THE RUFFED GROUSE

In the Carolina mountains the Ruffed Grouse is known as the Pheasant, and in the north it is called a Partridge, though the true Pheasant and Partridge are very different birds. It is about the size of a bantam fowl, of stocky build and of a general brown tone, lighter underneath, but with feather markings that are very beautiful on close inspection.

It is one of our finest game birds, and its wariness, speed and dodging ability offer an exacting test for the skill of the hunter. A striking characteristic is the resonant drumming, most frequent in the spring mating season, but often heard at other times. It is produced by rapid beating of the male bird's wings as he stands upon a log or other elevation, with his tail spread and his beautiful ruff extended.

In the fall projections grow along the edges of the Grouse's toes which widen their tread and serve as snowshoes. The Grouse delight in snow and, though they roost in trees in the summer, prefer to sleep under the snow in winter, and will frequently plunge into deep snowbanks to escape pursuing enemies.

The male may have several mates, but usually takes no part in making the nest or rearing the young. It is said that he will sometimes come at the mother's call to help her fight for the brood against a threatening enemy, and that he has been known to take charge of the little birds when the mother has been killed.

Like the Bob-white, the Ruffed Grouse can be multiplied by artificial propagation, and, in its natural environment, increases rapidly under proper conservation.—N. C. Bird Club.

Junior Club Holds Meet Wednesday

The Junior Woman's Club held its regular monthly meeting last Tuesday night at the Woman's Club building. After calling the meeting to order, the club members, led by the president, Mrs. J. A. Eason, read the collect and sang the Woman's Club song, accompanied at the piano by Mrs. Garland Barnhill.

After the roll call, the reading of the minutes of the previous meeting, and the treasurer's report, the meeting was turned over to the program committee.

Mrs. Sam Edwards, Mrs. Hubert Coburn and Mrs. Ernest Etheridge presented a most unique and enjoyable program on "Poetry and Drama," the topic assigned for this meeting. First on the program was an old favorite of all ages, "Little Black Sambo," ably enacted by the first grade pupils under the direction of their teacher, Miss Clarine Duke.

Then Miss Mary O'Neal Pope, accompanied by Miss Kathryn Mewborn, sang beautifully one of our most famous poems that has ever been put to music, Joyce Kilmer's "Trees."

The last part of the program was presented by Mrs. Wheeler Manning, who highly entertained the club members with several humorous readings.

After presentation of the program several of the club projects were discussed and a letter from Dr. E. T. Walker in which he expressed his appreciation to the Junior Woman's Club, for their cooperation in the recent Infantile Paralysis Fund campaign, was read. Since there was no other business to be discussed, the club adjourned.

Visits Here Wednesday

Miss Elizabeth Cooper, of Windsor, visited here Wednesday afternoon.

MR. FARMER, Remember there is only one Channel Drain Roofing. It gives you many years longer service and when it rains it drains. Often times you will be told that some other Sheet Roofing is Just As Good as Channel Drain. Why take this chance! Demand the original. Please keep this in mind that when you ride along the road and see a rusty roof "That's Not Channel Drain." So as protection to yourself, see that the word Channel Drain is on every sheet of metal you buy.

To My Farmer Friends

Having made a change in tobacco business in Greenville, I am now using this method of telling my friends that I am no longer connected with the firm of Forbes and Morton.

I have sold to Mr. Morton my entire holdings in the Forbes & Morton Warehouse. I am not going out of business, however. I have rented the Gorman's Warehouse and will run this house for the sale of tobacco the year 1941. I will have as partners in my business, Yock Joyner and my son, Harold Forbes.

I wish to say for the past 22 years I have been connected with the sale of tobacco. I have given my friends, and especially those who sold tobacco with me, my best, and as long as I follow the sale I expect to continue to give them all I have.

As far as I know, I am the only warehouseman in North Carolina who lives on the farm, and if there is a man who really knows what a farmer needs, it is I.

The Gorman's Warehouse is one of the best built and best lighted houses in Greenville. Besides, it is easy to get to, out of traffic and congestion.

Now I have no intention of doing or saying anything that might reflect on any one of my competitors. My only desire is to sell tobacco at its highest price and give just and fair treatment to all.

Thanking my friends for past favors, I am, yours to serve at Gorman's.

Do you have to "TUCK YOUR CAR IN" at night?

Not if it's One of these Four New Additions to the BUICK SPECIAL Line that Compact Automobile Bigness into Fewer Bumper-to-Bumper Inches

HERE of late the modern automobile has been giving a pretty good imitation of a man getting up in the morning.

It has stretched and s-t-r-e-t-c-h-e-d—until today you almost have to have a shoehorn to get a car of any size tucked away in the family garage.

We thought something ought to be done about that.

So today in Buick dealers' showrooms you'll see four new models, additions to the 1941 Buick SPECIAL line.

They are typical Buicks on every count—steady, tireless travelers with a big 115-hp. Buick FIREBALL straight-eight under their bonnets.

But by the simple step of compacting all this ability, goodness and value on a 118-inch wheelbase, we've trimmed inches off the over-all length—and dollars off the cost.

We're passing those dollar savings on to you, which makes three reasons for going to see these honeys now: You'll go for their ability—your wife will go for trim size and easy handling—and both will stand up and cheer for the easily-reachable price.

for the Business Coupe delivered at Flint, Mich. State tax, optional equipment and accessories—extra. Prices subject to change without notice.
