ABE MARTIN

Mrs. Tipton had dropped dead in a barber's chair today. If there's anything in a name we wonder what Miss Wennie Lap, o' Belle Center, Ohio, has got comin' t her.

A Nation Sympathizes

Two strapping boys in their teens, one still in high school and the other home from his first year at college, passed our door with their father the other day, the elder already shooting up to a height that very nearly approximated that of his dad. Clean-limbed clear-eyed young fellows they were, and the father's happy pride in the boys who, one could see, regarded him as a companion and comrade, made one who had two youngsters of his own coming up through the grades in the public school think forward happily to a time when his own boys would be on the threshold of manhood.

We thought of that father today when over the wires came the news from the bedside of young Calvin Coolidge, Jr., and our heart went out to his father and mother as we envisaged their keen anguish and anxiety in the illness of their 15-year-old boy. And we know that the tide of sympathy that flooded our heart at the moment had its counterpart in the hearts of millions of other fathers and mothers throughout the country who have sons of their own whom they see or hope one day to see growing into manhood before their eyes. Surely on this great flood of sympathy from the homes of America are borne heavenward the prayers of a Nation that Mr. and Mrs. Calvin Coolidge, to whom in the hour of their trial all the honors of the Presidency seem vain and empty things as compared with the life of their boy, may find comfort and strength in an unfaltering trust in that Power which now alone can sustain and console them.

After having tried both, The Advance, beginning Monday, will send its 3 o'clock edition to South Mills instead of its noon edition. On South Mills R. F. D., however, subscribers will continue to be served by the noon edition, as otherwise their paper will reach them a day late.

We rave and tear our hair at this late date to see that David Lawrence's quotation from Kipling "never the twain shall meet," got printed "never the twin shall meet." But the printing press is as inexorable as Omar Khayyam's Moving Finger.

In lassitude as regards the second primary, Pasquotank seems to have led all the rest.

MADE W. J. B. A GREAT-GRANDDAD

Announcement that he was a great-grandfather came to William Jennings Bryan in the midst of convention turmoil. Here are Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Meeker, the happy parents. Mrs. Meeker is Bryan's granddaughter.

She Won for England

Miss Kathleen McKane, one of England's star net artists, who won the Wimbledon Cup for her country by defeating Helen Wills, the young California net star, in straight sets. In this international match, America claimed but one victory out of six matches, when Miss Wills and Mrs. George Wightman, wife of the trophy donor, took the doubles.

Gosh, how we hope this is the last day of the convention.

If the Democrats keep it up much longer, they'd might as well nominate Andy Gump and be done with it.

If the Democrats split and each faction nominates its own, that'll give us our choice of five candidates in November, Coolidge, LaFollette, McAdoo, Smith, and Andy Gump.

At any rate, the convention was considerable enough of The Advance to adjourn until Monday just before press time Saturday afternoon.

Perhaps, after all, it makes now very little difference whom the Democrats nominate. One can not escape a fear that the party has so weakened itself by its fight within its own ranks that it is ill prepared for a fight against an outside enemy.

Went fishing with the kids t'other day and counted the catch at three, but now discover that the number was greatly underestimated, for we hadn't then heard from the redbugs.

MOVING PICTURE FUNNIES

Cut out the picture on all four sides. Then fold carefully dotted line 1 its entire length. Then dotted line 2, and so on. Fold each section underneath. When completed turn over and you'll find a surprising result. Save the pictures.

Time Savers
The great American instinct is to save time—a lot of time—and then some more time.
In the big affairs and the little things of life, time seems to have taken on a mythical value—to be more precious to us than money.
We must have limited trains, special editions of our papers—and quick lunches. The institutions and utilities that we admire are the big time savers—the telephone and telegraph, our railroads and electrical conveniences.
And there is another great time saver in the lives of the people of Elizabeth City—the service given by the Daily Advance classified section.
When it comes to immediate action and eleventh-hour accomplishment—when time is money—the classified section of The Daily Advance is in a class with the other big time savers of everyday life.
