

TO SWIM THE CHANNEL.

Miss Lillian Smith, captain of the Ladies' Perseverance Swimming Club, of England, has declared her intention of trying to swim the English Channel during the present season. Though she is only eighteen, she has already performed some remarkable feats as a swimmer. She accompanied Jabez Wolffe in one of his at-Kellerman, of Australia, made a val- tain reading and class rooms, lecture iant effort to reach Calais, but failed. and music rooms," also has filed a Dances may come and dances may go, but the waltz, which this year Robert J. Collier, Miss A. M. Herts attains its contenary, never loses its popularity. It is the most graceful dance left to us now that the days of the minuel are over, and it has inspired some of the most delightful coin such a word .--- Woman's Life.

SUFFRAGE IN DENMARK.

morials thanking them for their ef- servant sprang from his sofa.

Our Cut-Out Recipe. French Salad Dressing .- The bowl in which the dressing is to be made should be rubbed with garlic or half an onion. Just enough will adhere to the bowl to flavor the dressing. Now put in one terspoonful of salt, half a tenspoonful of pepper, and pour slowly over this, a few drops at a time, half a cupful of olive ofl. Stir well all the time, and when the call is dissolved add two tablespoonfuls of vinegar. This Pase should be well blanded with the other ingredients, and the drassing should be used at once.

women. At the public celebration | a thing?" he demauded indignantly, ministers delivered short "I never heard of anything like it in both speeches congratulating the women my life! Eight hours indeed! Why on their victory. During the jubilee you won't find a self respecting footbanquet that night a telegram was man in the whole town to support sent to the King, who returned an such a movement!" "How many answer expressing his good wishes for hours do you work?" asked the asthe results of the reform.

MME. MAETERLINCK'S WIT.

Georgette Leblane, the actress and papers, which are very interesting, singer, who in private life is Mme. just now. I'm not fool enough to Maeterlinck, has a strong sense of follow your example, gentlemen!"

Florence Guersney, Mrs. C. A. J. Q. Berner, Miss Mary G. Hay, Mrs. John C. Coleman, Mrs. Robert H. Rucker, Mrs. C. C. Ruthrauff and Mrs. Gabriel S. Mulliner, all of New York; Mrs. J. Heron Crossman, of

Wood, of Mount Vernon. The Educational Theatre of New York City, formed "to provide moral training and inculcate in the minds tempts to swim the Channel and re- of children and young people the mained in the water four and a half ideal of life and conduct by the prehours. She is not the first woman to sentation of plays and entertainments make the attempt. Last year Anneite of ennobling character and to maincertificate of incorporation. The di-WALTZ NEVER OUT OF FASHION. rectors are Samuel L. Clemens, the Rev. Percy S. Grant, Otto H. Hahn,

New Rochelle, and Mrs. Joseph S.

and Charles E. Miner.

LABOR BUT FOUR HOURS.

Many of the upper servants in Russtrains in the world of melody, sinn households lead very easy lives. Where every other dance nowadays is During a period when waiters and a waltz it is necessary to accomplish chambermaids employed at large esthis really well, and the girl who tablishments, hotels and restaurants gains a reputation as a graceful in Warsaw decided to sirike, many waltzer 'rarely suffers from the ago- servants in private houses refused to nies of "wallflowerdom," if we may support them, and some soon returned to their employeers.

A servant in the employ of one old nobleman who does not exact much The women of Denmark are re- work from his household received the joicing over the granting of com- men who had come to persuade him munal and municipal suffrage to to join them. "What do you gentlethem. A delegation from the Danish men want?" he asked languidly from National Suffrage Association waited the sofa on which he was reclining. upon the Prime Minister and the Min- "To join the general strike for an inter of the Interior to present me- eight hour day," was the reply. The forts in behalf of their country-" "How dare you even suggest such

GARDEN SOUNDS. I love to hear the bluebells chime, And little cowslips moo.

Of tiger lilies roaring 1'm A constant lover, too.

But best of all the garden sounds To which I love to hark. Is when at eve I go my rounds The Johnny-jum-pups bark. --Carlyle Smith, in Harper's Weekly.

