

Sufficient Supply Sulphate Of Potash

Raleigh, Oct. 3—State Department of Agriculture officials made the announcement today, based on reports considered during the past few days, that there is not only a sufficient supply of sulphate of potash now in this country for growing the 1941 tobacco crop but that "in another twelve months the United States will be wholly independent of foreign markets" for this essential ingredient of fertilizers.

Department officials are making the information about the sulphate of potash supply available to farmers at this time because of a large number of inquiries the department has received about reports of a possible shortage due to war conditions in other countries.

Assistant Commissioner D. S. Coltrane said that his information was that at least three American manufacturers are now producing sulphate of potash. He said that he had checked the available supply with the American Potash Institute and in North Carolina with officials of the Plant Food Institute of North Carolina and Virginia.

"The fertilizer industry," Coltrane explained, "is not effected by any war shortage of these materials because, in large part, the manufacturers had the foresight both to make the purchases and the good fortune to obtain the deliveries well in advance of the outbreak of the war. They were successful, too, in staggering their orders after the war to such an extent that their supply on hand is sufficient for use in growing tobacco for which this particular fertilizer is most widely used."

Department officials also announced that they had found the manufacturers of fertilizers sold in this State anxious to co-operate with them in preventing the offering of inferior substitutes.

Trade Channels To Stay Open In East

With events in the Far East taking an ominous turn, the news that trade channels with the Dutch East Indies, Australia, the Philippines, the Hawaiian Islands, and New Zealand will be cleared as much as possible by the American Arbitration Association becomes important for businessmen in the United States. That news comes from Cornelius Vanderbilt Whitney, board chairman of Pan American Airways and director of the Arbitration Association. Whitney just arrived in the U. S. after a five-week tour by air of the embattled area plus visits to Hongkong and Singapore. Speaking as chairman of the association's board of liaison officers, Whitney announced that every effort would be made to keep commercial disputes from disrupting trade between the Americas and the countries in the Pacific. Such disputes, he declared, may even now be settled quickly by mail, through the association without the disputants ever seeing one another.

FOR FEEDING, USE FEED

Dirt, trash, linters and excess oil in cottonseed limit the potential feeding value contained in the meats and hulls. For this reason, experienced cotton growers and livestock feeders know that they secure the most value from cottonseed by selling it and obtaining cottonseed meal, or cake and hulls.

By J. Q. PATRICK The Everetts P. T. A. will hold its first general meeting Monday, October 7, in the Everetts school auditorium at 7:30, with its president, Mrs. A. P. Barnhill, presiding.

The faculty and students are grateful for the splendid work done by last year's P. T. A. and this year, we look for greater accomplishments under experienced leadership. Officers of the P. T. A. who are serving for the second year are: Mrs. A. P. Barnhill, president, and Doris Everett, secretary and treasurer. The one new officer is Mrs. Herman Williams, vice president.

It is our wish that this year we might reach every parent in Everetts school district. We owe it to our children and to our community to make this school year the best yet.

At our first P. T. A. meeting, October 7, the seventh grade is giving a short play written by four members of the class and entitled "Accomplishments of Columbus." Parents, let's give our children encouragement by backing their program with our presence at every P. T. A. meeting this year.

Our big business to be brought up at this first meeting is school needs for the year and ways of raising money to meet these needs. Your ideas and interest are needed.
