Seniors To Present Play Here At An Early Date

The Senior class of Williamston high school has been having intensive practice in preparation for the annual play to be presented on March 19th.

"One Mad Night," a royalty play by James Reach, is the play selected by the class for production. The setting is a deserted mansion, supposed to be haunted, now occupied by a group of lunatics. There is action and comedy throughout the three acts, enough to rank, "One Mad Night," along with the still remembered "Hobgoblin House" and "Mumbo Jumbo."

The following constitute the cast: Don Cutter, a young playwright; Jim Critcher, Wing, his Chinese valet; Benny Weaver; Priscilla, who knits; Bessie Newbern; Lady MacBeth, a victim of Shakespeare; Mary Warren; John Alden, who hunts Indians; Theron Gurganus; Mr. Hyde, a ferocious villain; Irving Gurganus; Dr. Bunn, who is in charge; Robert Jones; Lucille Marcy, a damsel in distress; Garnetta Swanson; Mrs. Kluck, the housekeeper; Madelyn Taylor;

Gertrude Finch, Don's fiancee; Catherine Turner; Mrs. T. Ashington Finch, her mother; Evelyn Griffin; Depression, their colored maid; Elizabeth Ward; Artemus Burke, a lawyer; Jimmy Leggett; and Danny Silletto, wanted for murder; Frank Liley.

The play is directed by Mrs. Sam Edwards, senior class sponsor. Tickets will go on sale early next week.

BRICE-WILLIAMS

Miss Virginia Williams became the bride of Joseph Vinson Brice Sunday, March 8th, 1942, at 4 o'clock in the Catholic Church in Washington. The ceremony was performed by Father Gilbert.

Mrs. Brice is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. H. Williams. She was graduated from the Williamston High School and is employed at the Belk-Tyler Company.

Mr. Brice is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Vinson Brice, of Richwood, W. Va. He was employed by the North Carolina Pulp Company, but will leave soon for the Navy Medical Corps.

The couple were attended by Mr. Bill Kieckhefer, of Plymouth, as best man, and Miss Mary Gwen Osborne, of Williamston, as maid of honor. The bride wore a poudre blue suit with navy accessories and her flowers were pink roses and lilies.

Mr. and Mrs. Brice left for a short wedding trip, after which Mr. Brice will go to the Navy, and Mrs. Brice will return here.

Happenings In The Jamesville School

There are still some cases of measles in school, but the attendance is gradually improving.

The girls' and boys' basketball teams played in a tournament in Ahoskie last week. The boys came out victorious and the girls won second place. Five members of our teams won all-tourney rating and were awarded gold basketball medals. They were Bettie Calloway, Roslyn Mizelle, Elwood Brown, Ghurman Ange and Clifford Corey. This probably is the end of the basketball season and everyone is proud of the fine record made by our girls and boys.

There will be a meeting of the P. T. A. next Thursday night, March 12th. Everyone is urged to attend this meeting.

The seventh grade presented a very interesting and instructive chapel program Friday.

Our school enjoyed the puppet show sent out by the State Board of Health last Monday.

The annual Junior-Senior affair took place in the school gymnasium last Friday night. Heretofore, this entertainment has been in the form of a banquet. This year the Juniors voted to donate a part of their money to the Red Cross and give a party instead of the usual banquet. Games, dancing and refreshments were enjoyed by all.

Canteen Course Will Be Offered In This Section

Miss Naomi Shank, head of the home service division of the V.E.P., held a meeting of all the V.E.P. home economists in Roanoke Rapids last Friday and Saturday.

The meeting was called for the purpose of instructing the different home economists in Canteen work so that each might be qualified to teach canteen classes in her section.

A nutrition class will be held here for those women who are interested. If it is wanted, a course in canteen work will be taught to those who have had the nutrition classes. Miss Irene James, home economist for this section, attended this meeting and will conduct the canteen course if enough people are interested.

Sweet Potatoes Gain As N. C. Market Crop

Farmers who are looking for a new "cash" crop might try sweet potatoes, says H. R. Niswonger, Extension horticulturist of N. C. State College. He says that North Carolina yams are gaining in popularity on Eastern markets.

The varieties of sweet potatoes in biggest demand are the Porto Ricos, either the N. C. Strain 1 or the Louisiana strain. Other varieties such as the Nancy Hall and the Jersey type, have limited demand on some markets.

Niswonger says the best type of soil for growing sweet potatoes is sandy or sandy loam. "Heavy soils and dark soils especially rich garden soils and places where manure has been used heavily—produce poor quality potatoes," the horticulturist advised.

"Also, soils where legumes have been turned under have a tendency to produce oversize, discolored and cracked potatoes. Such land should be planted to corn or cotton for a year or two, and the nitrogen in the fertilizer reduced."

It is very important to use seed that are free from disease, Niswonger declared. It is always best to use certified seed, or certified slips that have been produced preferably by a grower who has been practicing hill seed selection. Only medium sized seed should be bedded. The Extension specialist says information about the source of certified seed or certified sprouts can be obtained from county farm agents, or by writing direct to the N. C. Crop Improvement Association, N. C. State College, Raleigh.

Other recommendations by the horticulturist include: Treat the seed before bedding. It requires five to six bushels of seed to set one acre. Use plants from vine cuttings.
