

"Trust Not to Appearances."

That which seems hard to bear may be a great blessing. Let us take a lesson from the rough weather of Spring. It is doing good despite appearances. Cleanse the system thoroughly; rout out all impurities from the blood with that greatest specific, Hood's Sarsaparilla.

Instead of sleepless nights, with consequent irritability and an undue, tired feeling, you will have a tone and a bracing air that will enable you to enter into every day's work with pleasure. Remember, Hood's never disappoints.

Cold: "Goitre was so expensive in medical attendance that I let mine go. It made me a perfect wreck, until I took Hood's Sarsaparilla, which entirely cured me." Mrs. THOMAS JONES, 121 South St., Utica, N. Y.

Burning Sores: "Five years ago my affliction came, a running sore on my leg, causing me great anguish. Hood's Sarsaparilla healed the sore, which has never returned." Mrs. A. W. BARRETT, 39 Powell Street, Lowell, Mass.

A Gorgeous Carriage.

The most magnificent carriage in the Nice battle of flowers was in the form of a Russian sleigh, with the servants in Russian costume. The whole equipage was covered with pink and white camellias. In front of the sleigh was the head of a large polar bear and overhead hung a huge eagle perched on a snowy branch. Behind walked servants carrying silver axes. This sight carried one's mind back to the old stories of sleigh driving, pursued by wolves, over the snowy plains of Russia, the ominous eagle of destiny hovering overhead. Another competitor who favored the weird style of decoration was one whose carriage displayed a serpent made of pansies, with jaws wide open and red fangs flashing in the sunlight. This ferocious reptile was coiled round a tree and its head stretched forward as if to strike.—Chicago Record.

HEALTH and beauty are the glories of perfect womanhood.

Women who suffer constantly with weakness peculiar to their sex cannot retain their beauty. Preservation of pretty features and rounded form is a duty women owe to themselves. The mark of excessive monthly suffering is a familiar one in the faces of young American women.

Don't wait, young women, until your good looks are gone past recall. Consult Mrs. Pinkham at the out-start. Write to her at Lynn, Mass.

MISS EDNA ELLIS, Higginsport, Ohio, writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I am a school teacher and had suffered untold agony during my menstrual periods for ten years. My nervous system was almost a wreck. I suffered with pain in my side and had almost every ill human flesh is heir to. I had taken treatment from a number of physicians who gave me no relief. In fact one eminent specialist said no medicine could help me, I must submit to an operation. At my mother's request, I wrote to Mrs. Pinkham stating my case in every particular and received a prompt reply. I followed the advice given me and now I suffer no more during menses. If anyone cares to know more about my case, I will cheerfully answer all letters."

MISS KATE COOK, 16 Addison St., Mt. Jackson, Ind., writes: "DEAR MRS. PINKHAM—I am by occupation a school teacher, and for a long while suffered with painful menstruation and nervousness. I have received more benefit from Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound than from all remedies that I have ever tried."

The Marechal Niel Rose.

The Empress Eugenie gave the name "Marechal Niel" to the lovely rose which is so called. When General Niel returned from the field of Solferino, where he had signally distinguished himself, a poor man presented him with a basket of lovely yellow roses. To perpetuate their beauty the General had a cutting struck from one of the blooms, and when a rose tree had grown from this he presented it to the Empress Eugenie. She was delighted with the dainty gift, but was much surprised to know that the roses was known by no distinctive name. "Ah!" she said, "I will give it a name; and it shall be the Marechal Niel." Thus the Empress achieved two ends—named the flower and acquainted the General with the fact that he had been raised to the coveted office of Marshal of France.

Sheridan Knowles's Memory.

As Sheridan Knowles, the dramatist, was walking down the strand one day with a friend, he stopped to greet a gentleman, who, however, received him very coldly.

"Do you know," said he to Knowles, "that you owe me an apology?"

"An apology! What for?" asked the dramatist.

"For not keeping that dinner engagement you had with me last Thursday. I had a number of people to meet you, and you never came or even sent an explanation of your absence."