A PRELIMINARY REQUIREMENT. Tom-"Why don't you get a new pring suit?" Dick--"I can't find a new tailor."

-Somerville Journal.

A SPORTING EVENT.

Mrs. Peck-- Henry, do you see inything in the paper about Blinker running over his mother-in-law?" Mr. Pack-"Not yet. I haven't ome to the sporting news."-Puck.

THE SPRING DELUGE.

"I had a delightful talk with the Sovernor of the State." "Enjoyed it, ch?"

"Yes; he didn't want to sell me a icket for anything." --- Washington Herald.

NOT UP TO DATE.

"Wasn't their divorce a shocking iffair?" said Mrs. Feathergilt. "Inexcusable," answered Mrs Smartsett. "They both had the most anfashionable lawyers they could ind."-Philadelphia Press.

KNEW WHAT WAS COMING.

"I have often marvelled at your prilliancy, your aptness at repartee, FOULT-

"If it's more than $5, old man, I an't do a thing for you. I'm nearly proke myself."-Houston Post.

CHUMS.

THE PULPIT.

AN ELOQUENT SUNDAY SERMON BY THE REV. J. E. ADAMS.

Subject: Man's Part in God's Plan.

Street Presbyterian Church, corner mission of their lives. We are told of Wilson street, the pastor, the by Plutarch that Julius Caesar, on a Rev. John Erskine Adams, preached night of storm, crossing a channel Sunday morning on "Man's Part in in a light, open boat, quieted the God's Plan." The text was from Ro-mans 8:28: "And we know that to him by telling them: "Pluck up your them that love God all things work courage; you carry Caesar." This together for good." Mr. Adams great Roman believed in his dessaid:

The Apostle Paul has been called him believe that he was born for a a fatalist. Perhaps, in late years, he has been the object of more discussion and criticism than any other New Testament writer. Preacher and new alike have striven to undermine his system of theology. They have sought to avoid many of the fundamentals of his faith. They have told us that it is high time we should come into a larger conception of the ethics of Christ's life, and a lessening sense of the im-portance of His death. They say hat much of His writings was for the Jew and couched in such figurative anguage that the Jew alone could understand and appreciate, and acordingly, He dweltatlength upon the vpical and sacrificial rather than upon the practical and ethical. And n the chapter from which our text he horrible doctrine of predestinaion, a doctrine which by many is acepted as synonymous with a fatalistic creed which eliminates man's free agency and subjects all things to an incontrovertible and changeless law of necessity. I wish to show ou, if possible, to-day, how different vas Paul's concention of our relaion to God and God's relation to us. Let us not doubt that Paul had absolute convictions that in all things God's will would be accomlished. But let us not doubt, also, that he had absolute convictions that nen must become co-workers with God in the out-workings of the divine plan. There was one occasion when he fully illustrates these truths. It is when, as a prisoner, he is being brought to Rome to stand before Caesar. This is the message of revelation to him. In this he sees the will of God. With this purpose he has nothing to do. He may not modify it nor change it, resigns himself to it. No He Nothing an prevent its accomplishment. It a God's will that he should come to But shipwreck threatens. Rome. The ship on which he is captive is overtaken with disaster. Fog. storm, darkness, danger, all seem to indiate the defeat of the divine plan. It seems as if all on board must be lestroyed. And again, the divine will is manifest. Paul is assured of safety for himself and all on board that ship. But what does he do? day. Does he, in view of this assurance, this impulse, Savonarola schieves. Under this impulse John Knox wrought, defying throngs and dev-Lincoln and Washington were ils. the men they were, and did the things they did because they were allied with God, and through their personality expressed the divine purpose and power. It was because of their certainty that God was above them and in them, and that right would triumph, that they went stead-Brooklyn, N. Y .- In the Ross ily forward to accomplish the high

A secret presentiment bade tiny. notable career. He had power, he had resource, but above all. a profound bellef in his star. The man who has not such a faith is to be pitled.

We all need such a vision. Without it we perish. Aspiration is inspiration. Let us not be deterred from building our castles, though they are in the air. Perchance God will help us lay the foundations under them and make them real and strong and permanent. The man who says: I must and, God helping me. I can, is the man who has confidence in himself to do something that no one else can do, and that otherwise will remain undone.

