A sacrifice was never yet offered to a principle that was not made up, wise. Certainly, it is a pleasant and a wise thing, then, to follow what is right, when we only go along with our affections and take the easy way of the virtuous propensities of our nature.

The world is sensible to these truths; let it act as it may. It is not because of his integrity alone that it relies on an honest man; but dte has more confidence in his judgment and wise conduct, in the long run, than in the schemes of those of greater intellect, who go at large without any landmarks of principle. So, that virtue seems of a double nature, and to stand oftentimes in the place of what we call talent .-- R. R. Dana.
