

Millions Spent By Red Cross On Aid To Victims Of War

More Than Half of Nearly Fifty Million Goes To England

American Red Cross war relief operations in Europe and the Orient reached a total of $47,087,052 as of June 30, it was announced recently in a special summary of Red Cross foreign operations.

The statement said Red Cross relief included a total of $25,327,822 of federally purchased supplies from the U. S. Government appropriation of $50,000,000 earmarked for foreign war relief.

Largest beneficiary of the American Red Cross help was Great Britain, which received $25,340,353 worth of relief in an average of five to eight shipments weekly during the past year.

Aid to China totaled $2,936,124, with shipping of food, clothing and medical supplies rapidly increasing.

No operations are presently being conducted in Greece, the summary said. American Red Cross work ceased with the complete occupation of the Balkans when aid for the small country hit $391,113.

American Red Cross relief work in Yugoslavia totaled $75,000, all of which was expended for the feeding of refugees prior to and for a brief period following occupation.

In the British Middle East, relief has reached $2,183,014. Medical supplies and food shipped there by the American Red Cross have been distributed in Egypt, Abyssinia, Eritrea and Syria through the facilities of the British Red Cross.

Curtailment of shipping to Spain is bringing to a close American Red Cross operation in that country with total relief at $1,821,568.

In addition to direct aid to belligerent countries, the American Red Cross has spent $267,647 in providing food, clothing and articles of comfort for Allied prisoners held in German camps. Inquiry and information service, a project to secure welfare and location reports of persons in war-affected countries cost the Red Cross $71,881.

Local Auto Firm To Present New 'Olds' Models Next Week

James Bailey Peel of the Chas. H. Jenkins Company, local Oldsmobile dealer and members of his sales staff, returned here today following a preview of the new Oldsmobile B-44. Factory executives from Lansing, Mich., assisted by zone office officials, conducted the meeting held in Charlotte. Details of Oldsmobile's sales and advertising plans, as well as company policies for the coming model year, were outlined to the retail selling organization.

"Motorists are promised the biggest surprise in the history of the automobile business when they view the new Oldsmobile B-44," Mr. Peel asserted today. "Monday has been scheduled as the official announcement date for Oldsmobile, and on that day the product that has been in the development stages for the past year will be unveiled nationally," he added. "Regardless of any existing opinions pertaining to inferior quality in the 1942 automobiles, Oldsmobile will introduce three lines of cars that are definitely better looking, better lasting and better built than any cars in the forty-four year history of the company."

Questioned regarding the Oldsmobile B-44, Mr. Peel stated that advancements such as new double duty bumpers, heavier frame, more fire power in the engines, and larger braking areas, place more emphasis than ever on ruggedness and dependability.

Hydra-Matic drive, the revolutionary feature introduced by Oldsmobile two years ago, which eliminates the clutch pedal and all shifting of gears, will be offered as optional equipment. Factory officials estimate that due to the ease with which Hydra-Matic drive is operated and the contribution it makes to safer motoring, the percentage of Oldsmobiles equipped with this feature will be substantially increased during 1942. More than 130,000 Oldsmobiles with Hydra-Matic drive are now in daily service, it was announced.

In the Case of Bayard vs. Singleton North Carolina Established a New Principle of Democracy

The constitution says that property cannot be taken from a person, except by the court acting upon the decision of a jury. During the Revolutionary War days the strife between men loyal to England and the ones fighting against that country was bitter. The state legislature passed a law confiscating much property belonging to the loyalists. The legislative act provided that all cases for reclaiming property would be dismissed if the defendant made affidavit that he held the disputed property under a sale from a commissioner of forfeited estates.

In the case, Bayard vs. Singleton, the plaintiff attempted to gain possession of an estate inherited from Mrs. Bayard's father, who had lost the same because he was one of the men loyal to England and who had left the state. Singleton's lawyer, Nash, moved that the suit be dismissed according to the act of the assembly which required the court to dismiss such cases where the defendant made affidavit that his deed was secured from the commissioner of confiscated estates.

