cent of the 1937 production of flue-cured tobacco in the state. Also, it would provide that the national marketing quota for the next three years shall not be reduced more than 10 per cent below the 1940-41 marketing quota and that the farm acreage allotments for the same years be adjusted uniformly in relation to the farm allotments for the preceding year, with the exception that any farm allotment of one acre or less in the case of burley tobacco and two acres or less in the case of flue-cured tobacco would not be reduced below the 1940 allotment, and with the further exception that an acreage equal to two per cent of the allotments established in 1940 for farms in each state would be allotted by the local committees so as to make any needed adjustment of the individual farm allotments.

This proposal is intended to simplify the determination of allotments, protect small farmers, and reduce administrative cost. The proposal recognizes that the burley and flue-cured tobacco allotments for the next three years will need to be about the same size as the 1940 allotments in order to eliminate the present surplus and that any changes in the allotments are likely to be small. This being the case, any changes can be made with less misunderstanding and irritation on the part of farmers and for much smaller administrative costs if they are made on a uniform basis. Also, if farmers know that the changes will be uniform, they can better plan their operations in view of the needed adjustments of marketings of tobacco.

Amendment No. 5. The purpose of this suggested addition is to permit the carrying over by producers of tobacco from one marketing year to another without paying of penalty on such tobacco if it was "within quota" in the year from which it is carried over or if a smaller amount of tobacco is produced on the farm in the year to which the tobacco is carried over so as to make possible marketing of the tobacco within the farm marketing quota. The suggested addition is also intended to prevent evasion of the marketing quotas by the marketing of tobacco just prior to the beginning of the marketing year rather than during the normal time, tobacco ordinarily would be marketed.

Amendment No. 6. This amendment would strengthen enforcement of the marketing quotas by increasing the fine upon any tobacco warehouseman or dealer who fails or refuses, after notice of fifteen days, to make a true report or keep true records as required by the regulations with respect to the tobacco marketing quotas. The regulations with respect to records and reports would be prepared after consultation with warehousemen and dealers. Increasing the maximum penalty would tend to insure compliance with these regulations in the case of any warehousemen or dealers who might otherwise attempt to violate the law.

Bird Trapped Long Ways From Its Home Recently

Accidentally trapped in this county several weeks ago, a robin had traveled quite a distance from his home. Carrying the number, 37-300817, the bird was banded on July 5, 1937, at South Bend, Indiana, by D. K. Stephenson.

By means of these numbered metal bands important investigations relative to the migrations and other facts in the life histories of North Carolina birds are being advanced. The bands are attached to the birds by volunteer cooperators both in the United States and Canada, who serve without pay. Success in the bird-banding work is therefore dependent upon the reports of persons in both countries on such banded birds as come to their attention.

A LOAN TO UNCLE SAM

Uncle Sam, I've loaned, too, my one and only son to you;

And as he launches out in life, May God protect him from all strife.

And with your help, great peace will come,

To each and every mother's son.

I, too, stood alone in tears and blue, As he left his home, with heartaches I knew;

But I hope to be proud of him some day,

To know that heartaches did not stand in his way.

May the years he has given to you, Uncle Sam,

Grow into wisdom as his life expands;

May his life so shine, that others may see;

He will become a great man, as I want him to be.

—Composed by Mrs. Walter Halberstadt, Pete Egan's grandmother.
