Happenings In The Farm Life School

Book Week was observed in the high school in a very interesting manner last week. After learning about the derivation of book week, numerous ways to encourage book reading were suggested. A most attractive poster was made for the library by Reba Faye Griffin and Georgia Dean Roberson. Book jackets are on display in the library, and thus each student is reminded at all times of the good books that are yet unread by him.

The parent-teacher association will hold its regular meeting for November tonight at 7:30. Mrs. Eason Lilley will preside and the third grade will give a short program on the different types of music. The junior and senior classes will give a short program of humorous readings and popular songs.

The girls and boys' basketball teams are perfecting their organizations with daily practices, and it is believed that they will be able to boast of a much better record at the end of this season than the previous one. Coach Perry is well pleased with the progress made thus far. The girls, coached by Mr. Martin suffered the loss of one player by graduation and the boys lost three.

Miss Whitehurst's room has made enough money to purchase a series of readers for supplementary reading. The students are delighted with the books.

Mr. Martin has purchased books for all of the elementary grades, and the books will arrive in the near future. A special effort is being made this year to build up the grammar grade's library.

All schools in the county were suspended Friday at noon in order that the teachers could attend the district meeting of the North Carolina Education Association held in Greenville.

The seventh graders have become very proficient in volley ball, and are very well pleased with their recently acquired volley ball equipment.

Mr. Perry's ninth grade will entertain in chapel Friday with a Thanksgiving program. Under the direction of Reba Faye Griffin, the following program will be given: Bible reading, Dalmir Gray Manning; reading, Reba Griffin; play, "God Bless America," Cairo Lilley, Hazel Hardison, Theima Griffin, Georgia Dean Roberson, Reba Faye Griffin, Elsie Bennett Lilley, Nannie Margaret Roberson, Mildred Lilley, Allie Hardison, Josephine Hardison and Evelyn Hardison.

The Etiquette Club will meet at the regular time Wednesday afternoon with Eloise Hodges presiding. A lunch will be served and the proper use of table silver taught.

The first aid room has new equipment and a few more things are to be bought soon. There are two first aid kits in the room, a comfortable cot, mirror, rocker and a few other necessities.

The equipment for the science department has arrived and now the school is proud of a comparatively well equipped laboratory.

ENTERTAINS AT BRIDGE
Mrs. John A. Ward entertained at bridge at her home on Williams Street on Thursday. The fall motif was carried out in flowers and tallies, with Mrs. Dewey Hayman passing out tallies in the afternoon and Mrs. F. E. Bufflap at night.

In the afternoon Mrs. T. B. Brandon won high score, receiving a pair of Godey Prints; Mrs. K. B. Crawford received ash trays for low, and Mrs. C. H. Godwin, a blue antique vase, for traveling.

Mrs. Daisy Pope received a bath mat for high score in the evening; Mrs. H. D. Harrison, a crystal vase for low, and Mrs. F. U. Barnes, dusting powder as traveling prize.

A salad plate, with spiced tea, was served.

The following played in the afternoon: Mesdames Herbert Taylor, Le-man Barnhill, James Manning, Dewey Hayman, J. D. Woolard, Charles Peele, Tom Brandon, Ray Goodman, David Graham Ball, William G. Peel, Marion Cobb, Clyde Griffin, Herbert Clark, C. C. Parker, Kader Crawford, B. W. Nash, Marvin Britton, Frank J. Margolis, George Whitehurst, Charles Leonard, Hubert Coburn, Harold Hargett and Francis Manning.

Playing at night were Mesdames Mack Simpson, Harrell Everett, H. O. Peele, W. C. Mercer, A. J. Osten, Ernest Etheridge, Daisy Pope, David Hix, John Williams, N. C. Green, Jimmy Taylor, Joe Glenn, G. Woolard, Roy McClees, Frank Barnes, Arthur Bertollett, C. B. Clark, Jr., Jessup Harrison, David Davis, H. D. Harrison, Victor Brown, Titus Critcher, James C. Cook, J. L. Spencer, Francis Barnes, F. E. Wynne, K. D. Worrell, F. E. Bufflap, Ira Harrison and Miss Marie Griffin.

Mesdames William Howard Griffin, W. E. Dunn, Roy T. Griffin and Miss Marjorie Gray Dunn assisted the hostess in serving.

Bear Grass Pupils Inspect Fort Bragg

By NAOMI BROWN
The Juniors and Seniors of the Bear Grass High School, with their teachers, met Saturday morning, November 9th, about 6:30 to go to Fort Bragg. We left at 6:45, and arrived at Fort Bragg about 10:30.

One of the military officers at Fort Bragg took us over the camp and told us something about it. He said that at the beginning of the present national emergency there were 4,000 men enlisted at Fort Bragg. At present there are 800 officers and nurses and over 16,000 enlisted men. About the first of July there will be about 65,000. When the program that is planned is completed, there will be about 100,000 enlisted.

The 13th Field Artillery Brigade, which is at Fort Bragg, is composed of two regiments of field artillery—the 13th and the 36th, an observation battalion, and other units. The balloon squadron and an air observation squadron are at Pope Field, the military airport of the camp.

The largest organization is the 8th infantry division, which is now under tents, but is soon to occupy a completely equipped canteen area the northeastern part of the reservation.

The reservation begins at a point about ten miles northwest of Fayetteville and extends westward for about 24 miles, to the vicinity of Southern Pines. Averaging about 8 miles in width, the reservation contains about 122,000 acres.

There is a big building program underway now. There are 10,000 carpenters at work, and they are expecting 10,000 more. They are completing, on the average, three buildings per day.

The officer told us that the day before we went he saw the supply department bring in a carload of flour, a carload of black pepper, a carload of applesauce, and three carloads of mattresses.

The most interesting scene we saw was at the dinner hour. The soldiers, each with his mess kit, lined up for lunch. They ate from tin plates and cups. When they finished eating, each one dipped his dishes into a pot of boiling water and then dried them. This was all the washing they got.

We left the camp and went back to Fayetteville, where we had lunch. We then left for home and got back to Bear Grass about six o'clock. In all, we had driven about 322 miles on the trip.
