street and disappear tomorrow. It is happening every day. France bought its freedom with blood. Where is that country of equality, fraternity and brotherhood today? It is virtually a nation of slaves, doing the bidding of one man. How many of you appreciate the opportunity that is yours to work and earn pay to support yourself and your family? While the freedom of speech, assembly and press must not be abused, they were created and preserved in contradiction to the idea advanced by Hitler.

"We exercise these and similar privileges every day without realizing we are on the verge of losing them," the judge said, adding that we must eliminate greed for power. "Those who have said that war is removed, are now on the verge of starvation in some lands. There is no limit and no area to which this force will not extend. It is total all-out war to live or die, sink or swim. There is no compromise."

"Our idea is going to prevail and the other idea is going to be snuffed out they simply cannot exist together. Our idea is worth fighting for, but we can't win by pussyfooting or soft-soaping about it. We must put into the fight all we got," the judge declared, and urged everyone on the farm, in the offices, business and factories, stores, to do his best. "There can be no let-up. The man who says he can give only fifty cents out of a dollar in taxes is defeated to start with. We have been losing this war so far, and we have not regained one five-hundredths of what we have had taken away from us. We are too cock-sure, but our citizens are waking up to the dangers, thank God. This war will take money, and the government is going to get the money. And there'll be sacrifices too. The government can get money in only two ways—taxation and by borrowing. And we can't fight this war by putting only one-half of what we have into it. We must remember that there'll be no grand jury to administer the law, that special courts will be created and judgments dictated without investigation if we lose this war. Everything America has created, accomplished and cherishes is at stake now."

The jurist's address was more in the form of an urgent appeal to all people to wake up to the dangers, but he did strike at the fellow who grumbles over the rationing system. "It is not a sacrifice," he declared to give up a little sugar or gas. "It should be recognized as a privilege to help his government," the judge said, adding with emphasis that it was contemptible to grumble.

Talking about sacrifices, the jurist told about a young man who after completing his college education last year, returned to his home and went to work on the farm. The day after Pearl Harbor, the fine young man entered the armed services. "The young man's parents were notified just a few days ago that he had been lost in action. That's sacrifice," the judge declared. "In cooperating with the rationing program and refusing to cheat, one is not doing more on God's green earth than what he ought to do and do it gladly."

Discussing some of the other serious conditions surrounding our war effort, the judge pointed out that we have suffered for avarice and greed, and said that the love of money has almost wrecked this country. "Production has been limited by some companies who would not release their stranglehold for fear they would lose their monopoly. The government ought to recapture or take back every penny made out of the misfortunes of his fellow-being."

Judge Williams stated he was confident we are going to win this war. "God is with us and our cause is righteous. But we must win it now and quickly."

"All this peace talk is secondary. The immediate need is to win the war. America will accept and discharge its duty in making and maintaining peace. We must win now to save lives, property and time."

"It is during such crucial times that we should work harder than ever to administer the laws as they should be administered. Our system is being tested, and I am convinced it will stand the test," Judge Williams said, warning the jurymen to enforce the laws, and to let their attitudes improve the attitudes of their neighbors for the promotion of law and order. An improved society will follow," the jurist concluded.

After briefly outlining the routine duties of the jury, Judge Williams turned the members over to their officer for scheduled work.

William High's Green Wave will formally open the 1942 football season next Friday night when a strong Edenton team will be engaged on the local athletic field. The kick-off is scheduled for eight o'clock, and football fans may expect a hard-fought contest when the two rivals clash.

Martin County Man One Of Four Killed In Wreck Saturday

Working in Portsmouth, Stowers and J. B. Whitfield, Jr., came to this county to spend the week-end with young Whitfield's parents. After the evening meal, they accompanied by Whitfield's brother and brother-in-law, Smith, of Winterville, and young Tyson left about 9 o'clock to attend a dance near Crisp in Edgecombe County. Stowers was driving and as they rounded a curve they met the Williams car. Reports reaching here state that Williams was driving so fast that he could not hold to his side of the road, that he crashed head on into the other car after Stowers had driven partly off the right side of the highway. Both cars were demolished.

Funeral services were held for Smith, 28, at his home in Winterville yesterday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Rev. C. A. Francis, pastor of the Baptist church there. He is survived by Mrs. Smith, the former Miss Adie Whitfield of this county; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Smith; two brothers, George W. Smith, of Sanatorium, and Woodrow A. Smith, of Winterville, and four sisters, Mrs. C. L. Patrick, of Hanrahan; Mrs. David Brock, of New Bern, and Misses Ella Gold and Jonnie Mae Smith, of Winterville. Mr. Smith, marrying Miss Whitfield several years ago, lived in this county until just a short time ago.

Funeral services for Stowers, 30, are being conducted in Portsmouth this afternoon. He is survived by his widow, one son, daughter and a sister and a brother.

Funeral services for the 22-year-old Whitfield boy will be held tomorrow afternoon at 3 o'clock at the home. Burial will follow in the Oak City Cemetery.

Besides his parents, he is survived by one brother, Jasper Whitfield, and four sisters, Mrs. Beatrice Hathaway, of Roanoke Rapids; Mrs. Theodore Smith, of Winterville, and Misses Juanita and Virginia Whitfield, both of near Oak City.

J. A. Staton was relieved of the payment of taxes on land valued at $640 and listed in error in 1941.

Four stray dogs listed to Abram Pierce but unclaimed by the Jamesville Township man, were ordered killed. It was explained that the dogs had not been vaccinated in accordance with law. The dogs will not be killed if the rightful owner has them vaccinated and listed for taxation, the commissioners ruled.
