

N.Y.A. Is Calling For Martin County Boys

By ADA VALENTINE
NYA Personnel Officer

The National Youth Administration wants 200 boys for the Greenville Center which will open about May 1st, 1941. There are no grade lines and no county quotas have been set.

The National Youth Administration supplies part-time work for unemployed young people who are no longer attending school and are between the ages of 17 and 25.

The kind of work or service varies in different communities, but it is real work that produces goods on a production basis for public agencies. Among the kinds of work done are: Repairing automobiles, making sheet metal ventilator hoods, turning machine parts, repairing radios, making garments by power-driven machines or by hand, construction of small buildings, building roads, conduits, foot bridges, bus shelters. There is work, also in typing, stenography, photography, silk-screen, and drafting. Most of the NYA workers live at home and work in their local communities. However, the National Youth Administration also operates resident centers at which youth from various communities live together and work at the project site. The purpose of the NYA is to give work to young people in need of employment. Such work is designed to make them more employable. It is not a school, it is a job. Where-

Mrs. Blanche Sullivan And Roland Jones Wed In Private Ceremony

Mrs. Blanche Sullivan, of Williamston, and Charles Roland Jones, of Elizabeth City, were married in a private ceremony at the home of Mr. and Mrs. James E. Bullock on Houghton Street here yesterday afternoon at 5 o'clock. Rev. James M. Perry, pastor of the bride, officiated. The bride is the daughter of Mrs. Beulah Britton, of Robersonville and Williamston. Immediately following the ceremony, the couple left for a wedding trip to unannounced points. They will make their home in Elizabeth City where Mr. Jones is connected with the Texas Company.

ever possible, however, related instruction is provided by the schools to help you with your work experience on NYA.

It does not turn out finished craftsmen, but it gives you a chance to know what different kinds of work are like, and whether you can do them well.

It gets you beyond the state of being a "green hand." It makes you a worker, and not a beginner.

While working on the NYA you are registered with the State Employment service which will notify you when it has a job for you. NYA is not a career, it is a stepping stone. If you prefer, you may make application at the nearest NYA office, the location of which is in Washington, N. C.

Buried Alive for Three Days by Nazi Bomb

Peacefully asleep in a London hospital cot after her horrifying experience is ten-months-old Irene Marriot, who was buried alive for three days when a German bomb scored a direct hit on the Marriotta London home. Both her mother and father were killed, but little Irene was sheltered from death by her father's body and escaped with severe injuries. Her head is bandaged, her right arm is in splints.

Trouble Resulted When a Colonial Governor Neglected His Work To Win a Bride

Youthful adolescence is a turbulent and stormy period, and young North Carolina was no exception. Our state's youthful days at the end of the seventeenth and the beginning of the eighteenth century were alive with rivalries, misunderstandings, protests and even rebellions.

Lawsuits, evasion of the tobacco tax, and arrests resulting from rivalry or prejudice were some of the recorded incidents which marred the peace and quiet that might have otherwise been the fortune of the early colonial colonists who lived in what is now the northeastern section of North Carolina. Eastchurch, the future groom, and Thomas Miller visited London to appeal for justice which they thought had been denied in America.

Jenkins, president of the council, was disliked as chief executive. His willingness to have the custom duty on tobacco and his oppressive ways made him unpopular among many people. Eastchurch and Miller arrived in London about the same time seeking reforms. When the proprietors decided to appoint a new governor, the former had an advantage. He was a relative of Lord Treasurer Clifford. Furthermore, he was well known as a gentleman of good fame. Having approved him as governor, the proprietors appointed Miller collector of customs.

The new executive, Eastchurch, dallied in England before starting the return trip. He embarked on a vessel which sailed first to the island of Nevis, in the Caribbean Sea.

While stopping on the island, the newly appointed governor discovered a lady of attractive person and wealth. Eastchurch remained to win the woman for his bride. He commissioned Miller president of the council and sent him on to settle affairs by the time of his own arrival in Carolina.

Miller's arbitrary measures while acting as governor aroused the people; and his being determined to collect the tobacco duty caused the people to revolt against his administration. George Durant and John Culpepper took the lead in the movement which is known in history as the "Culpepper Rebellion."

Miller was taken prisoner and conveyed to a plantation at the upper land of Pasquotank river where a log house ten feet square was built for his prison. The victors established a government in their own way and resolved against giving in to the new governor upon his return from the island of Nevis.

Before Miller could be tried for treason, Eastchurch and his bride landed in Virginia and demanded that the revolutionists disperse and be obedient to lawful authority. A force was organized to oppose Eastchurch who invoked the aid of the governor of Virginia. While collecting recruits, Eastchurch fell ill with the fever, and died without a month. The people's government continued until one of the Lord Proprietors was appointed governor.

Home Economics Girls Give Tea

Thursday afternoon at four o'clock the local home economics girls entertained their mothers at the high school.

The mothers were greeted by a representative of each class, and were guided by Miss Elizabeth Ward, to the guest book which they signed.

Miss Evelyn Griffin, the general hostess, welcomed the guests and Mrs. John Goff, representing the mothers, responded to the welcome. A brief review of the work done in the department this year was presented by Miss Madelyn Taylor. The program ended with a fashion parade given by the eighth grade girls who have just completed new spring dresses. The mothers acted as judges and selected Miss Alberta Swain to have the most attractive dress, and Miss Betsy Manning to have the second most attractive dress.

An Easter motif was well carried out by colorful spring flowers and by the attractive refreshments which were adapted to the chosen color scheme of pink, green and yellow.
