

Uncle Takes Steps To Keep Men Warm

Atlanta — With the thermometer hovering around the freezing point, Uncle Sam has taken steps to assure complete sleeping comfort for the maneuvering soldiers of the Fourth Army Corps, now participating in the Carolina war games with Lieut. General Hugh A. Drum's First Army.

Brigadier General James L. Frink, quartermaster of the Fourth Corps area, which embraces the maneuver area, announced that an additional 98,000 blankets have been shipped to the Fourth Corps outfits in North and South Carolina. The issue supplements the present blanket supply of three to each man.

The shipment was handled by Lieut. Colonel William F. Riter, supply officer on Gen. Frink's staff, as Indian Summer waned and troops prepared to complete the final phase of their war games under actual winter conditions.

The extra supply of blankets, it was revealed, will go to soldiers who will sleep in "pup" tents.

The regulation issue of blankets is two per man, but more may be ordered by the commanding officer of each outfit. Ordinarily, when soldiers are in steam-heated barracks or the stove-heated tents of permanent camps, the two blankets are sufficient. But when maneuvers become the order of the day, and "pup" tents the only shelter available, three and sometimes four blankets may be required.

The Quartermaster Corps has made ample provisions for the coming of cold weather. Uniforms of finest wool and heavy overcoats have been issued to each man. Ten different kinds of gloves are regular issues for the Quartermaster Corps. One of the newest developments in this line is a two-in-one glove which gives complete freedom of movement as well as warmth. The "inner" glove is made of wool and is covered by an "outer" glove of leather. Together the two-in-one protects the hands in the most extreme temperature. If freedom of hands is desired, the outer leather gloves may be removed.

Farmers Urged To Order Chicks Now

The Government's call for an 11 per cent increase in egg production in 1942 is a direct hint to North Carolina farmers to place their orders for baby chicks early, says C. F. Parrish, extension poultryman of N. C. State College.

At the beginning of the 1942 season, Parrish predicts that hatcheries will have their hands full in filling orders. In order to be sure of delivery at the time they want the chicks, farmers should anticipate their needs and place their orders now.

When buying chicks, the State College poultryman said, farmers should make every effort to obtain stock that is "bred to lay." This is important in any year but will be even more vital in 1942 in view of Uncle Sam's request for more eggs.

Under production goals set up for the nation, North Carolina is expected to produce 65,120,000 dozen eggs next year as a part of the nation-wide food-for-freedom program. This is an 11 per cent increase over the estimated production for 1941.

While called on to help supply a part of the eggs needed by the British, North Carolina would do well to produce more eggs for her own people, Parrish said.

He explained that even if the State meets the minimum goal of 65,120,000 dozen eggs, this would mean only 219 eggs for each North Carolinian without shipping out a single egg. Nutritionists advocate that a person consume at least one egg per day.

In some cases, Parrish said, farmers are finding it profitable to exchange old hens for chicks and feed.

Such objections are required to be specified, to be verified, to be in duplicate, and to be filed with the undersigned.

PRESIDENT

Accepting a bit reluctantly the presidency of the Farm Life Parent-Teacher Association four years ago, Mrs. J. Eason Lilley has done such an able work that the membership will not relieve her. She was recently re-elected and with the continued cooperation of an interested membership, the organization is expected to carry on its effective work. It is fairly well established that Mrs. Lilley is numbered among the most active school patrons in the county.