How wonderfully God holds terrific energies in leash and under control subject to the gradual outworks taken we seem to have presented ing of His perfect idea for the children of men. In the realm of nature all things work together for good. The sun, which has in it heat sufficient to consume our little world in means. David was truly a man of a fragment of time, nurses to a fuller life by its gentle caress the tender Hly and the modest violet. It cate aroma; it puts the roses into that sort. Saul had been rejected by the cheek of the child and the song Jehovah, nevertheless the fact stood into the throat of the nightingale as that he was the Lord's anointed (v.9), it soars and sings to the clouds. It and the anointed of the Lord was that it furnishes but a trite subject | Lord's anointed and be guiltless (Ps. for our consideration. But under- 105:15). It is well to remember in neath all physical manifestations is moral purpose. Nature is God's work together for his good. And geance of his wrong and the estab-as with nature, so in history. As lishment of himself in the place to in the roaring of the seas and the which God had appointed him entirely phere we breathe is cleansed and we the

And, finally, human experience make no effort to avoid the dangers testifies to the same truth. We are He challenges Saul to point out one and overcome the difficulties? Does told that on one occasion Napoleon thing that he had done that deserved he meekly resign himself and his was shut up in an island of the his hate. Nothing can exceed David's shipmates to the inevitable? By no Danube, hemmed in by the Arch- marvelous humility (v. 19), The means. He becomes a co-operator duke Charles. He was able to main- thing that David especially bemoar with God in the fulfillment of His tain timself there, but he sent word is that he is driven away fro purpose. He heartens all on board to Italy and Spain and France, and ship with Jehovah and His peo that ship. He feeds them, He as- he ordered his marshal with such 14). He speaks of himself as a flea sures them of safety; but of safety minuteness that every day's march only as they use every precaution, was perfect. All over the north of how foolish it is for the mighty king France, and from the extreme south of Israel to be hunting for a flea or a as they overcome treachery; as they of Spain and Portugal, the corps strive with all courage and persistence to save themselves and their were, all of them, advancing, and He says to the Centurion and day by day coming nearer and nearship. the soldiers who had him in convey, er. Not one of them, on the march, had any idea what was the final purwhen the fear-stricken seamen would have sought escape in a small pose, and why they were being orboat: "Except these abide in the dered to the central point. But on ship, ye cannot be saved." In other the day the master appointed the words, he couples human endeaver, head of the columns appeared in every direction. Then it was that courage and skill with divine promhe was able to break forth from his ise and protection. And so, deliverwrought. All things were bondage and roll back the tide of ance is to work together for good; but in war. How like our life, as it moves that result one of the essential facon, to the command of the Master. tors must be human courage and Its forces seem confused to us, withfidelity. The sun shines to-day for and cohesion, ofttimes antagonistic. me, for all the world. That is cer- Joy and sorrow, health and sickness, prosperity and adversity-all march Nought we can do may pretain. vent its shining. But it only shines in their appointed paths and to their for me as I open my eyes to receive appointed ends. But at last we shall see behind them all the one will and its light. It is in my power to keep the one power, and we shall be able my eyes shut, if I will. Paul declares in this chapter that to say on the day of final emancipation and victory, as said Joseph of nothing can separate us from the love of Christ; neither tribulation, old. God meant it unto good, to distress, persecution, famine, nakedbring it to pass. So, let us go forth, renewing our ness, peril, sword, principalities, powers, things present, things to courage as we renew our confidence that to them that love God all things come; none of these things shall inwith the keeping, saving terfere work together for good.

INTERNATIONAL LESSON COM-MENTS FOR AUGUST 30.

Subject: David Spares Saul's Life, 1 Sam, 26-Golden Text, Luke 6:27 -Commit Verse 21-Read Chapters 21-25-Commentary.

TIME .- 1060 B. C. PLACE .- The Hill of Hachilah.

