Entered at the post office in Williamston, N. C., as second-class matter under the act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

Address all communications to The Enterprise and not individual members of the firm.

Tuesday, March 17, 1942.

lynching of millions of men, industrial ownership, on the basis of reports from nearly 100 of the mighty corporations, were declaring profit increases of 16.3 in 1941 over 1940 and 77 per cent over 1939. And the increases were recorded in that percent ratio after all taxes and other legalized dodging acts had been considered.

While the New York Times was rushing to Washington to participate in the labor murder, shipyards and machines were idle right there in the big city. Why? Because the owners, while admittedly small operators and without pull at the dollar-a-year office in Washington, had not been able to get contracts. One New York newspaper dared print pictures of the idle machines and tell why they were idle, but the Times at that time was busy trying to cut somebody's throat and further delay the war effort.

Streamlining Words

Leave it up to the Americans to streamline the nation's vocabulary. Judging by the introduction and wide use of slang, the American people have wandered far from the old dictionary version of the English language. Possibly as we have degenerated ourselves we in proportion have coined new words to better describe our downward trail. Not even the war could stop us.

The war might be causing headaches along the production and management fronts, but the vocabulary artists come through with their task and with one word describe the country and whole segments of its production. The word is "Sitzkrieg."

Ultra-Progressive Education

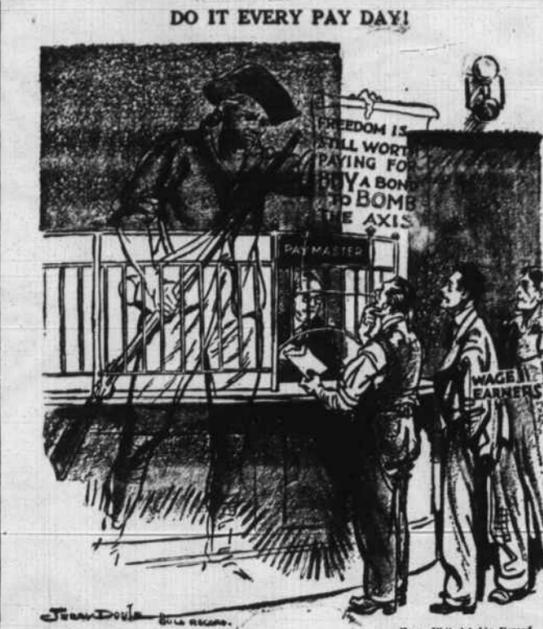

Scottish Rite News Bureau.

Dr. Hermann Leader, history professor of Sacramento Junior College and a member of the California State Board of Education, recently admitted, at a Los Angeles education conference, that the children of the state were not receiving proper instruction in the "three R's." He laid the blame on what he called the high priests of ultra-progressive education in the State Department of Education.

"No wonder," he said, "that parents complain that children leave school with no knowledge of the fundamentals, and no wonder that taxpayers groan at the expense of all the frippieries and fads and time-killers that engross the public schools."

Stating that United States school children today face a hard future, where common sense and practical knowledge will be at a premium, critics of the ultra-progressive educational theorists pointed out that a basic training in the "three R's" is still indispensable.

Editorially, the Masonic Trestle Board, published in San Francisco, Calif., commented: "Pack the minds of the average child with all the 'arty' frills you will; beguile it with fancy 'projects'; titillate it with pleasant excursions into vague abstractions; cast it out into a hard, unfeeling world, and this so-called knowledge will not have the commercial value of one slim dime. And, after all, the average parent expects the schools, which draw so heavily upon his pocketbook to prepare his sons and daughters for a job or a career whereby they can gain a livelihood and support a family. Few of us have the financial means to become dilettantes in the arts and sciences. We need jobs, and to hold those jobs a thorough knowledge of the 'three R's' is essential."

Seniors Will Present Play Here Thursday

"One Mad Night," a mystery comedy in three acts, will be presented by the Williamston senior class, on Thursday evening at 8:00 o'clock in the high school auditorium.

Jim Critcher plays the leading role, that of a young playwright who chooses a haunted house as a place to finish the third act of his new play. His Chinese valet, Benny Weaver, is at hand to assist him and to lend moral support by quoting Confucius.

From the moment of their arrival the action is fast and furious. There are raving lunatics, secret passages, a beautiful girl in distress, and even an escaped murderer.

The "lunatics" are Mary Warren (Lady Macbeth); Irving Gurganus (Mr. Hyde); Theron Gurganus (John Alden), and Bessie Newbern (Priscilla). Garnetta Swanson is the damsel-in-distress; Frank Lilley, the escaped murderer; Robert Jones, the doctor; Jimmy Leggett, a crooked lawyer; Elizabeth Ward, the Harlem maid; Madelyn Taylor, the housekeeper; Evelyn Griffin, the snobbish society matron, and Catherine Turner, her daughter.

Proceeds from the play will be used to finance the class gift of two band uniforms and the expenses involved in commencement.

Soda

Nitrate of soda, used principally as a side-dressing, is somewhat short this year, but it is almost certain that at least 50 per cent of the normal supply will be available, possibly more.

Wool

Mill consumption of wool in the first quarter of 1942 was limited to 80 per cent of the rate of the first half of 1941 under the Government's wool conservation program.

Flaxseed

The Argentine government plans greatly increased domestic crushing of flaxseed to ease somewhat the surplus created by the large 1941-42 crop, the record carry-over, and the reduced European market.
