FILIPINO STRANGLES TO DEATH WOMAN HE LOVES

BLOSSOM MARTIN

Miss Blossom Martin, 23 years old, office assistant in the home of Dr. G. W. McAuliffe, New York city, was strangled to death by Eulogia Lozade, a manservant in the household. Lozade was arrested while attempting to dispose of the body at Mariner's Harbor, Staten Island. He is now locked up on a charge of homicide, and will be formally charged with the murder. Miss Martin and the young Filipino were sweethearts, and the cause of the tragedy was a quarrel over their love affairs and her insistence that he set a date for the wedding, according to the slayer. Patrolman Anthony A. Piscopo arrested Lozade, while he was attempting to dispose of the body. The victim is described as very pretty. The features and actions of her Filipino sweetheart reminded the detectives of a character in the jungle films.

The Era of Good King "Tut"

WHEN excavators unearthed the ancient resting place of Tut-ankh-amen, they found relics of untold value—beaten gold, works of art—precious stones in lavish profusion. These glowing treasures from the Valley of the Kings point straight back 3000 years to a golden age of luxury.

Yet all the wealth of good King "Tut" could not have bought him a toothbrush, rented a telephone for a day, or purchased a safety razor.

After all, this is really the golden age. We have more to be happy with—keener comforts for our choosing. An infinite variety of things have been developed so smooth the course of life to a degree unknown and unbelievable centuries ago.

Nowadays, new comforts and conveniences slip into our lives almost without our realizing it. We are apt to be rather matter of fact about it all.

And advertising is the instrument that makes most of these things possible. Advertising that has made it simple to make and distribute innumerable products at reasonable prices, has played a leading part in making our lives so eminently easy to live.

Read over the advertisements and try to think what the things you see there would have meant to old King "Tut." Then you will realize what a service and what a convenience advertising is to you.

You are not getting the most out of life if you overlook the advertising
