

Recent Regulations Call For Change In Deferment Policies

who have been deferred for dependency. We foresee the possibility of early change in the deferment status of many registrants.

Use of Available Men

Before men deferred for dependency are inducted, there will first be selected all men who can be made available for military service under current policies and standards. Many registrants deferred for dependency under liberal peacetime policies should no longer be deferred under current dependency policies. When all men available under current policies have been called and the requirements of the armed forces or essential activities still have not been met, the Nation must secure additional men by reexamining present policies, mainly those affecting dependency deferments.

Present Dependency Deferment Policy

Agencies of the Selective Service System should grant deferment to those registrants who have persons financially dependent upon them for support in a reasonable manner. Current policy does not authorize the classification of a married registrant in Class 1-A merely because his financially dependent wife is working or is capable of working, but on the other hand, classification of a married registrant in Class 3-A or Class 3-B is not justified unless there is actual financial dependency on the earnings of the registrant. There is no present justification for the classification of a registrant in 1-A where there is a financially dependent wife and child or children. The necessity for giving adequate consideration to the family unit where a child or children are involved cannot be over-emphasized and in such instances, due consideration should be given to the family status, the maintenance of the home, and the desirability of continued paternal guidance and control. In the case of a registrant claiming dependents other than a wife, child or children, the test to be applied is whether the alleged dependent comes within the definition of a dependent person and is financially dependent upon the registrant for support. The local board shall not, in classifying a registrant, consider the question of whether some other person, not morally or legally obligated to do so, could or would support the dependents of the registrant in the event of his induction.

Exception of Recently Acquired Dependency

Provisions of the Regulations with respect to recently acquired dependency, including recent marriage, provide an exception to the general statements made above. In case where the dependency status was acquired on or after December 8, 1941, or acquired when selection was imminent or for the primary purpose of providing a basis for dependency deferment, pregnancy, birth, or acquiring a child, shall not be cause for classification in Class 3-A or Class 3-B. Likewise, in cases where no actual financial dependency previously existed by reason of the fact that the claimed dependent, such as a working wife, was providing adequately for his or her own support for the primary purpose of affording a basis for dependency deferment, there shall be no classification in Class 3-A or Class 3-B.

Undergoing an operation in a Washington hospital last week, Mr. V. J. Spivey is expected to return home tomorrow afternoon or Thursday.

County Young Men Are Promoted In Services

Two more Martin County young men are climbing the success ladders in the nation's armed services. Russell T. Roebuck, son of Sheriff and Mrs. C. B. Roebuck, is getting his diploma as a member of the Naval Reserve in New York today. He will be transferred to ship duty shortly, it is understood.

Hilton Everett, young son of Mr. and Mrs. L. R. Everett, of Hamilton, was recently graduated by the Army Air Corps at Chanute Field, Illinois, and is being transferred to Columbia, S. C. The young man is one of three brothers in the nation's armed services. One is in the Army, Frank, was recently married in South Carolina.

Sugar Registration Virtually Complete For Martin County

of this week. The purchase may be made at one time, or a pound may be bought with one book today and another pound tomorrow with another book held by a member of the family. The pound of sugar purchase, it should be remembered, is intended for use during two weeks. The No. 2 stamps will cover the period from May 17 to 30. The No. 3 stamps will be redeemable between May 31 and June 13, and the No. 4 stamps will be accepted by the retailers between June 14 and 27. Stamps left unused in the books after the designated expiration dates will be worthless.

The figures below show the number of white and colored registrants, by districts, the number of rationing books issued, and the number of rationing books withheld. No report on the number of stamps removed from the rationing books, but in Williamston 424 stamps were torn out in addition to the 112 books withheld. The registration tabulation follows:

Registration Going Forward In Several Schools Three Days

if he transfers gasoline from his tank to the use of another person not entitled to larger amounts of gas than allowed on his own individual card.

To claim a quota for certain purposes and use that quota for other reasons, one is subject to the penalties prescribed by law.

Those users who cannot establish classifications but who need more gas in the operation of their business than is allowed by their individual card, may appeal to the county rationing board for a supplementary rationing card.

