

Trainees Take Little Excess Baggage To U. S. Military Camps

Fort Bragg—Very little excess baggage is being brought to Fort Bragg by selective service trainees, Lt. Col. Earl C. Ewert, commanding officer of the Recruit Reception Center, stated today. With very few exceptions, only a bag with toilet articles and a small amount of necessary clothing is brought by the trainees.

Credit for this is given by Colonel Ewert to the state headquarters for selective service and the local boards which have issued instructions regarding the amount of baggage trainees should take with them to the reception centers. As a result of these instructions, very few men are encumbered by excess baggage and the center is not having any difficulty in sending civilian clothing and baggage home by those men who do not want to keep them after being issued their army equipment. Arrangements have been made with an express company so that trainees may send baggage home charges collect.

Necessary toilet articles should be brought as the men will spend the first day and night at an induction station, whereas toilet kits are not issued them until their arrival at the reception center. Men should bring shaving cream and toothpaste, or funds to buy these items, as the toilet kits issued at the reception centers contain a razor, shaving brush, toothbrush, comb and soap, but not shaving cream or toothpaste. Surplus personal articles can be retained or sent home.

Mail of the trainees is the biggest problem. As the trainees seldom remain in the reception center longer than two or three days, they are gone before a letter from home arrives. It is then necessary to check through reception center files to find out where each man has gone and then forward the letter to him. This causes some delay in receipt of mail.

Men are urged to wait until they have been assigned to a permanent organization before they have home folks write them. When a selectee is accepted or rejected at the induction station, a card is mailed to a relative stating that fact. When he has passed through the reception center and has been assigned to a permanent organization before they have home card is sent to the relative giving the address to which mail may be sent. Parents and friends are urged to wait until the arrival of this second card before writing. This will assure that there will be no delay in delivery of mail.

Things To Watch For In The Future

Toy libraries; they're operating in a number of New York state towns—playthings are let out for two-weeks' periods, and repaired and disinfected between loanings. Specially-named and designed pen and pencils for men "in the service" with clips at the very top so as not to interfere with buttoning-down pocket flaps. . . . Remote-control scoreboards for bowling alleys—scorekeeper writes on cellophane and figures are transmitted to large screen at the pin end of the alley so all spectators can know how all contestants stand. . . . Plastic headguards to be worn under the cap, for baseball players—Brooklyn's Dodgers are

New Chick Disease Appears In State

H. C. Gauger of the N. C. State College Poultry Department is warning North Carolina farmers to be on the lookout for a new disease of baby chicks that has caused considerable alarm in many sections.

Known as epidemic tremor because affected chicks show a peculiar vibration of the head, the disease has been seen in a few sections for the past three years. However, a comparatively large number of outbreaks have been reported this year, particularly in Chatham County.

On the basis of recent research work, it appears that the disease is caused by a virus, an agent smaller than an ordinary germ. The symptoms may consist of a fine or coarse head vibration or tremor and a paralytic-like condition affecting the legs although the former symptom may sometimes be absent.

Epidemic tremor affects chicks in acute form up to the seventh week. Although day-old chicks may show symptoms, it is during the second and third week after hatch that symptoms are generally observed. Mortality may run as high as 50 per cent but usually the losses are around 10 to 15 per cent. Apparently, the disease is not very contagious.

Poultrymen who encounter the disease should take the following steps: Carefully inspect the brood several times a day and remove, destroy or burn all affected chicks at once; carefully clean and disinfect the floor and side-walls every two or three days; clean and disinfect feed containers daily; give fresh water several times each day and disinfect the water containers prior to each filling with fresh water.

In Rocky Mount Thursday Mesdames Clyde Ward and Thessie Barnhill visited in Rocky Mount using them. . . . Plastic covers for sheet music—very light, but they help the music stand up on the rack. . . . A new cigarette humidor in form of a big shell, entitled "Big Shot" (a generation ago novelties of this kind came along after the war.)
