Mrs. Fearing Entertains

One of the prettiest and most delightful parties of the holiday season was the one table-bridge party given Saturday afternoon by Mrs. J. G. Fearing at her home on West Main street. The refreshments were served in three delicious courses and each guest received a prize. Those enjoying the afternoon with the hostess were: Mesdames Frank Selig, Thorburn Bennett, and Mrs. Oliver Gilbert.

Some Prettiest Girls

In the contest for the prettiest girl, decision upon which is to be made at the Christmas Carnival Friday, Misses Isabel Meekins, Leavelle Griffin, Mary Louise Skinner, Bernice Bradford, Elizabeth Kramer, Margaret McCabe, Elizabeth Etheridge, Margaret Bondurant, Lina Stevens, India Bartlett, and Margaret Hollowell have been nominated.

The ballot box is at the store of the Spencer-Walker Company and other nominations may be made there by those interested in having their "prettiest girl" receive the five pound box of candy, which is also on display at the Spencer-Walker Company.

Young Woman's Club

The Young Woman's Club will have an important meeting Tuesday afternoon at five-thirty at the club rooms. All members are asked to be present.

PERSONALS

Decorating For Christmas Carnival

Every committee in the ways and means department of the Woman's Club is working overtime this week in preparation for the Christmas Carnival which opens Friday afternoon at three o'clock.

There are eight booths to be fitted up and decorated, besides the social hall, the dance hall and the card room. The entire Shrine hall will be dressed up like a gorgeous Christmas palace and the carnival spirit will be rampant at the air that is most sedate persons who attend will find themselves drawn up and to one young again.

The lovely doll in the window of the M. Leigh Sheep Company is attracting the attention of all the little folks. This lovely doll is to be given away at the Christmas Carnival to the child who is voted to be the prettiest.

In the window of the Spencer-Walker Company is a five pound box of candy which is to be given away to the prettiest girl, and many are the fair maidens who hope to be lucky enough to win it.

There will be an especially attractive booth of fancy work where one may purchase gifts, also refreshment booths, fortune telling booths, and lots of other jolly features.

Just lots of fun for the money is the idea the committee started out with.

The proceeds, by the way, will go to the public library fund.

The committee in charge of the Christmas Carnival will be: Mrs. J. G. Fearing, president; Mrs. Albert Worth, doll booth;

Mrs. Frank Scott and Mrs. B. S. Stewart, hamonade booth;

Mrs. E. R. Outlaw, Jr. and Mrs. W. L. Colborn, fancy work booth;

Mrs. T. S. McMullan, Jr., no booth;

Mrs. L. E. Skinner, bundle booth;

Mrs. Duckworth Glover, Mrs. Edward Hughes, cards, mailboxes and rack;

Mrs. Harry Kramer and Mrs. Walter Small, decorations;

Miss Margaret Blades and Emily Hall Brock, balloons;

Misses Grace Jenkins and Billy
