Griffin and Harrison To Own And Operate Modern Supply House

Another valuable unit will be added to the business and industrial life of the community next Monday when Messrs. Henry Griffin and Bill Harrison open a modern builders' supply plant on the Jamesville Road next to the Williamston Peanut Company plant.

The new plant is planned and designed to meet the increasing needs of this thriving section. Mr. Griffin said in announcing the opening.

The policy of this new firm will be to offer an improved service to contractors and builders in this section, to join in and support the material progress that has been so evident and which is certain to continue to mark the advancement of this community and section in the future. Mr. Griffin added.

Adequate stocks of supplies and building materials will be available at all times, and skilled workmen will offer a dependable service. Mr. T. J. Harrell, formerly of Windsor, will have charge of our mechanical and construction department. Mr. Harrell is a skilled and expert workman and has devoted his time and life to this particular work.

This new builder's supply firm is housed in a new building. The structure is 64 feet wide and covers a depth of 128 feet. There is an additional shed which covers a space of 12 by 64 feet and a small metal house near the main building for storage.

New machinery has been installed and each individual unit is outfitted with a motor. The following items of machinery have been installed: Small molder, small and large jointer, rip saw, sander, band saw, shaper, planer, mortising machine, a drill press and many other tools and machines needed and useful in the supply business.

FIRST LOSS

(Robersonville Herald)

W. T. Taylor, farmer who lives near here, lost a barn filled with tobacco last Saturday at dusk. Mr. Taylor said the barn and tobacco would exceed a loss first estimated at $350.

Mr. Taylor stated that he had been raising and curing tobacco for the past 45 years and this was his first loss by fire. We have no comparative figures or recorded facts on tobacco barn losses by farmers but we are of the opinion that Mr. Taylor's record is outstanding at least. We know of no other man in the county who has been producing tobacco for so long a time that can boast of such a unique record.

in fairly good shape. At 7 o'clock this morning, the truckers had three small gaps to fill, and the bridge forces were nailing the flooring down on the last of the four wooden structures. Guard railings are being placed on the bridges, and other safety measures are being advanced.

Working on a seven-day schedule, the highway forces this morning first saw the real fruit of their labors when repair crews could be seen on each end from the middle of Conine Creek bridge. There'll be a holiday for most of the forces Sunday. Captain Jack Yount pointing out that it would be the first for most of the men in more than three weeks.

According to unofficial but reliable reports, plans for the permanent restoration of the fill are rapidly taking shape in Raleigh. The first surveys were completed this week, and while no definite plans have been officially announced, it is understood that the old causeway will be raised four feet and widened about sixteen or eighteen feet. Two additional bridges will be placed on the route, one between Conine Creek and the Bertie highlands and one between the two present bridges.

Special Committee Asks Governor To Seek Special Aid

meet again next week for a detailed study of findings and claims. Taking hold where the Red Cross leaves off, the special four-county committee is appealing to the Governor for aid in meeting feed and seed needs on the hundreds of farms where entire crops were ruined by the flood waters. No definite plans have been formulated by the four-county committee, but unofficial reports state that the Farm Security Administration is already making marked progress in the rehabilitation work.

At the conference with the Governor this week, the committee was advised that 400 carloads, or about six solid trains, of eggs would be made available to flood victims in western Carolina and along the Roanoke River. The eggs will be shipped at the rate of about 100 carloads each month and be distributed from cold storage plants in central locations.

The conference proposes to ask the WPA to increase its quotas in those counties where disaster struck. Seed loans will be asked for the purchase of seed for fall planting. It was agreed at the conference that an appeal be directed to Washington for release of feed stuffs for livestock on the flooded farms. It is estimated that 7,200 bushels of corn and 185 tons of hay will be needed to feed the 700 hogs, 50 cattle and 80 team on those farms where the stocks were destroyed along with the growing crops in this county alone.

Messrs. T. B. Brandon, J. R. Winslow, J. E. Pope, J. F. Crisp and Charles Daniel are members of the special relief committee from this county. Upon his return home late Wednesday, Mr. Brandon stated that the committee was well pleased with the reception received in Raleigh, but that the success of the proposed relief program could not be determined at this time. "The plentiful helping of eggs and possibly other food stuffs will come from the Federal Surplus Commodities Corporation, but so far the committee has been unable to learn where feed stuffs can be had. We assigned the Governor the task of finding and getting the feed," Committee member Brandon said.