In applying for a rationing card, the applicant must present his 1942 registration card, give name, address, type of business, if any, name of car, body style, engine number, state license number and a few other similar but simple questions.

U. S. Navy Dawn Patrol in the Atlantic

This striking photo was made off the Grand Banks in the North Atlantic. It shows a U. S. destroyer steaming ghostlike through the early morning haze on her Atlantic patrol. The low-hanging fog is caused by frigid Arctic winds sweeping down over the warm waters of the Gulf Stream. (Central Press)

Herring for U. S. Fighting Men

Millions of herring annually swarm up the Taunton River near Middleboro, Mass. to spawn at the headwaters. Ultimately, the tasty fish were purchased by thousands of consumers. This year, however, the U. S. army has put in an order for the catch. A large school is shown being pulled in with a dagnet. (Central Press)

Heads AEF in Africa

Maj. Gen. Russell L. Maxwell, chief of the American mission in North Africa, disclosed that American service troops in increasing numbers are supporting the main British desert army and air forces against units of German Field Marshal Erwin Rommel. One officer of the American mission is Major Elliot Roosevelt, second son of President Roosevelt. (Central Press)

THE RECORD SPEAKS . . .

It'll take gasoline rationing, tire rationing, other kinds of rationing and something else to wipe out highway accidents, it would seem. Last week in this county two accidents were reported. No one was hurt and very little property damage was done. But the record shows that there have been almost as many accidents so far this year as there were for the corresponding period a year ago.

The following tabulations offer a comparison of the accident trend: first, by corresponding weeks in this year and last and for each year to the present time.

Sun Breaks Through War Clouds On Far-Flung Battle Fronts

Laval and his traitor-colleagues talk collaboration, the common French people go ahead with their sabotage. Little activity has been reported on the Eastern front during the past few days, but this morning a communication stated that a strong push by the Germans in the Crimea had been smashed, and that the battlefields in that area were literally covered with German dead and wounded. The Berlin radio intimated a few days ago that a spring offensive was to get underway shortly, but apparently the first part of the drive fizzled out. It is possible that the Soviet forces yielded slightly in the north, but in the Crimea the four-day German attack was repulsed at great cost to the enemy. The late report stated that without doubt the Germans were using a new type of gas. According to the report the gas is non-poisonous, but affects the nervous system, rendering the victim helpless for certain periods.

Malta, that small island spot in the Mediterranean, still fights on even after nearly 2,400 bombing attacks have been made on it. The stalwart defenders are believed to have blocked any plans Hitler may have had for driving toward the Middle East. The British today admitted the loss of three destroyers in the Mediterranean.

Japan admitted today that her commander-in-chief was in charge of the fateful Coral Sea battle. It is claimed that the Japs still have a formidable sea power off Australia and that another move is to be expected.

Sinkings off the Atlantic coast continue while brasshats in Washington dicker over the value of blimps when used for patrolling the coastline.

War As It Relates To Home Front Is Reviewed For Week

teapots, cutlery, bread boxes, butter knives and cake cutters. The glamour girl will have to hold on to her present lipstick holders and compacts, the athlete will look in vain for new sporting goods.

Only two metals, the order specifies, may be used as substitutes for iron and steel—and these are gold and silver. This shows how vital to the war effort are steel and its workaday cousins and how unimportant the so-called "precious metals"—traditional tokens of romance and finance.

OPA Urges Patience

The Office of Price Administration urges us to be patient with our retail storekeepers in the next few months, while the new price ceiling is going into effect. OPA points out that "the regulations impose many novel and difficult burdens on retailers and their suppliers" and that "the long-run success of the program requires the complete cooperation of the consumer." A three-point guide to shoppers—

1. Before July 1 educate yourself as to how the price rules work but don't try to be a price-policeman.
2. After July 1, report established violations to war price and rationing boards.
3. For the duration, remember that you have a personal obligation to buy at or below the ceiling price and the plan won't work unless you make it work.