EXPOSITION .--- I. David reasons with Saul, vs. 17-20. Saul is in David's power and completely at David's mercy a second time (vs. 1-12; cf. ch. 24:3-8). And a second time David shows the greatness of his character. He will not stretch forth his hand against the Lord's anointed (v. 11). Abishai was right in judging that God had delivered David's enemy into his hand (v. 8; cf. v. 23; ch. 24:18, 19; Josh. 24:44; Judges 1:4), but he was wrong in his judgment of what David should do with his enemy whom God had delivered into his hand, God gives our enemies into our hands that we may save them, not that we may destroy them. David's real magnanimity comes out in that he not only refused to slay Saul himself, but also would not permit another (v. 9). The death of Saul would mean the end of his own trials and his accession to the throne, but he will not accept deliverance and glory by questionable faith. In his conscience he had been less keen. He could easily have satisfied it by saying, "I did not kill him." touches them and evokes their deli- But David's conscience was not of is true that so well do we understand sacred in David's sight. No one can the constructive forces of nature, stretch forth his hands against the the application of this principle that and phenomena, let us believe there in the present dispensation all Christ's are the Lord's anointed (1 John 2:20great temple in which His voice is 27, R. V.). David's respect for the heard. It was through nature's sub-limity that David realized man's dig-that anointed one was his personal nity. Above all nature, next to God, enemy, was deep and abiding (ch. stands man. And for him all phy- 24:6, 7; 2 Sam. 1:14-16). David was sical forces are in harmony and entirely content to leave the venclash of the elements the atmos- in God's hands. When Saul was thoroughly awakened to the fact that enter into more vigorous life. So David had had him in his power and wars, which seemingly spell yet had spared his life he was brought ruin; the crumbling of nations, to momentary repentance. He adwhich spells corruption: through all dresses the David, whom he had storm and revolution, through shock sought to murder, very tenderly (v. and tempest. God is leading the sons 17), and David answers with marof men out into larger life, and velous humility. He calls his would-bringing on the brighter and better be assassin, Saul, his Lord and King, He seeks to awaken Saul to his folly by pointing out his own innocence. He challenges Saul to point out one or a partridge and points out to Saul partridge in the mountains. There is no insincerity in this. David entertained the most humble opinion of himself in spite of his rare gifts. He humbled himself and God exalted him. II. Saul's Brief Repentance and Gratitude to David, vs. 21-25. Saul, blinded though he was by envy, was forced to see the generosity of David. He says the very thing that every sinner needs to say, "I have sinned." But there is no real and saving conviction of sin and consequently no permanent turning from sin (cf. ch. 15:24, 30; Luke 24:17; Ex. 9:27; Num. 23:34; Matt. 27:4). There is no saving power in conviction of sin if one goes right on sinning (Prov. 28:13). Saul promises that he will no more do David harm because his life had been precious in David's eyes. He never had another opportunity to do David harm. Saul's description of his own conduct was both true and expressive. He had "played the fool and erred exceedingly." That is precisely what every sinner and every. one who fights against God is doing. Unfortunately, though Saul recognized the true character of his conduct, he did not quit it. In that too he has many imitators. All the Sauls on earth cannot prevent a righteous man from getting his just and full due (cf. Eph. 6:8). David would not even keep the king's spear as a memento of his victory. David knew that God deals with us as we deal with our fellow-men (vs. 23, 24; cf. Ps. 18:25; Matt. 5:7; 6:14, 15; 7:2). David's whole future history shows how much his life was "set by in the eyes of the Lord." As he had not undertaken his own deliverance he looked to the Lord to deliver him out of all tribulation (v. 24). This the Lord did, giving complete deliverance from perils that arose again and again and threatened to overthrow his throne. David reaped the good seed he had sown (cf. Ps. 18). For a moment Saul was entirely reconciled to David. He blessed him and declared his triumph, but David thoroughly understood how little confidence was to be placed in the permanence of Saul's repentance. LEADING QUESTIONS. - What truths about Christ are suggested by the lesson? What characteristics of David are brought out in the lesson? What does the lesson teach about What does it teach about faith? God? What does it teach about treatment of enemies? What is the best jesson in the passage?

humor and a pretty natural wit. In Paris they are reciting with enjoy- committee," the deputation urged. ment her latest bit of repartee. .

She was on tour lately in a provincial town where a local company was engaged to support her in one of Maeterlinck's plays. But the local support was weak and halting and a day!"-New Haven Register. the poet's lines were mangled, some of the actors apparently not in the least understanding what they were saying.

