Former Local Man Returns For Visit

Fifty years ago when the firm of Biggs and Davenport suspended business in the building now occupied by the Geo. Reynolds Hotel, Dick Knight, a clerk, was thrown out of work. A young man then, Mr. Knight moved to Washington where he spent a few years and then located in Durham. Day before yesterday he returned here for a visit and Mr. Warren H. Biggs saw and recognized him as the former clerk in the local store. Mr. Knight recognized Mr. Biggs, too.

The two chatted a short while about old times. Mr. Biggs explaining that he was just a small kid and that Mr. Knight was a grown man back in 1891.

The late Mr. Henry Crawford, Pat Gardner and Will Gray clerked with Mr. Knight and the store was one of the largest in the section. "I also remember Will Gray very well," Mr. Biggs said. "He started me chewing tobacco about that time and I used to go into the store with a penny and get a pocketful of loose tobacco from him. He would run his hand into a big tub of tobacco and slip a whole handful of it into my pocket for one penny." Warren said.

About fifty years ago Sam W. Worthington left Williamston, and he too visited here this week from Wilson. His father represented Martin County in the North Carolina General Assembly several terms. Mr. Biggs also chatted with the Wilson man about old times.

Demand For Furnished Rooms And Apartments

A increased demand for furnished apartments and rooms was reported here today as highway engineers and construction forces started making ready to move in for work on the river fill.

Democrats Of First District Rally At Hertford Thursday

God fearing people. He will dedicate his splendid talents to the service of his native state. Today this representative assembly of the First District Democracy acclaims him as our next Governor.

"Sixteen years ago our Sovereign Democracy of the historic First District placed its banner in the hands of a brilliant, gallant, steadfast and worthy son of North Carolina as has ever stood as the representative of a free constituency in the National House of Representatives. With a distinguished background, noble son of a noble father, equipped by education and training, experienced in both branches of the State Legislature, wise in council, brilliant in debate and with mental equipment and temperament, character and courage, of the kind needed for leadership in a parliamentary body. Lindsay Warren entered national political life as the possessor of those attributes of leadership and statesmanship, that pointed unerringly to a position of eminence in the councils of the party and the nation. The dream of his most ardent admirers and enthusiastic partisans have been more than fulfilled in sixteen years of diligent and faithful service in a crucial period of American history. His devotion to North Carolina is such that every fibre of his being thrills at the mention of her name. It was as natural for him to devote his talents, his energy and wisdom to the service of his native state and district as it was for him to breathe. We have sat together at the same council tables of democracy, fought side by side on the same battlefields of democracy, and have followed together the same battle flag of democracy. When the regularly constituted representatives of the Democratic party, acting under the laws of North Carolina, and the Democratic plan of organization, made me the duly accredited and regularly nominated candidate for Congress I accepted the nomination with a sense of humility but with a profound feeling of dedication. In placing the standard of the First District Democracy in my hands, in naming me as the successor of my cherished friend, your eminent congressman, whose services to his district and state and country, have placed him in the first rank of contemporary statesmen, and in giving me this opportunity for public service, you have placed upon my soul a debt of infinite and undying gratitude, which I shall only hope to requite by bearing your standard unswayed to victory, and by dedicating myself to the diligent and faithful service of this great North Carolina constituency. To that victory and that service I pledge myself today.

Can anyone here recall any good that came during the days of Republican rule in North Carolina. Did it leave any monuments recalling good, honest, clean government, that can be pointed to with pride—No—the history made by the Republican party in North Carolina is best forgotten. On the other hand the history of Democratic party is one of forward marching, always striving for a more abundant life and happier environment. Our schools, our roads, our institutions for the blind, and afflicted, and many other benefits we enjoy are all founded and perpetuated by the Democratic leadership of North Carolina and will continue in accordance with the standard of the day, under the party now in power. With respect to our national affairs—we only have to refresh your memory during the past seven and a half years, for prior to that, under the leadership of Herbert Hoover what did you enjoy? Poverty, misery and distress. You recall the Hoover carts. If you didn't ride in one, you were extremely fortunate. I know of hundreds of men who rode in them, and now under Franklin D. Roosevelt, are riding in comfort. The very people who term themselves Willkie Democrats were the first to rush to Washington City, crying to Roosevelt to serve them—and he did.

"But, sad to say, they have forgotten. Who were they? The bankers, the bondholders and stockholders. Then what did he do? He cleaned up the banks—refinanced them through the Reconstruction Finance Corporation and they are now well. But he also made secure your small bank accounts through the Federal Deposit Insurance Corporation. Through WPA and PWA, thousands of honorable and worthy men and women have been saved.

"Also through the Civilian Conservation Corps, young boys have been properly occupied and given useful employment and training; Home Owners' Loan and Federal Housing Administration, Rural Electrification, National Youth Administration; Farm Security Program—Peanut stabilization, cotton and tobacco. All of these, the Republican nominee for the Presidency, praises. The egg that Willkie received on his recent visit to the Northwest was bad. But he had been egged on at Philadelphia by the monied and selfish interests. His greatest egg will come on November 5th when Franklin D. Roosevelt returns him to the presidency of the Commonwealth and Southern."