NOT INTERESTED

Sheriff C. B. Roebuck is convinced that Linwood Moore is not interested in his family or even in his own future. Going to Moultrie, Ga., this week for Moore, who is charged with abandoning his wife and children, the officer stated that during the 700-mile trip back home, the man never mentioned the charge facing him or even inquired about the welfare of his family. Carl Wynne accompanied the officer on the trip, and on their return home the three men talked about current topics.

Weekly Review Of The Farm Markets In North Carolina

Market for Farmer's Stock Peanut Somewhat More Active

Raleigh—Feed markets advanced materially during the past week reflecting principally the limited supplies available for immediate shipment with an active demand from all classes of buyers, the U. S. and North Carolina Departments of Agriculture reported in the weekly market news service review.

Wheat feeds advanced $1 to $2 per ton. Soybean meal was also up $1 to $2 while cottonseed meal declined from $1 to $2 per ton at producing centers. The index number of wholesale feedstuff prices advanced about 4 points to 105.0 compared with 100.9 for the previous week and 117.1 for the corresponding week last year.

The market for farmer's stock Virginia type peanuts in Eastern North Carolina is somewhat more active, and although the price level has not shown much advance a number of millers are offering slightly higher prices than they did a week or two ago. On a delivery point basis best jumbos will command 4 1-8 to 4 1-4 cents and occasionally 4 3-4 per pound and best bunch 3 3-4 to 3.05 cents. Spanish farmers' stock continues nominally at 85 cents per 30 pound bushel. Meanwhile the damage to the growing crop from the heavy rainfall and floods does not now appear as serious as first thought.

From the standpoint of tonnage Tar Heel farm commodities holding the spotlight on the northern wholesale fruit and vegetable markets this week were okra and sweet potatoes. Market trends in New York were mixed with okra weaker at 75 cents to $1 per 1-2 bushel basket and Jersey type and golden sweet potatoes down to $1 to $1.25 a bushel. The Porto Rican variety, however, strengthened slightly and closed at $1.50 to $1.75 a bushel.

Quality egg production continued light but current collection supplies were plentiful in the Raleigh area during the past week. Farm prices, however, continued steady with henry whites eligible for 26 to 27 cents per dozen and current collections for 16 to 17 cents. Live poultry values also held steady at 13 to 14 cents per pound for colored hens and at 17 to 18 cents for heavy fryers.

At Chicago, strictly good and choice grain-fed steers and yearlings again had dependable action on local and outside account, advancing 25 to 40 cents during the week, which included holiday. The same was true of comparable grades of heifers, while short-fed steers and grassy she stock did not fare so well. Hogs lost 15 to 25 cents and native spring lambs edged forward 15 to 25 cents. Frenched steers topped at $13.65, a new high on the crop. Hogs sold at $7.75 early, closed at $7.50 down, while all late lambs sales were downward from $9.50.

In contrast Hog values ruled fully steady throughout the period on the Rocky Mount hog market. At the close, tops for good and choice 180 to 225 pound weights were unchanged from a week ago at $7.10. The Richmond, Virginia market closed the period 10 cents a hundred successful year. Williamston With the elementary enrollment showing an increase of ten, Williamston schools set a new record yesterday with 802 enrolling for the 1940-41 term. An interesting coincidence in the high school enrollment of 207 was the fact that the same number enrolled in 1939. The elementary total was 595 as compared with 585 in 1939. 111 little "tots" were enrolled in the first grade by three teachers, while a real problem was created in the second grade by the enrollment of 96 children.

Schools In County Started New Term Yesterday Morning

A brief exercise marked the opening at the high school where Rev. John Goff conducted a brief devotional exercise and Principal D. N. Hix commented on details of the school program and plans for the year. At the grammar school teachers were busy classifying pupils and issuing textbooks. By Monday textbook distribution will be completed and the regular schedule of classes will be underway.

Home Owners Preparing For The Cold Weather

To save fuel costs, a number of local home owners are having their buildings insulated with Gimco Rock Wool. An application of this wool, which is blown into the walls of the construction or home by special machinery, will also make the building cooler in the summer and warmer in the winter. Mr. Jesse Hardy, manager of the Coastal Insulation and Distribution Company, of Kinston, has been here for the past two days insulating the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. King. A number of homes here have already been insulated and the owners state that the wool is an important factor in keeping their homes warm in the cold months and cool in the extreme hot weather.

Mr. Hardy is making surveys of several homes here and giving the owners an estimated cost of applying the wool without obligation to the owner. The U. S. Surplus Marketing Administration has been authorized to purchase up to 5,000 tons of dried peaches for distribution to needy families of the country. higher at $7.35 top and the Florence, S. C. market, after fluctuating mildly during the week closed steady at $7.25.