, Mme. Maeterlinck, whose admiration for her husband is public history, indignantly sought out her manager.

"A writer like Maurice Maeterlinck should be treated with more respect," she said indignantly.

"Madame," he answered, "M. Macterlinck is not the first to suffer. Sophocles, Moliere and Racine are daily murdered in the same way."

"Possibly," quickly replied Mme. Maeterlinck, "but they are not murdered alive, at any rate!"-Philadelphia Record.

FOOD FOR HUSBANDS.

A woman, discussing how to feed a husband, said she soon cured her husband of fussiness and faddishness about his food. He said that he had to take what he could get. Now, why should he? His work and money buy every scrap of food which entor the home. It is the husband's right that he should have the food that he likes best, properly cooked and served on the table he bought, in the house whose rent he pays, by the wife to whom he gives a housekeeping allowance as a trust fund. He strives his very best to support his family in comfort and some degree of luxury. His wife should strive her very best to lay out the money he intrusts her with so az to secure health, happiness and content in the home. It is a very clear bargain between husband and wife. If a mun is "grumpy" at meals there's usually something the matter with the meals. The sourest-tempered male begins to smile when the savory scent of an appetizing dish rises like incense before the altar of his appetite. Kisses and sentiment do not compensate a man for poor cooking and monotonous catering .---New York Timos,

WILL TEACH LOVE OF FLAG.

Moved by a desire to do "active patriotic work," which shall include "teaching the true meaning of the American Fiag to immigrants and their children," women of New York City and nearby places have farmed the National Society of Patriotic Women of America, and they filed with the Secretary of State at Albany. a certificate of incorporation. The directors are Mrs. William T. Helmutic, Mrs. William R. Stewart, Mrs.

"Then give us some money for the "Never! I should be acting against all my principles if I gave as much as a kopeck toward supporting an organization which is in favor of domestic servants working eight hours tonished delegates. "Two or three at the most. I spend most of my time on this sofa, reading the news-

Velvet wraps are worn with lincn gowns.

A beautiful taffeta gown is covered by a batiste redingote.

The colors of ribbon should be governed by the gowns one has.

This season all the best gowns have sleeves that are no sleeves at all. Petticoats of different material from the tunic are conspicuous on gowns.

The square dot is a very effective design for decorating collars, waists, belts, etc.

Short boas of feathers are worn and tied at the back with a bow of black velvet.

The new skirt hugs close to the limbs and lies in a wad on the ground around the feet.

Hats of the lightest description are needed to complete the picture during the present season.

Ruches just long enough to go in a way that suggests Elizabethan ruche.

The inexpensive striped lawns make cool and delightful morning walsts and frocks for the house and veranda.

Old rose is a color that is coming very much into fashion at the present just made a dismal failure. moment, and it can be used for an all-white gown.

It is always good to have a band and a bow of black, and one of black and white striped ribbon, as these go with every costume.

Sweet peas represent modistic triumph just now, the manufacturers painting." having surpassed themselves in the beauty of the colorings.

Add a dainty touch to the simple white lawn waist you are embroidering with soutache by putting the seams together with the tiny French beading.

The ideal shirt for clinging, graceful lines is made of one of those soft materials like chiffon cloth with a band of satin about the lower edge to drag it down.

There was a question whether the the fashionable American woman N. T. Phillips, Mrs. John F. Yawger, would adopt the sheath style; but the Mins Mary Vau V. Vanderpoel, Mrs. sale of satin knickerbockers to match was and the falling off of petti-

The Tall One-"When I was your lize I was just sweetly pretty." The Short One-"What a pity you grew up!"-In the New York Telegram.

THE WILY AGENT.

"How do you succeed in insuring so many people?"

"I look them over, and then I look doubtful, and offer to bet them a dollar that in their present state their application for insurance would be rejected."-Houston Post.

NOTHING DOING.

"I tell you I must have some money!" roared the King of Maritana, who was insorefinancial straits. 'Somebody will have to cough up." "Alas!" sighed the guardian of the creasury, who was formerly court jester, "all our coffers are empty."-Judge.