Openings For Young Men In Civil Service

In connection with the National Defense Program, the United States Civil Service has announced examinations to fill the positions of border patrolman, safety instructor and junior pharmacist. The salaries range from $1,800 to $2,000 a year. Applications should be filed with F. E. Wynne, secretary of the Civil Service, Williamston, immediately.

Woman's Club In Wednesday Meet

The Woman's Club met Wednesday with a good representation of the members present. After singing "God Bless America," a short business session was held. The club voted to invite the clubs of the district to hold their annual meeting here next year. Upon request of Mr. Hix, superintendent of the schools, 25 dollars was donated to the fund necessary to revive the organization of the Williamston High School band. Then plans for the improvement of the cemetery were shown and they greatly pleased the members of the club who have been interested in its improvement so long. The only suggestion that the women had to offer was to add the older section to the cemetery to the project. The committee was asked to see the town fathers in regard to this as this could be done without much expense.

Miss Sleeper, chairman of the American Home Department, was in charge of the program and she presented Mr. Sam Nash, of Tarboro, who gave a lecture on the culture of azaleas and camelia japonicas. His talk on the subject was practical and instructive to those interested in these beautiful plants.

Volunteers Called To Aid Registrars In Handling Tasks

offer assistance are urged to get in touch with Chief Registrars S. H. Grimes or O. S. Anderson.

The registrations will be handled in the American Legion hut on Watts Street here, just back of the County Agricultural building. Young men in the specified age group will register there from both the No. 1 and No. 2 Williamston precincts. It was announced today.

No definite plans have been agreed upon, but it is possible that a "flying squadron" will consider handling registrations on the premises of the several industrial plants here. These arrangements will be advanced or rejected at the direction of the plant operators and at the discretion of the draft registration authorities. It will be possible, it was pointed out, to handle the registrations at each plant in less than an hour. If the registration is handled for the mill workers off the premises it might be necessary to close down the plants for the day.

In an effort to handle the registrations as rapidly as possible, several registrars are gathering scales to weigh and yard sticks for determining heights of the registrants as they enter the places of registration. Two persons will be assigned to that task, and they will give the registrant his weight and height on a slip of paper which will materially aid the registration work.

Uncle Sam, judging from rules and regulations placed in the hands of the chairman of the Martin County Board of Elections, meant business when he called for a registration of all men 21 years of age on through 35 years on Wednesday of next week. The rules and regulations governing the registration are applicable to the registration officials and others charged with administering provisions of the act as well as the young men falling into the age group.

"Any person charged with the duty of carrying out any of the provisions of the act, or the rules and regulations made or directions given under the act who knowingly makes improper, false or incorrect registrations or who counsels improper classifications shall, upon conviction, be punished by imprisonment for not more than five years or a fine of $10,000 or by both," reads in substance a paragraph from the Selective Service Regulations.

All men between 21-35 years of age, inclusive, are to report for registration in their respective precincts or at the nearest place of registrations should they be away from home. Any man falling in the specified age group and who is sick shall send a relative to the place of registration. The relative will be deputized, handed a card and he will return to the sick man, fill in the necessary information and return the card to the place of registration. If the patient is too ill to register he will report to the local draft board as soon as he is able.

Registrars are warned to be patient and refrain from argument. The registration of each man should average about twenty minutes.

Cotton Farmers Are Getting More Checks

Cotton price adjustment payments were pushed to a total of $20,763.22 for Martin County farmers this week when 48 additional checks amounting to $587.83 were delivered to the owners who had cooperated in the AAA soil conservation program.

It is estimated that four-fifths of the cotton price adjustment payments have been made in this county, that the total will possibly exceed $25,000. Approximately 200 applications for payments are now before the Washington office of the Agricultural Adjustment Administration and more checks are expected in the county within a short time.

Mr. and Mrs. Pettigrew, of Wake Forest, visited here today.

Urgent calls are being made for men experienced in the mechanical field. These jobs pay as much as $2,600 a year.

Sheriff's Report For Past Month

Sheriff C. B. Roebuck and his office force had a busy schedule in September, collecting tax dollars and maintaining the peace and quiet, and waiting on the courts. The officer frankly states, after taking in more than $26,000 in taxes, that the financial situation in the county is not near as bad as he thought it was going to be.

The report follows:
Amount of taxes collected, $26,137.21; number of arrests on jail record, 58; warrants served, 23; capias served, 3; subpoenas served, 179; civil papers served, 13-36 copies; executions served, 6; jurors summoned, 12; investigations made, 14; miles traveled 2 cars, 2,993; service rendered superior court, two weeks; service rendered recorder's court, two days.

Miss Christine Jenkins is visiting in Raleigh this week-end.
