Many farmers plant lespedeza over their small grains but many others also seed in the open field and this is the best time for such planting.

He said seeding lespedeza earns the farmer one-half unit, 75 cents, per acre toward soil building practice payments under the Agricultural Conservation Program.

This crop is one of the best adapted legumes for the state as a whole, it is fool-proof, and all small grain should be over-planted with lespedeza where possible.

"Indications are that water soluble nitrogen will be short of demands about 50 to 60 per cent this year, and no one knows how short it will be in 1943," he said. "By growing lespedeza, the farmer can produce for