"Oh, I'm so sorry!" exclaimed Knowles. "I've such a memory that I forgot all about the affair; forgive me, and invite me to another dinner."

It was then arranged that he should dine with the gentleman on the following Wednesday, and, in order that the engagement might not again be forgotten, he then and there recorded it in his diary. On rejoining his friend he told him the story of his lapse of memory.

"Who is the gentleman?" asked the friend.

"Well, I'm blest," cried Sheridan Knowles, "I have forgotten his name!"

"That's funny," said the friend; "but you can easily find out by referring to the Directory. You know his address, of course."

"No—not even that!" roared the unhappy dramatist.—Waverley Magazine.

When Wellington Gave a Party.

One day, when some small visitors happened to be in the nursery at Stratfieldsaye, the Duke of Wellington walked up to the top of the house and found the youngsters at tea. He gazed grimly around, as if the room were a field of battle, and noticed that there was no jam on the table.

Without a word he rang the bell violently. A footman appeared and stood petrified.

"Have the goodness to understand," said the Duke, in a voice of thunder, "that when children are invited to my house to tea they are to have jam!"

Then he departed, and before he was out of earshot a shout went up that must have reminded him of Waterloo.

The Olive's Power of Adaptation.

The olive has an almost human gift of adaptation to environment. It flourishes in a temperature that falls to fourteen degrees above zero, and in the inland valleys of California, where the thermometer reaches 120 degrees, it grows irrigated only by natural rainfall. It finds in the California foothill just such homelike surroundings as at its 4000-foot level in Algeria and its Italian elevation of 3200 feet. It will prosper in any friable soil rich in lime and potash, as are all the virgin lands of the coast. It also does well where its roots can penetrate easily a rocky, clay, sand, granite, or volcanic formation, seeming to prefer an arid mountain soil, but not disdaining life in the black adobe near the coast.

The Age of Olive Trees.

The age of the oldest olive trees in California runs back over ninety years. They are six in number, and stand about the San Gabriel Mission, still bearing fruit, and living monuments to the wisdom of the Franciscan friars. The oldest olive tree in the country is that at the Capistrano Mission, thirty miles south of Los Angeles. Its seed came from Corsica in 1769, and the purpose was to provide food from the trees for the monks, who came from olive-growing regions in the same latitudes as Southern California, in Spain and the south of France. The old monarch has been photographed hundreds of times by tourists. It is fully fifty feet high and has a trunk five feet in diameter.

China Like a Graveyard.

The wife of an American naval officer stationed at Tien-Tsin, China, writes thus to a friend in Baltimore: "The trip by train from the landing to Tien-Tsin takes about an hour and a half. The cars are not palatial, but they are comfortable. When you land hundreds of coolies besiege you for your baggage. You wonder how it ever reaches its destination in safety. The trip is somewhat interesting, but rather desolate to take alone. You pass through miles of graveyards. There are thousands of mounds without a sign of green grass or green leaf. China seems to be one vast graveyard, for they bury their dead anywhere they wish. They bury in large coffins, placed on the surface of the ground, covered over with mud and earth. This is blown and washed away, and then the coffins are exposed to view. A few miles from the railroad station on the river you come to trees and vegetation. It reminds you of some of the poor land that some of our railroads at home go through."—New York Tribune.

Up on the Statutes.

Cincinnati people love to tell this story on General Benjamin F. Butler: He was one of a commission to examine young applicants for admission to the bar, and before him came a youth who failed miserably on all that pertained to jurisprudence, case law, civil law, summary law, unwritten law and due process of law. Finally, Butler, who rather liked the chap and wanted to see him through, asked: "What would you like to be examined in?" You have failed in everything we have suggested." The reply came: "Try me on the statutes; I'm up on them." Butler shook his head solemnly. "My young friend," he said, "I'm afraid you won't do. You may be ever so familiar with the statutes, but what is to prevent a fool Legislature from repealing all you know?"—New York Press.
