This is the first air raid shelter to be constructed entirely of non-strategic materials. A pretty girl poses outside the shelter to give you an idea of its size. Designed for home use, the solid timber shelter is just what its name implies. Wooden pegs take the place of nails. The shelter has room for a double bed, fire-fighting and bomb-fighting paraphernalia. (Central Press)

State College Hints For Farm Homes

Your sugar ration is all you will need if you plan your meals wisely, if you cook carefully, and if you don't waste any. But if you have a very sweet tooth and insist you want more sugar than you are getting—remember, "We're in a War!"

The shadow of Japanese conquest falls right across your spice chest. Nutmeg, cloves, cinnamon, allspice, pepper and curry come from the southeastern Pacific. Try growing a herb garden and learn how to use old time recipes that depended upon sage, thyme, rosemary, anise, coriander, cummin, fennel and marjoram for their spiciness.

If you find starch spots on the bottom of your electric iron, try cleaning it with a cloth wrung from soap suds, using very mild scouring powder like silver polish.

If you keep aluminum clean from day to day, you won't have to resort to drastic cleaning measures. Most every metal in your house can be cleaned frequently by washing in hot, sudsy water, rinsing and drying.

The way to protect garden shoes from moisture and mud is to keep them well greased and oiled. This not only prevents the leather from becoming hard and dry, but it also keeps your feet dry. For greasing shoes, you can use neat's foot oil, or cod or castor oil, tallow or wool grease, or combination of these.

Wool Market Considered The Best In Many Years

The wool market is the best in many years, says L. I. Case, Extension animal husbandman of State College. Our one-quarter and three-eighths blood wool should bring several cents more than last year, when clean mountain wool sold for 52 to 52 1-2 cents per pound in the wool pools conducted by county farm agents. Boston Wool Market quotations in mid-April were 7 to 8 cents per pound higher than the corresponding period in 1941.

What Has Herbert Bonner Done for Martin County?

The question has been asked. The honest and unbiased answer, prepared without the knowledge of Congressman Bonner and financed by one of his friends, follows:

1. Herbert Bonner, it is admitted, has done nothing for any one small group or log-rolled legislation that would finance a golden image for any one town or community. He has, however, done more to help all the people than possibly any one or all his predecessors.

Mr. Bonner, it is an indisputable fact, did more to get tobacco included in the Lease-Lend bill than possibly any other Congressman or person in Washington. It was with a view of helping all or virtually all the people in his district that he worked night and day and pleaded the cause of the tobacco farmer before the Lease-Lend Committee Chairman. Tobacco was included, and while no one reaped all the reward, tens of thousands of tobacco farmers in this, the First Congressional District, received fair and equitable prices for their tobacco. That accomplishment alone meant hundreds of thousands of dollars to the farmers of this section and to those whose economic life is closely associated with agriculture.

2. Mr. Bonner, leaders in the Congress unhesitatingly say, did, as Lindsay Warren before him, everything in his power to promote the Lease-Lend program when the isolationists were condemning the supporters of the measure before the people back home. He saw ahead the danger, and he worked, not after a grandstand fashion but late into the hours of the night, in the interest of his people back home, not a few people, but all the people.

3. No legislation has been offered in the Congress of the United States during his stay there that Mr. Bonner did not give it his full and sincere support if and when that legislation was designed to help the farmer, the working people and others who had honored him with the position he now holds in Washington.

4. Mr. Bonner has truly been a representative of the people. Appeals addressed to him have received every attention possible. He has not sought the public limelight, but he has in a meek and humble fashion worked for the betterment of his people and his country.

To ask more of a representative would be unreasonable. In appreciation of his able work, his frankness, his fairness and his definite stand for that which is right in the sight of his people and our country, and not with malice or the slightest dislike for the two other gentlemen who seek the high public office, I am going to vote for Herbert Bonner, deeming it a privilege and an honor to cast my vote for a man who values friendship in both the high and low places and anywhere and at any time.
