Learning Nazi Farm Tasks

Every man, woman and child in Germany is expected to help keep the war machine rolling. These frauleins are being initiated into the mysteries of mangle, so they can replace farm hands needed elsewhere. The rubber udder is filled with water, not precious milk, for the lessons.

Korean Lespedeza Is Not Suited To The Coastal Plain

Farmers of the Coastal Plain should plant Kobe lespedeza, advises E. C. Blair, agronomist of the State College Extension Service. Korean is not adapted to the Coastal Plain, he says.

Blair stated that the scarcity and high price of Kobe variety seed will undoubtedly cause Coastal Plain farmers to sow Korean instead. "These farmers are likely to be disappointed," he declared. "Korean lespedeza makes a very weak growth on most Coastal Plain soils, especially on the very sandy and very acid soils."

The extension specialist says that Kobe lespedeza is well worth the difference in price of seed, because of its far greater yield in hay. The seed can be made to go further by drilling them on small grain instead of broadcasting them. If drilled one-half inch deep in late February, with superphosphate, basic slag, fertilizer or lime, 15 pounds of seed will plant an acre. Thirty or more pounds of seed should be used when broadcast.

Blair suggests that Coastal Plain farmers use soybeans or cowpeas for a hay crop if Kobe lespedeza seed cannot be obtained. Good hay varieties of soybeans are Ootootan, Clemson and Laredo, while Iron and Brabham rank among the best of the cowpeas. They are also resistant to wilt.

For best results in the Coastal Plain, sow soybeans in June and fertilize with 400 pounds of 2-3-6 or 0-8-6 fertilizer per acre. Whether or not to use 2 per cent nitrogen depends upon the fertility of the soil.

The rate of seeding when broadcast should be one bushel of cowpeas, three pecks of small soybean seed, or one and one-half to two bushels of large-seeded soybeans per acre. Blair recommends about one-half these amounts when planting in narrow rows.

LONG-McINNIS

In a private ceremony, Miss Lucia McInnis became the bride of James William Long Friday night at seven o'clock in the home of Mr. and Mrs. Garland Coltrain on Haughton Street. Rev. John L. Goff officiated.

The living room was attractively decorated with roses and ivy. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. McInnis, of Little Rock, S. C., and the late Mr. McInnis, and has been a teacher in the Jamesville school for the past two years. She wore for her wedding an attractive outfit of beige with brown accessories with a shoulder corsage of talisman roses.

Mr. Long, son of Mr. John Long and the late Mrs. Long, of Jamesville, is in the mercantile business in that town.

Following a short wedding trip, the young couple are at home in Jamesville.

Entertains At Party

Miss Beatrice Turner entertained members of the Intermediate class of Williams Chapel Sunday School at a party given at her home Friday night.

Games and songs led and directed by Mesdames Ethel Leggett and Vanoy Smith, were played and sung. Roy Manning received high score prize in a guessing game and each guest received a favor.

Sandwiches, fruit salad and tea were served to the following members: Lucy Belflower, Lula, Shirley and Henry Harrington, Randolph Thompson, Rufus Manning, William and Stewart Harrell, Billy Thompson, Edna Smith, Ola, Bessie and Vernon Coffield, Roy Manning, Lois and Luke Harrell, Jr., Thomas and Albert Smith and Irvin Hyman.

Advised To Take a Rest

Miss Hulda Roberson, who was in Washington last week for a medical examination, was advised to take a two weeks' rest in her home near Gold Point. At the expiration of two weeks she will return for a further examination.

Miss Roberson's position with the Williamston Motor Company is being filled temporarily by Mrs. Helen Roberson.

BOMBED-OUT LONDONERS THANKFUL FOR 'BUNDLES'

NEW YORK—Short-wave night broadcasts by air-raid wardens and patrol units in England frequently name Bundles for Britain in thanking Americans for relief supplies for the victims of total war.

Letters to Bundles for Britain tell of the safe arrival of shipments in England and paint touching pictures of the comforts knitted goods and warm clothing provide for service men and bombed-out civilians.

"Thank Heaven For 'Bundles'" "In London they are thanking heaven for Bundles for Britain, which are going direct to the naked and homeless people there," Valentine Ackland, English poet, writes. "A girl told me of a family of ten, who'd lost everything and were in their night clothes, without money, food, clothes—even without shoes. They went to the centre where bundles were being given out and each got a bundle. Bundles for Britain has been a salvation to the people in London."

A case sent by Bundles for Britain to the Depot for Knitted Garments for the Royal Navy, London, arrived with a piece of a German shell in it, while another was part empty as a result of "enemy action."

"Grateful For Wonderful Help" "We are immensely grateful for all this wonderful help which is being given by your organization," the secretary of the depot writes. "Similar letters of acknowledgment have come from the Soldier's, Sailor's and Airman's Families Association, the Royal Air Force..."

Canteens A God Send

"Where people slept, I don't know, with houses gone and shelters flooded. As there was neither light, gas, heat or water, you can imagine how welcome the canteens were to these thirsty people. I do hope you realize how appreciated American generosity is by people over here."

"It is magnificent the gifts you are sending over to our homeless people," writes Mrs. E. A. Rose of the Pembroke Depot, London. "If you can, put in a word that the clothes should be as warm as possible. The poor souls have only the one outfit given them. Often the outfit is very scanty and it is essential that what they get should be thick and warm."

Sings for Soldiers

Comely Deane Janis, night club singer and relative of Elsie Janis, World War entertainer who was known as the "sweetheart of the AEF," is to entertain the men in training at the various army camps. She is pictured in Miami.

Helpful Hints In Getting Highest Price For Eggs

T. T. Brown, Extension poultry specialist of State College, has outlined a six-point program for selling quality eggs: (1) Grade for size and interior quality; (2) candle to remove stale eggs and ones with blood spots, and to separate according to interior quality; (3) make at least two grade sizes, and use extremely large, very small, and dirty eggs at home; (4) clean slightly dirty or stained eggs with emery cloth or damp cloth and soda, but never wash them; (5) use good cases with clean fillers and flats, or pack eggs in attractively labeled cartons; and (6) market eggs twice weekly.

New Circular Issued And One Is Revised

Publication of a new circular on "Azaleas" and the revision of another circular on "Fruits and Nuts for Home Use," is announced by F. H. Jeter, agricultural editor of N. C. State College. Both are available for free distribution to interested citizens of North Carolina.

The former is Extension Circular No. 246, titled "Azaleas," and the revised publication is Extension Circular No. 210, "Fruits and Nuts for Home Use." Requests should be addressed to the Agricultural Editor, N. C. State College, Raleigh, specifying the name and number of the circular.

The Azalea circular was authored by James G. Weaver, floriculturist of the State College, horticultural department. In it Prof. Weaver lists the varieties of azaleas best adapted to the various climatic and soil conditions of the State. He also recommends methods of propagation, preparation of the soil, planting, mulching, fertilization, watering, pruning and winter protection.

The latest information on varieties and fertilization of fruits and nuts is incorporated in the revised Extension Circular No. 210 by H. R. Niswonger, Extension horticulturist and E. B. Morrow, research horticulturist of State College. The publication on fruits and nuts is expected to be in great demand this year as North Carolina farm people turn their attention towards an improvement in nutritional standards, and towards farm enterprises to supplement cash income. "The promotion of health is a defense measure being stressed in rural areas," Niswonger declared, "and fruits are essential to a balanced diet."