The price ceiling will not hold down the cost of living unless its companion regulations, the roof-on-rents, is made effective. OPA charged last week that some landlords in unspecified defense rental areas "are undertaking to evict tenants to regain possession of their properties" in the hope of evading the order. "We cannot and will not tolerate wholesale evictions of war workers," Price Administrator Leon A. Henderson declared. "We will not permit the war production program to be sabotaged by a few landlords who have the mistaken notion that they can somehow wiggle outside of the essential wartime program."

A lesser-known aspect of the conservation drive is the use of reclaimed rubber for rubber heels. Postmen and policemen of Washington, D. C., have volunteered to act as walking laboratories to test heels made of scrap rubber. On the results of their findings will depend whether millions of pedestrians get a durable reclaimed rubber heel.

American women will not be brought into the war effort on a compulsory, nation-wide basis—they will be allowed to sign up voluntarily as the need arises. Federal Security Administrator Paul V. McNutt is chairman of the new War Manpower Commission. He reports that 1,500,000 women are already registered with the U. S. Employment Service and predicts that as many as 4,000,000 women will be engaged on war work within two years. That is, one out of every five war workers will be a woman.

"War Ration Book No. 1" is now a prized possession in almost every American home. On the first day alone 27,312,063 persons were registered for their weekly allotment of sugar and the balance of the population on the following two days—thanks to the voluntary efforts of the nation's school teachers. OPA advises you to guard the book zealously—it may entitle you to other commodities later.

"Enriched" Flour Costs Little Extra

It is possible to "buy health" for only 20 cents extra per year, says Miss Mary Thomas, Extension nutritionist of N. C. State College. That is the additional cost of enough "enriched" flour to feed a person for a year, she explained.

The word "enriched", as used on sacks of flour and on loaves of bread, is not a commercial advertising slogan, Miss Thomas explained. It is a term proposed by the Federal Drug and Food Administration to designate flour and bread to which have been restored, synthetically, the most needed nutrients of whole wheat. Enriched bread and flour is endorsed by the highest Government authorities.

It costs 5 cents, or less, per 24-pound sack to enrich flour, Miss Thomas explained, and only about 100 pounds of flour are needed annually to feed the average person.

"The enrichment feature of this National health program is unique in low cost per capita," the nutritionist declared. "While all the bread and flour in the country can be enriched for about 20 cents per person per year, an extra glass of milk a day will cost about $13, an extra egg or an orange $9 to $10, an extra quarter of a pound of fresh meat about $25."

Miss Thomas also emphasized the fact that "enriched" bread and flour is not medicine. "It is simply the restoration of certain vitamins and minerals which are removed from white flour and bread in the milling and baking processes. Enriched bread and flour look and taste just exactly like ordinary white flour and bread. But there is a big difference in the nutritive value of the products."

Boll Weevils Ready For Annual 'Blitz'

Cotton fields of North Carolina are about to be invaded, fears Dr. Z. P. Metcalf, head of the State College zoology department. He warns that boll weevils appear to have survived the mild winter in large numbers, and the pesky insects are lying in wait for the cotton plants to reach "eating size."

"Government entomologists have made several check tests," Dr. Metcalf reported, "and in South Carolina they found that weevils had survived at the rate of 1,839 per acre in woods near the edge of old cotton fields. In Louisiana, 327 weevils per acre were found to have survived the winter."

Dr. Metcalf said the survival was less than a year ago, but still "at a dangerous rate." He suggested that Tar Heel farmers begin to look for weevils in fields and ditches alongside their cotton patches.

"Examine the field in several places," he advised. "You will probably find the weevils most abundant around the edges of the field, close to where they spent the winter. When you find enough weevils to average about 25 per acre; it would be well to poison at least the part of the field where the weevils are most abundant."

"Calcium arsenate is the best material to use," Dr. Metcalf continued. "If you put it on the young cotton, either in the dust form or as a mop, it will kill the weevils. Mopping is a little cheaper but is effective only while the weevils are in the tops of the plants before the squares form. However, if you prepare for dusting early in the season, you will be ready to dust any time during the summer when the weevils are threatening."