The plaintiff's claim was that the constitution guarantees jury trial in cases where the decision concerns a person's property. The judge faced the problem of deciding between upholding the constitution and its provisions for protecting property or forget the fundamental law of the land and go by the law made by the legislature.

To declare an act passed by the State's General Assembly unconstitutional and thus null and void was unheard of in 1786-1787. Thus the court's decision in the case being discussed was precedent-making. It ruled that "by the constitution every citizen had undoubtedly a right to a decision of his property by a trial by jury. For if the legislature could take away this right, and require him to stand condemned in his property without a trial, it might with as much authority require his life to be taken away without a trial by jury." Thus the Act passed by the legislature became null and void.

This was an advance step in streamlining democracy, for at that time no court had ever declared a legislative act contrary to the constitution.

Happenings In The Farm Life School

The eighth grade, under Mr. Martin's supervision, entertained in chapel Friday with their version of the second grade of by-gone days. The students were most appropriately dressed and bandaged, and the acting was very realistic. The program consisted of dialogues, songs, recitations, stories, and other entertainment of this type. Margaret Roberson acted as teacher.

The students of the school have contributed very generously with foodstuff and other home products for our community booth. The booth, all dressed up in red, white and blue, is located at the farther end of the exhibit building. We hope everybody in the county who visits the fair will visit our booth.

As every patron already knows, the rental fee was fixed at a flat rate throughout the school for this year. We collected $112.80 from the high school and $89.90 for supplementary readers from the elementary grades. This money was turned in to the county superintendent's office. Each high school student in the county was asked to pay a fee of sixty cents for the library this year, and we collected $39.00, and we hope to have our new books very soon.

For the first month our circulation has averaged almost three books per student. Our magazines are beginning to come into the library this year. We shall receive around twenty.

Misses Taylor and Jones are working on the organization of a toy orchestra for the primary grades. The children are already learning how to keep time, and they are very eager to begin their music.

and thus unconstitutional. It was a new principle of democracy. Bayard was granted the jury trial as guaranteed by the constitution, but the jury decided for the defendant and thus Bayard regained no land lost during the Revolution.

There Can Be No Curtailment of Dodge Quality
No Substitute for Dodge Dependability

The New and the Finest Dodge

EVERY MAN OR WOMAN who buys one of these new Dodges will get for his money the very finest car that Dodge has ever turned out. He will get it, of course, from a smaller total production, because the Government of the United States has first call upon Dodge factories and men. But, we repeat, every civilian buyer of Dodge motorcars will receive for his investment all of the traditional Dodge quality at higher levels of endurance, performance and economy than Dodge has ever supplied them before.

Is This Asking Too Much? People by the hundreds who have driven the new Dodge say almost the same thing. They say they could not, and would not, go back to the old way of driving. It is not asking too much, we believe, that you investigate these revolutionary Dodge qualities.

You should experience the ebb and flow of Dodge power, at any speed, in any traffic, with or without shifting gears as you may wish. You should measure its new economy against the old, and realize that Dodge, all by itself, has turned the corner into a new day of motorcar performance, long life, and Dependability.

Power-Flow Engine—For All-Fluid Drive

He will get, literally, the climax value of twenty-seven years of fine car engineering. He will get the phenomenal success of Dodge All-Fluid Drive. He will get the new Power-Flow Engine, designed and adapted as the more powerful complement to the fluid smoothness of Dodge All-Fluid Drive. He will get a motorcar of lifetime lasting qualities, in which riding and driving have become almost the same thing—except that the driver gets the added joy of command.

Dependability—Forever the Watchword It is unquestionably true that fewer cars will be built this coming year, according to your own defense requirements. But, above all, it is true that there can never occur any curtailment of Dodge motorcar quality—and no substitute, ever, for Dodge Dependability.

A new Dodge car is a basic investment for the years.