THE TRUTH OF IT.

"You can't buy happiness," exclaimed the sentimentalist.

sternly practical, "You can't buy appiness. And at the same time that fact doesn't imply that your comabout the neck are tied in the middle fort is enhanced by being broke."-Washington Star.

> the curtain again for?" demanded the stage manager, clutching the arm of

"Somebody's clapped," blurted the was."-The Circle,

DUBIOUS PRAISE.

"Grey, the art critic, came along just as I was looking at your new God's keeping, and yet wrought,

"You mean my 'At Work in the Fields.' And what did Grey think of 11?**

"Commended its realism highly. Said even to look at it made him tired."-Boston Transcript.

HE GOT IT.

"James," said Mr. Rakeley, "I b lieve you saw me-er-saluting nursemaid." "Why, yes, sir," replied the "Well, it's best to keep quiet al it. Do you understand?' "Yes, sir," replied James, with upturned palm; "silence is golden, power of God's love, in Christ. And et, we hear him on another occasion fearing, lest, having preached to others as a minister of God's grace, he himself might be a castaway. He lives again, he says; yet not he, but Christ in him; and still he is using will to keep his body under, to reprincipalities and powers, wickedness enthroned; it is a race in which, if he would win, he must strain every nerve and stretch every muscle and lay aside every weight, and the sin which so easily besets: he must run with patience, with peryour own power, looking to Jesus, as your example, inspiration, stimulus and strength. If he wrote the he did or another of the saints is aminer. immaterial, the principle is the same; he made out a list there of men and of women who were in achieved. suffered. triumphed. through the exercise of dauntless courage and of spiendid faith. And so we are led to say that Paul's conception of life was that of al-Hance with God. He was destined of divinity for high achievement. This is not pride, it is not egotism. save of the right sort. All great men have lived and achieved under this conception and in this thought. The men who have done things have done them because they have known themselves called of God for achievethey are also agents in its carrying on and out. Under this impulse, on and out. David wont forth from the sheepfold to the scoptre. With the anointing oil of the prophet upon him, he waged his battles against the Philippines and conquered. Under conquere'.

Advanced Thought.

He cannot justly be charged with illiberality who "adheres to that which is good" until a better is provided. A starving man who casts all the powers of determination and away a loaf of bread because he imagines a ten-course dinner ahead strain it; to make it perfectly re-sponsive to the control and ordering fool. Why give up our Christian of God. To Paul, this life is a con- faith, which has proved so good, so stant struggle; a warfare against long as only the vague and ghostly with chimera of "advanced thought" is proposed to take its place? Some of us know that faith in Christ is a very real and precious and joyous possession, a comfort in sorrow, a help in trouble, a spur to higher living, a source of assured hope for That the life beyond; what has science, or gives us the idea exactly. Use all human philosophy, or any of the "free thousand and one vagaries of thought" to offer in its stead? - A. joyless life, a rayless future, a letter to the Hebrews, and whether guenched soul-Nirvana!-The Ex-

How Character is Made.

One of the chief dangers of life is trusting occasions. We think that conspicuous events, striking experiences, exalted moments have most to do with our character and capacity. We are wrong. Common days, monotonous hours, wearisome paths, plain old tools and everyday clothes tell the real story. Good habits are not made on birthdays, nor Christian character at the new year. The vision may dawn, the dream may waken, the heart with a new inspiration on some mountain top, but the test, the triumph, is at the foot ment. They are in the divine plan; of the mountain, on the level plain. -Malthie D. Babcock.

His Eternal "Know,"

Christ did not build His Gospel on a "grand perhaps," but on the "cier-Th -Home Herald, ial know.

The Buffalo Commercial remarks: Conditions of the market and the cason are decidedly against the maintenance of higher prices for beef. The variety of food in our markets is so great that almost any family can reduce or suspend its consumption of beef without discomfort in the hot months of the summer. This reduction in the demand is contain to rol-low a material rise in places and thus counteract the reduction in supply."

"No," answered the man who is

MOVED BY CURIOSITY.

"What are you going out befor,

the new vaudeville artist, who had sistence, looking to Jesus.

actor, "and I want to find out who it