

Washington Defeats Green Wave Friday In One-sided Contest

Washington High School overwhelmed Williamston High's Green Wave 62-6 in a game played in Washington last Friday night. Playing against what Washington fans describe as their best team in twelve years, Williamston was unable to match the fierce line play of their opponents and the large score was rolled up by the strong ground attack maintained by the Pam Pack throughout four full quarters of bruising football.

Paced by Bud Fowle and Dave Tayloe, runners extraordinary, the Pam Pack rolled up a large score by long, spectacular runs. Tayloe contributed three long runs for touchdowns, a 45 yard sprint from scrimmage in the second quarter, a 30 yard punt return in the third quarter and another punt return of 35 yards in the fourth quarter. Fowle scored three touchdowns, and averaged 6.3 yards per try in plunging the line 12 times.

Williamston fans had their big moment early in the second quarter when Ben Gurganus passed 10 yards to Bennie Weaver who caught the ball on his forty and raced 60 yards for the locals' only score. Billie Peel had set the stage for the scoring play by an interception of a Washington pass thrown by Howard.

Although the Green Wave's ground attack was throttled by their opponents fast charging line, fine pass plays by the Williamston lads maintained interest in the game. With Ben Gurganus coolly picking his man, nine passes were completed for a total of 107 yards. Most of the passes were short passes, good for three to

Local Stores Are Participating In 'Furniture Week'

The home you live in will play a vital part in winning the war. Morale begins at home, not only for those of us who now live there, but the memory of home spurs on the men and women in our armed forces. These are the homes they are fighting for; they would be the last ones in the world to want them to deteriorate. To keep faith we must protect and care for them so that America will continue to enjoy, today as well as tomorrow, the highest living standards of all the civilized world.

Is it patriotic to buy things for the home in wartime? The Queen of England has been quoted as saying: "Too much economy in these days is just as bad as too much reckless spending. One finds that we are all getting very sensible and realize the difference between the two."

All this will be stressed during the week of October 3 to 10, when stores in hundreds of cities throughout the nation observe National Furniture Week. It will be pointed out that there are no priorities on charm and comfort, which have made America's homes the best furnished and best equipped in the world.

Both the Wooldard Furniture Company and B. S. Courtney, local furniture dealers, are participating in National Furniture Week. Despite curtailments here and alternates there, those who have need of furniture, bedding and floor coverings will find them available, and the selections are still rather broad. Within the past year the furniture industry has tightened its belt, and is producing a third less patterns than in 1941, but all of the best selling styles and colors remain, and the inventories in the stores have never been higher. One reason for this is that the government urged early movement of furniture from the factories to the stores and warehouses, to clear the rails for needed troop and material movement later in the ten yards, with the receiver being immediately tackled, except in the case of the long run by Weaver.

Blocking on the part of the Green Wave was poor, and Williamston backs took a lot of punishment as they ran with the ball. Billie Peel displayed the real competitive spirit throughout the game and was the outstanding player for the locals. Bud Lilley displayed sparks of power at times, and Fred Hardison, tackle, was a power in the line.

Launch Carrier Lexington Year Ahead of Time

A year ahead of schedule and less than five months after the historic Coral Sea battle, a new 25,000-ton carrier Lexington is shown sliding down the ways at Quincy, Mass., Fore River shipyards of the Bethlehem Steel Company. The new carrier is a namesake of the one lost as a result of action in the Coral Sea. Mrs. Theodore Douglas Robinson of Mohawk, N. Y., widow of the late Assistant Secretary of the Navy, was the sponsor. (Central Press)

Look at That Pistol Fly!

This extraordinary photograph of how to disarm an opponent was taken at Paine Field, Wash., during a demonstration of commando tactics. First Lieut. D. I. Cady sends Corp. James Pearce's revolver flying through the air with a "tap" on the wrist. Of course, the wrist was a little numb for a while afterwards. (Central Press)

Forest Fires Are A Menace To Victory

The North Carolina State Forest Service makes an urgent appeal to every hunter and camper for his active cooperation in preventing forest fires during the coming fall hunting season in Eastern Carolina.

The forests of the state are vitally important to the war program by contributing in a gigantic measure to war industries. Southern pines and hardwoods are used in almost every phase of war production as construction lumber and timbers, wood pulp for paper and plastics, naval stores, explosives, veneers and plywoods for prefabrication of buildings, aircraft and naval craft. Wood is a versatile war material of absolute necessity. By preventing forest fires we have won the first battle in keeping the forest stands thrifty and productive in growing high quality timber.

A careless and thoughtless flip of a match or a cigarette can cause an appalling waste of potential forest products resulting in a loss to the timberland owner, to the community and to the nation.

Forest fires produce a sky glow visible for miles at sea as a direct aid to enemy submarines. Smoke from forest fires forms a dangerous hazard and interference to naval and air operations. At this time of all-out war, it is not enough that we set our goal at a mere reduction of forest fires, but at the elimination of them.

Although everyone realizes the danger and damage of forest fires, carelessness is still their major cause. The rule is to be alert—be careful—be thorough when discarding cigarettes, matches, pipe-heels; when burning brush, trash and leaves and when extinguishing camp fires. Report all forest fires and other county fires to the nearest forest ranger or county forest fire warden.

Remember that every forest fire reduces the personal safety of every citizen and interferes materially with the war program.

It takes five tons of iron ore, coke, limestone, and other materials to equal one ton of scrap metals.

Ther U S A Chamber is a-advertizin for a salesman to sell in eastern North Caliny. Hit dont say what they haves to sell, and that leaves a feller on ther fence, and a-gessin what he'll put his foot into when he gits down on thay side.

Course thay mout sell sum sales-tax, ef thay aint already sold all that out to ther U S A Congress. Or thay mout sell sum Jay What-you-call 'im finance-figgers, or thay mout sell sum in-bred veriety of ezy ways to wiggle into wealth, but in that case most of ther Tar-Heels air so well a-quainted with in-breds, when hit comes to producun, that thay would not be apt to do much bizness with ther farmers, and as fer most of ther manufacturars, a post-cyard would bring good bizness bout as quick as a good salesman.

And all that leaves a feller still on ther fence a-wonderin what that Chamber has planted down long that fence whar he's about to step down into.

Reduce Insurance Rates On Cargoes

Definitely on the encouraging side was the announcement last week telling of the second reduction within a month in cargo war risks by marine insurance underwriters. One of the principal reductions is on shipments between the United States and the West Indies, the east coast of Central America and Mexico, and the north coast of South America—all areas which, until recently, were the scenes of constant sinkings of merchant ships by submarines. Since it's hard-headed business that governs insurance rates, it's cheering to learn that cargo boats are a better risk than they were before. The report laconically attributed the rate change to "improved methods of conveying, and other protection."
