

Shortage Of Food And Feed In N. C.

Rural North Carolina is not producing enough food and feed for its own needs, a survey just completed by the State College Extension Service and the Triple-A indicates. Information was obtained from farms in 21 counties, representing a cross section of the State.

The summary reveals that 99 per cent of the farm families planted some sort of a home garden last year, but only 77 per cent planted a sufficient acreage to provide an adequate supply of fresh and canned vegetables for home use. In livestock, 78 per cent of the farmers reported owning at least one milk cow, but only 30 per cent owned enough cows to supply sufficient milk for their families on a year-around basis; 91 per cent reported some hogs, but only 75 per cent owned enough for an adequate supply of pork; 96 per cent reported chickens, but there were only 32 per cent with enough poultry to supply family needs.

In reference to canning and storing foods, 92 per cent reported that some vegetables were canned while only 36 per cent canned enough to supply family health requirements; 93 per cent stored potatoes but only 79 per cent stored enough; 46 per cent stored beans and peas, but only 43 per cent put up syrup but only 16 per cent stored a sufficient amount.

John W. Goodman, assistant director of the extension service, says that the "Food and Feed for Family Living" campaign which has the active cooperation and endorsement of Governor J. M. Broughton aims to correct at least a part of this condition. Farm families who produce at least 75 per cent of their food and feed requirements in 1941 will receive certificates of merit signed by Governor Broughton and other leaders.

All Hens To Produce For Nation's Defense

The long arm of the National Defense Program has now reached out and tagged every hen, says C. F. Parrish, extension poultryman of N. C. State College.

The U. S. Department of Agriculture has just launched a nation-wide drive to produce every possible egg from present laying flocks this spring and summer in order to keep this country as well as others which are resisting aggression well-supplied.

It has been pointed out that this goal can be achieved partly by ample feeding of birds on hand and partly by filling up the nation's poultry houses with laying birds this fall. Present plans call for a six per cent increase in egg production or about 10,000,000 cases of 30 dozen eggs each during the next 15 months.

"Every farm family should produce enough eggs each week of the year to supply their family needs as well as a surplus for the defense program," Parrish pointed out. "This can be accomplished with little trouble and expense."

In his May suggestions to poultrymen, the State College specialist advised producers not to sell their flocks but to cull out the unprofitable birds instead. Where flocks are well fed, any bird that quits laying before September should be removed and a pullet grown to replace her.

Other suggestions he issued were: Use good feed just as regularly as when egg prices were higher; keep the flock cool and well supplied with fresh water; treat the roost poles with used motor oil at least once every three weeks to control or prevent red mite infestation in the hen house; plant summer green feed crops now; and dispose of or pen the male birds.

Increase Their Lespedeza Acreage Greatly This Year

Indications are that Forsyth County farmers have increased their lespedeza acreage greatly this year, says S. R. Mitchner, assistant farm agent, of the N. C. State College Extension Service.

Man Arrested For Forgery Of Checks

Robersonville, N. C. April 30th.—Arrested in Bethel last Saturday night, Ernest Johnson, Martin County citizen, is being held for forging checks here and in Williamston Saturday, April 19th.

Under the signature of R. R. Alexander, employer of Johnson, checks were cashed at L. B. Williams and Company in the amount of $3.75; C. L. Wilson, $3.75; Texaco Service Station, $6.00, and at the Carosa Service Station for $5.00. Forged checks were also cashed in Williamston by Johnson on the same date.

When arrested last Saturday night Johnson vigorously denied the charge but later admitted his guilt when questioned by local officers. He intimated to the officers that he cashed the checks as revenge or to retaliate for a wrong committed against him by Alexander several months ago.

Johnson was given a preliminary hearing before Mayor Everett who referred the case to the Martin County Superior Court to convene in June.

Was Here Wednesday Mrs. R. L. Lucas, of Plymouth, was a visitor here Wednesday.
