

Zangwill Having His Laugh And U. S. Doesn't Know It

Keen Satire of Author and Playwright Entirely Overlooked by Audiences Which are Solemnly Taking Seriously His Flaying of Their Country

New York, Nov. 9.—"It is because I love you that I chastise you."

Thus Israel Zangwill, stormy petrel of Zionism, after flaying the members of his own race, explains the extremely sharp pointed barbs he has been hurling these last few days, and nights, at the American people as a whole.

Mr. Zangwill's attitude is a parental one. He would have us know that it hurts him worse than it does us.

A few interruptions, a few hecklers here and there, Mr. Zangwill said today would not deter him from telling us exactly what he thinks of us and what he believes at heart we really want to hear about ourselves.

Some wag has remarked that Mr. Zangwill has not discovered the real fault of the American people, particularly the women. It is their inordinate desire to attend lectures. In any event the distinguished Zionist has announced that the American worm can't turn on him because his sympathies are all with the worm.

There is no shadow of doubt that Mr. Zangwill has been stirring up a tempest ever since his arrival on these hospitable shores. First, he sat many of his own people in a rage and now he has started taunting the entire American continent.

"For, after all," he elucidates "you are really just a continent and not a nation." This last in criticism of the American attempt to curb immigration, after having been built up almost wholly by immigration.

"Even Christ himself could not get into your country," says Mr. Zangwill "because He would have to admit that He had once been in jail."

Mr. Zangwill's latest diatribe is directed at some of America's most precious follies, or habits. The safety razor he regards as an abomination of the devil. The old fashioned English blade is much better, just as a vigorous "tub" in the morning is so much better than our indolent bath. Mr. Zangwill says we tip ourselves to death. There is no curb to the custom or to the demands of the menials. Lavish tipping is but another evidence of our "vulgarity."

The attitude of the average American toward prohibition has come in for many of Mr. Zangwill's shafts of scorching satire. In reply to the critics who have protested against some of his utterances on this subject the English Jew, author and playwright has said that while he never would have passed dry laws, if he were a citizen of this country he would obey them.

"You preach the doctrine of 'my country, right or wrong' but not where prohibition is concerned. Prohibition is sublime, but you make it a joke. What is it making of you? A friend of mine poured himself a drink and then carefully hid the bottle."

Mr. Zangwill thinks the service in American restaurants is the worst he has ever encountered anywhere. And on top of this the waiters demand exorbitant tips. America's Sunday newspapers are "the height of vulgarity" and some of them weigh four pounds each. Mr. Zangwill has been unable to discover our vaunted sense of humor. He says we have neither humor nor shame. One of Mr. Zangwill's own countrymen made the remark seriously in an interview today that he could not understand why Americans persist on saying yes, they have no bananas when he sees fruit shops fairly bulging with them.

"But you are so lovable, so good" expostulates Mr. Zangwill. "That is the trouble with you, you are so good. You are so good that you like Henry Ford, you become the victims of crooks and cranks. It is not my purpose, like so many visitors, to flatter you while they are here and make fun of you after they are gone. You are big enough and strong enough to stand a little criticism. You are too good for mere flattery. Open your hearts and listen to the truth."

What some of his auditors have not appreciated about Mr. Zangwill

Country Doctors All Move To Town

No Wealthy Patients And Too Much Hard Work Says Chicago Physician

St. Louis, Mo., November 10.—"Reasonable living conditions," are necessary to restore permanently physicians and surgeons to rural communities, Dr. H. P. Colwell of Chicago, today told the convention of the American Country Life Association, in session here. Dr. Colwell is secretary of the Council on Medical Education and Hospitals of the American Medical Association.

The objectionable features of country practice," said Dr. Colwell, "are loss of well-to-do patients, long drives, bad roads, hard work, loss of income, increased expenses, poorer facilities for practice, no hospitals, no libraries, no laboratories, few churches, poorer schools and loss of time or opportunity for professional or personal development.

"What wonder, therefore, that the country doctor after struggling in vain against the rising tide of diffiis the fact that he is a satirist. He has been a satirist all of his life. It was inevitable he would have some satirical things to say if the American people kept on insisting that he lecture to them. And the sharper the things said the more insistent have been the invitations to Mr. Zangwill to address this or that organization. At first it seemed that the Jews were to monopolize the thin featured visitor, but now he is in demand everywhere. Mr. Zangwill knows that most of his hearers would have been bored and dissatisfied if he had not shot a few satirical sentences at them. And no wonder he looks in vain for an American sense of humor when he smiles at America and America does not smile back at him. For he is having his little joke, but America won't joke with him.

cutties finally decides to follow his disappearing clientele to the city. It is quite clear also why the young physician also, after graduating from medical school, usually in debt for his medical training, prefers to or from necessity must, remain in the city rather than go to the country. "Census figures show that of the total of physicians in the United States 63 per cent are in the cities of 5,000 or greater population, leaving only 37 per cent in cities or towns of less than 5,000. In other words in cities of 5,000 or above there is one physician for every 541 people. "To permanently restore doctors to rural communities requires restoration of reasonable living conditions in those districts."

What Can Chiropractic Do For Asthma?

Asthma presents a distressful and peculiar condition, for although the patients may believe they can't breathe in, what actually is wrong is the fact that they can't breathe out. The wind-pipe and bronchial tubes maintain an open passageway for air by means of the muscles which form their walls. These muscles are composed of circular fibers, and must be normal in tone to keep the passageway open. Their tonicity is maintained thru the flow of life force which reaches them by way of the nervous system.

When this life force is interfered with however, these circular muscles contract, that is, draw together, and occlude the passageway; air cannot then be breathed in, because the lungs and air passages are already filled with air that cannot get out.

Chiropractic adjustments release all pressure on the nerves, normal tone in the muscles will follow, and natural breathing will be the result. If you or any of your friends or relatives are subject to these attacks, seek the services of a Chiropractor at once, and permanent relief will follow.
