ASKEW-MANNING

The wedding of Miss Eva Gray Manning and Mr. Charles Armon Askew was solemnized in the Piney Grove Baptist Church on Sunday morning at 9 o'clock with Rev. W. B. Harrington, pastor, officiating.

Pines and ferns formed a background for the decorations in the church. Arranged in front of them were tall candelabra in which candles burned. These were interspersed with tall and low baskets of white chrysanthemums and gladioli. Pews for the family and friends were marked with white ribbons and chrysanthemums.

Miss Betty Haywood rendered a program of nuptial music and Miss Marguerite Cook sang, "I Love You Truly," and "Ah, Sweet Mystery of Life." Miss Haywood wore a wine costume and Miss Cook wore a blue outfit with accessories to match. They had Talisman roses in their corsages.

Ushers were Watson Waters and Herbert L. Manning, Jr., brother of the bride.

Miss Mamie Clyde Manning was her sister's maid of honor. She was gowned in a wine costume with blue hat and accessories. Her corsage was of sweetheart roses.

Mr. Askew was attended by his brother, Mr. Wendell Hamilton, of Jamesville, as best man.

The bride was given in marriage by her father, Mr. Herbert L. Manning. She wore a soldier blue costume suit and a corsage of red roses.

Mrs. Manning, mother of the bride, wore black crepe with a white rose corsage. The mother of the groom wore a black costume with a corsage of white roses.

Mrs. Manning is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Herbert L. Manning, of Farm Life. She finished high school there and has taken an active interest in the social and religious life of the community.

Mr. Askew is the son of Mrs. C. A. Askew and the late Mr. Askew, of Jamesville. He is connected with the Williamson Motor Company. Since Mr. Askew has lived in Williamson he has made many friends.

After a short wedding trip the couple will make their home with Mr. Askew's mother in Jamesville.

GOLDMAN-BAIN

Miss Victory Bain, daughter of Mr. Martin Bain, of Philadelphia, and the late Mrs. Bain, and Milton Goldman, of Williamston, son of Mr. and Mrs. David Goldman, of Philadelphia, were married at Broad Street Mansion, Philadelphia, Sunday afternoon, September 22, with the Rabbi of the bride officiating.

A program of nuptial music was played by the orchestra prior to the ceremony and the soloist sang, "I Love You Truly" and "Because."

The ten ushers came from the bridal room in pairs and took their places under the arches formed by tall white standards filled with gladioli, dahlias and asters with ferns and other greenery interspersed. Miss Dorothy Myers, cousin of the bride, was the maid of honor, and Mrs. Morris Perry, sister of the groom, was dame of honor. Mr. Goldman had as his best man his brother-in-law, Mr. Morris Perry.

The groom entered with his parents and took his place under the canopy to wait for the bride who entered with her father and her grandmother. She entered to the strains of the traditional wedding march played on chimes.

Mrs. Goldman wore a white satin wedding gown trimmed with mother of pearl and her veil was caught with a mother of pearl coronet. She carried a white Bible with a single white orchid from which hung white ribbons and rosebuds.

The groom is assistant secretary of the Goldman Package Company and has made a host of friends here, where the young couple will make their home on Academy Street extension.

Following the ceremony a five-course dinner was served in the banquet room of the hall to 185 guests, after which a dance was held for approximately 300 guests.

Things To Watch For In The Future

Two non-skid items: A new paint that can be applied to any type floor to form a durable, granular, non-slip surface, without using ground glass or sand or other abrasive; and a bathtub with a serpentine-embossed bottom that gives a firm, non-slippery foothold. A shortage of wedding rings as a result of the pending conscription bill; one company whose production has been stepped up to 1,500 rings a day is unable to keep up with the demand.
