

OPENINGS

There are still several openings in the Civilian Conservation Corps for Martin County youths. Miss Mary Taylor, welfare department head, said today. Any unemployed youth is eligible to apply for a place in the camps, the welfare officer explaining that heretofore places were open only to those youths whose families were on direct or indirect relief.

The twelve white and four colored youths who are accepted will be stationed on the West Coast. Applications must be filed immediately if the applicants are to leave next week.

$2,500 Damage Suit Filed In Superior Court Last Friday

believes and upon such information and belief alleges that the defendant, by offering said meat for sale, warranted to the plaintiff and to the world that said meat was fit for human consumption. That said meat was alive and working with maggots. That said meat was not fit for human consumption, and that the defendant knew or should have known that said meat, if eaten by a human being, would make the eater of same sick. That by selling to the plaintiff meat which was alive and working with maggots and meat which was totally unfit for human consumption, the defendant has violated its warranty to the plaintiff, and as a result of plaintiff's eating said meat, the plaintiff became sick and was damaged in the manner and in the amount otherwise set out in this complaint.

That by reason of the negligence heretofore complained of, and as the direct and proximate result thereof, the plaintiff was made ill and sick as aforesaid, vomited and suffered excruciating pain, both in mind and in body, and for some time after same happened was unable to eat without being nauseated and was forced to secure the service of two physicians, and that as a direct and proximate result thereof plaintiff has been injured and damaged in the sum of $2500.00."

Ownership Of The French Fleet Not Definitely Known

ers have 612 ships against 328 for Great Britain.

If the French fleet has fallen in to German's hands, the fall of the British Isles is believed to have already gotten underway despite a stirring speech by Prime Minister Churchill today.

It is now apparent that Britain's control of the Atlantic which kept the seas open to commerce and closed to hostile craft, made this hemisphere secure. A British defeat possibly will bring this country face to face with an enemy whose sole aim is believed to call for the complete mastery of the world. To oppose this unbounded ambition, the United States has only a small navy now in the Pacific. Its air forces is even smaller. With these glaring facts staring us in the face during the present crisis, it is now thought that America's security is actually threatened. High navy officials, apparently recognizing the precarious situation, are asking a 70 per cent increase in our sea power.

Firemen Called To Same House Twice In Two Days

Local volunteer firemen were called to the J. B. Speller property on Washington Street last Saturday noon for the second time in two days when fire starting from a spark threatened the old fire trap. A fairly sizable place was burned in the roof, but the fire was brought under control by a large group of idlers before much damage was done.

An order directing the removal of certain properties in the area has been temporarily vacated by town officials that the owners might have an opportunity to dispose of their holdings to a better advantage. No order has been issued directing the removal of the old fire traps on the Speller property, but twice on successive days the danger of fire has been made evident and it is possible that the fire chief will take action when the officials hold their next meeting.

Gus Purvis, Colored Man, Is Victim Of Tuberculosis

Gus Purvis, 38-year-old colored man, died in the Martin County home yesterday morning at 7:30 o'clock, the victim of tuberculosis. Confined to his bed for about a year, he had spent the last two weeks of his life in the institution.

Purvis was placed in the State Sanatorium last year for treatment and was reported to be getting better when he slipped out of the institution late one night and thumbed his way home. "I did not want to die that far away from home," Purvis told welfare workers.

Purvis, employed by a local hardware firm for a long number of years, is survived by his widow and five children. The last rites are being conducted this afternoon.
