

Boys Sign Pledge Sit in Bleachers

Greenwood, S. C. Moves the Keyhole Boys Inside and Lets 'Em Root

Greenwood, S. C., July 23.—Greenwood boys no longer climb trees to raise their voices in protest at decisions of umpires of the Carolina baseball league as seen through knotholes in the fence. "The Keyhole Boys" have moved inside and now do their protesting from the first-base line.

Visions of the days when inability to raise a quarter kept him and his friends from getting more than a stolen glimpse of their favorite team in action brought about formation of the "Knothole Boys Club" here by Joel S. Bailey, president of the Greenwood Baseball Club and a member of the local Rotary Club. As a result the Greenwood Rotary Club took up the plan as a part of its boys' work program.

For the sum of 10 cents and presentation of a card issued when he signs a pledge, any boy in Greenwood can join the club. The plan is to get every boy in town into the baseball park and the results, it is said, have been so good that the Rotary Club is planning to enlarge the bleacher section assigned to the boys.

The pledge the boys sign follows: "I will attend Sunday school every Sunday, except in case of sickness. I will not use curse words. I will not gamble. I will not lie. I will be honest. I will live a clean life. I have read, or had read to me, the above obligation and I promise that I will always try to obey it."

Membership in the club and attendance at the ball games does not preclude the occasional visits to "Granma's out in the country" or frequent trips to the "old swimmin' hole." For the Carolina league teams play only on Mondays, Tuesdays, Thursday and Fridays.

Religious Liberty Baptist Doctrine

Dr. E. Y. Mullins of Kentucky Talks on Subject at Stockholm Conference

Stockholm, July 23.—Baptists of the world not only seek absolute religious liberty for themselves but an equal right for all other believers and non-believers to worship God according to the dictates of their conscience or refuse to worship God at all. Dr. E. Y. Mullins of Louisville, Ky., president of the Southern Baptist Theological Seminary and of the Southern Baptist Convention, told the Baptist World Alliance this afternoon in an address on "The Baptist Conception of Religious Liberty." Baptists were instrumental in securing guarantees for full religious liberty in the American Constitution and Baptists have flourished there as nowhere else on the globe, and they are now lending their influence in an effort to induce governments, both civil and ecclesiastical, to permit the largest possible liberty on the part of all individuals in their approach to God, the speaker said.

"Religious liberty rests upon man's original creation in the image of God," Dr. Mullins began, "and man as a person created in God's image, free and spiritual, competent to deal directly with God, with an upward look, an endless discontent with the finite and temporal, a passionate yearning for the infinite and eternal; man, endowed with a conscience ringing in the soul like an alarm bell against wrong doing; man with a will of his own which he can misuse and bring on moral ruin, but which he can surrender to God; man, with an intellect hungering for infinite truth and eternally discontented; man, with a heart which no earthly object can satisfy; man, self-willed and sinful and then penitent and believing, redeemed by the power of Jesus Christ, Redeemer and Lord; man, recreated in the divine image, with the witness of the spirit in his soul, telling him of his eternal destiny; man, as a child of God seeking to walk worthily of his calling, and heir of all the ages—this is the being and these the endowments which demand that great boon which we call religious liberty."

Declaring that religious liberty excludes certain things and implies certain other things, Dr. Mullins said that it excluded all state authority in religion, the principle of toleration in religion, as where the state puts its power and prestige behind one form of religion and merely tolerates others, the right of the state to impose taxes for the support of one form of religion against the conscience of the people; the imposition of religious creeds by ecclesiastical authority, centralized ecclesiastical government, priestly mediators and the sacramental power of salvation, and infant baptism; while among the things which religious liberty implies the speaker mentioned the right of direct access to God on the part of every individual, the right to search for truth in religion, the right of free utterance and propagation of the truth, the right of equal privilege in the church for all believers, the right of free association and organization for religious purposes, and the right of men to demand of governments under which they live protection in the free exercise of their religion.

Setting forth some of the duties which are imposed by religious liberty Dr. Mullins enumerated that of searching for and discovering the truth, that of sacrifice for the truth, that of loyalty to the state, and that highest of all duties, loyalty to Jesus Christ. "Not license, self-will or human will, but God's will as revealed in Jesus Christ is the goal of history and of religious liberty," the speaker said. "There is no danger in this religious liberty centered and anchored in Jesus Christ."

"HER FATAL MILLIONS" IS FULL OF SURPRISES

In her newest Metro starring vehicle, "Her Fatal Millions," which comes to the Alkrama Theater today, Viola Dana plays the role of a girl who posed as a millionaire to prove to an old sweetheart that fortune had smiled on her too. But she went a bit too far when she told him she was the wife of the wealthiest man in town, because when her "borrowed" limousine was wrecked and her "borrowed" finery lost, Fred took her to her "husband's" home. And then there were complications galore.
