Capper has been one of the most active critics in the Senate of the Each-Cummins railroad law. He remained "regular," however, in the fight, led by the La Follette forces, to oust Senator Cummins from the chairmanship of the Interstate Commerce Committee. But he helped overthrow the presidential veto on the bonus bill and opposed the Mellon tax bill, indorsed by the president.

T was on his opposition to the presidential position on the bonus and tax measures that the fight against his renomination was based. As set forth in Caper's own 'Weekly,' the battle cry of his enemies was:
