Mrs. Eason Lilley Wins Contest Prize

Mrs. Eason Lilley, of the Macedonia Home Demonstration club, was the first-prize winner from the county in a state-wide canning contest. The canning contest was held locally in the county in September. Thirteen women participated in the contest. Mrs. Eason Lilley won first place in the county and her three jars were taken to Raleigh by the home agent to enter the state contest. The canning exhibit consisted of canned veal, soup mixture and peaches.

The state contest had 36 other counties participating and Mrs. Lilley was given fourth prize in the state of three dollars. The county entered the contest only one time before this year and there were insufficient entries.

Mrs. H. B. Bowman, of Lee County, was the first prize winner in the state, receiving $20. Miss Ethel Sherman, of Yadkin County, received second prize of $15; Mrs. J. O. Pritchard, of Camden County, won third prize of $10; Mrs. Eason Lilley, $3.00 and Mrs. Ben Fitzgerald, of Caswell County, fifth prize, of $2.00. Mrs. Cornelia Morris, of State College, stated the exhibits were far superior to any ever submitted before.

Mattress Project

Through last Friday 132 mattresses had been made and delivered at the county mattress center in Everetts. Of these mattresses 42 of them were made by the Farm Security Administration during the month of November under the supervision of Miss Emelyne Evans.

Mrs. Champion And Mrs. Kitchin Honored At Tea

Mrs. J. G. Staton was a charming hostess at a tea at her home Wednesday from three until six o'clock in honor of Mesdames Victor Champion and Travis Kitchin.

Guests were greeted by Mrs. Charles Godwin, Jr., and shown into the living room to greet the hostess and honor guests, and Mrs. John Hardy. In the den, Mrs. J. S. Rhodes presided over the register.

Mrs. F. U. Barnes poured tea and was assisted in the dining room by Mesdames Rome Biggs and Sebastian Macon. Misses Marjorie Gray Dunn, Elizabeth Parker, Nancy Mercer, Ann Fowden, Mary O'Neal Pope and Sylvia Green served dainty sandwiches, cakes, nuts and mints.

Miss Betsy Manning held the card tray, and Mrs. Paul Simpson bade the guests goodbye, presenting each with a dainty handkerchief from an old-fashioned basket. Approximately 150 guests called during the afternoon.

CHESSON-WARD

Miss Marjorie Ward, daughter of Mr. W. J. Ward and the late Mrs. Ward of this city, became the bride of Mr. Ellis Chesson, of Williamston, in a ceremony of dignity and charm solemnized on Thursday evening at the home of the bride's father on Railroad Street. The home was decorated in bridal green and white. Southern smilax and white chrysanthemums formed a lovely background for the wedding scene. Rev. E. C. Shoe, pastor of the bride, officiated using the impressive ring ceremony.

Mrs. Chesson, attractive young lady of the local younger set, is a graduate of the Robersonville High School, and also of the commercial class of the same school.

Mr. Chesson, graduate of Williamston High School, now holds a position as assistant manager of Pender's store in Williamston.

After a wedding trip to unknown points, they will be at home in Williamston.

Emblem Recognized During Early Part Of The Civil War

Present Flag Designed and Legally Adopted in The Year 1885

It may be of interest and it may come as a surprise to learn that it was only 78 years ago that legal steps were taken to establish and recognize a state flag for North Carolina, an ordinance concerning the state flag having been ratified on June 22, 1861, as appears in Ordinance Laws of N. C., 1862-1863.

The flag adopted in 1861 is said to have had the state seal and date, May 20, 1861, when North Carolina seceded from the Union, which was responsible for the selection and adoption of a state flag.

The flag was designed by William G. Brown, an eminent artist of Raleigh, and this flag was issued to the first ten regiments of N. C. troops. It was borne by them throughout the war, being the only flag except the Confederate colors used by the N. C. troops during the war between the States.

This model was used until 1885, when the present state flag was designed, consisting of a blue union, containing in the center a white star with the letters "N. C." in gilt on the left and right of the star. The fly of the flag consists of two equally proportioned bars, the upper red and the lower white. The total length of the flag is one-third more than the width.

The two dates on the scrolls make proud days for North Carolina history: May 20, 1775, being the date that the little band of Mecklenburg patriots declared themselves independent of the English King; and the second date, April 12, 1776, commemorating the day on which the Halifax convention directed the N. C. delegates to the Continental Congress to vote for a separation from England.

In 1907 the legislature passed an act requiring the state flag to be flown from all state institutions, public buildings and courthouses. The symbol of the government to which the people of North Carolina owe allegiance and from which they secure protection is recognized by many public and private schools and fraternal orders that now fly the state flag. The state law requires that a N. C. flag be displayed behind the judge's stand in every county courthouse. The state law requires that upon the death of any state official the flag shall be put at half-mast until the burial of such person shall have taken place. A flag at half-mast symbolizes mourning. When a flag is to go at half-mast, it is first raised to the top of the staff and then lowered a distance equal to the width of the flag.

It is said that the word "flag" is spelled nearly the same in all languages and originally signified "that which hangs". Flags combine much that is beautiful, historical and inspiring, and cannot fail to thrill the heart of every American. They are "emblems of our unity, emblems of our liberty" and of our thought and purpose as a state and nation.

Local Young Man Honored At University Recently

Ray Goodmon, Jr., was accorded an unusual honor recently when he was elected a member of the student legislature in the University of North Carolina, Chapel Hill. The local young man represents the freshman class.

Blackout For Kiwanis Club Here Last Night

It was a blackout for the local Kiwanis club last evening when the ladies "missed the bus" and made no preparations for the regular meeting of the organization. Sergeant L. L. Jackson, of the highway patrol, was to have addressed the group.

The cafes and Willie Watts' oyster bar picked up extra business, but a few of the husbands just went without a meal, and did not complain, either.

In Ahoskie Today

Mr. George Mauhler is attending to business in Ahoskie today.

Move To Main Street

Baby Contest Nets County School $73

Under the auspices of the glee club of Gold Point colored school, a baby contest was held in the school auditorium Monday night. Ruth Hill Anthony supervised the contest.

The baby having the most votes was Maggie Gene Matthews and netted $21.25 for the school. Other contestants were Annie Marie Briley, $14.00; Linwood Parker, $10.27; Mary Gladys Andrews, $7.15; Rosa Juanita Bell, $5.00; Elsie Mae Mabry, $3.95. The winner received a metal rocking chair and the others were awarded prizes.

The glee club will give the P.T.A. of the school $73.03, the total amount received from the contest, which will be used to complete payments on the piano and to install electric lights in the building. The club has as its goal for the school year $100.

Expected Home Tomorrow

Mr. T. B. Brandon is expected home tomorrow from Chicago where he attended the International livestock show as president of the North Carolina County Agents' association.
