

Price Regulations For Cotton Ginners

Cotton ginning services, for which some 2,000,000 cotton farmers of the Nation pay an average of $65,000,000 yearly, are placed under a new maximum price regulation announced August 27 by Price Administrator Henderson.

Fees which more than 11,000 cotton gins throughout the Cotton Belt may charge for the process of separating cotton fibers from cottonseed as well as other services normally provided by the ginners are covered by the new regulation—No. 211, Cotton Ginner Services, effective August 29th.

In general, the ginner may charge either 105 per cent of last season's fee for the same or substantially similar services or specified dollars-and-cents prices fixed by the regulation. If he wishes to supply services which are not the same as or substantially similar to those he supplied last year, the ginner must apply to the OPA Regional Office for a ceiling price.

When families without telephones in a Nebraska community want anything in town, they hang a red flag on the gatepost or mailbox, and obliging neighbors driving by will stop to pick up the order.

Local Happenings In The Enterprise Forty Years Ago

SEPTEMBER 12, 1902.

What has become of the town lock-up? The convention yesterday passed off very quietly. Yesterday was the biggest day yet for the tobacco market. Tobacco is coming in now. Double sales at Roanoke Warehouse Wednesday.

The crowd in town yesterday was immense. It was the largest crowd that has ever been in Williamston. The Editor has been sick this week and unable to attend to getting out the paper. We will endeavor to get it out on time next week.

Hon. John H. Small will speak at the Court house Monday immediately after the morning session of the court.

The Fall term of the public school began Monday. There was a very large attendance for the first day. Miss Mitchell, of Marion, S. C., is principal, and Miss Laura Whitley, of near town, assistant.

Misses Sophie Morton and Alice Grimes are visiting Mrs. W. H. Crawford, corner Watts and Elm Streets.

Charlie Hassell left Monday morning for Chapel Hill to attend the University.

WAVES in Their Uniforms

Aleut Chief Visits Naval Ship

Respectable Mike Hodikoff (left), chief of the Aleuts tribe, is shown with an officer aboard a U. S. Naval ship upon arrival at an unspecified Alaskan port. Hodikoff and other Aleutian inhabitants were evacuated from the danger area. Attu, an island which is inhabited by Aleuts, was the first north Pacific island to be invaded by the Japs. This is an official U. S. Navy photo. (Central Press)

Miss Lavenia Peel spent yesterday with Miss Bertie McNaughton near Everetts.

Mr. Arthur Anderson and son, Oscar, left for Baltimore Monday morning.

Mr. B. Mack Manning and little son, of Amherst, were in town last Saturday.

Mrs. H. H. Pope, of Autryville, is visiting her mother, Mrs. Belle Ellison.

Misses Mary and Josey Badger were visiting in town this week.

Mr. M. M. Critcher, of Jamesville, was in town yesterday.

Mrs. J. L. Ewell went to Richmond last Friday on a visit.

Mr. J. J. Manning, of Amherst, was in town last Friday.

Mr. W. A. James of Robersonville was here this week.

CARD OF THANKS

We wish to thank all of our friends and neighbors for their many acts of kindness, shown to us in our sad bereavement, in the loss of our little infant baby boy, who was born and died in Taylor hospital. We also wish to thank all of you for your presence and the beautiful flowers that covered the grave where our little darling was laid to rest.

Mr. and Mrs. Justice B. Coltrain and Family.

Soldier "Weds" But Did Not Have A Wife

Fort Bragg—He paid $5 for the marriage license, said, "I do," and paid the preacher, then later found he lacked a wife.

Such was the plight of Pvt. Bryan Clemmons, one of three brothers from Greensboro, who are members of the 65th General hospital here. Private Clemmons made the appalling discovery last week when he applied for Service Men's Dependent Allowance.

Nor was that all. The bride was legally "married" to the best man. This new epic of the classic love triangle, it seems, began back in Greensboro when Clemmons and the former Miss Ann Mebane plighted their troth in the Presbyterian church on May 14th. All, they thought, was legal and everything—pledged with a platinum ring, blessed by the minister, and duly recorded at the court house.

Then last week the truth came out in a photostatic copy of the marriage license sent here for Clemmons' allowance application.

Mrs. Clemmons, the record show-

Finding Much Scrap In Auto Graveyards

Auto graveyards continue to make large inroads on our country's scrap deficiency, according to July's report of the Conservation Division's Auto Graveyard Section.

The report, published August 24, credits the yards with a production of 434,448 tons of iron and steel scrap in July. This makes a total output of 1,633,369 tons for the four months during which the Conservation Division's Program to stimulate the flow of scrap from graveyards has been in existence. It averages 408,342 tons per month. Last year's average was 150,000 tons a month.

In addition to metal, the auto graveyards in July salvaged 18,697 tons of scrap rubber. Inventories on July 31st showed 7,943 tons of scrap rubber in the yards.

YOUR CLEANER

THESE TIPS WILL HELP MAKE YOUR VACUUM CLEANER LAST!

- 1 Empty the dust bag every time the cleaner is used. Do not wash the bag; clean it with a brush or beat it.
- 2 Always grasp the plug when you remove the cord from the socket. Never jerk the cord. When not in use, the cord should be wound loosely around the hooks on the handle. Avoid kinks and sharp bends.
- 3 Pick up pins, nails, coins or other metal objects by hand before cleaning. They may damage the cleaner or the bag.
- 4 Inspect the rubber belt of motor-driven, brush-type cleaners often. Belts should be replaced when they become slack.
- 5 Check the nozzle adjustment. It should be the thickness of a half-dollar from the floor covering before the vacuum cleaner is turned on. Brush bristles should be checked frequently. New brushes should be installed if they are not adjustable.
- 6 Do not run your cleaner against hard objects such as radiators, etc. Always take full advantage of the cleaning attachments you have.
- 7 If your cleaner requires oiling, do it regularly and with a small quantity of oil. Do not attempt to service or repair the motor yourself.
