

"HONOR TO WHOM HONOR IS DUE."

Will you allow a stranger a short space in your valuable paper to call the attention of the old North Carolina Confederate Soldier to the acts of one of their old comrades in arms, as deserving of the highest commendation, and facts which seems to be known to but few of those who carried muskets. The name of this comrade is Col. W. F. Beasley, of Plymouth, N. C. The record in the war Department at Washington, D. C., show him to have been the youngest Colonel in the Confederate service. But it is not my desire to tell of his gallantry on the field of battle. I wish to tell my old comrades of the days which tried men's souls, of his love and sacrifice made for them since the days of 1865. He was the first man in North Carolina who advocated the erection, or procuring of a home for the old North Carolina soldier. It seem one great desire of his heart that these war-worn and battered heroes who had for four long and trying years, stood as a rock between their love State and its constantly increasing and powerful foes should be cared for, wherever he went and with whatever company he was thrown, he would advocate the providing for them. He made numerous sacrifices and spent of his limited means freely, hoping that his heart's desire might be accomplished, and his old comrades safely housed. Years passed, and at last he saw a home provided for them. But his efforts in their behalf did not end. He said that the "Home" of itself was not sufficient, and that to make it easier for them as they went down the decline of life, that the great State which they had served so faithfully, ought to give them a pension.

He at once began to work to that end. And after strenuous efforts succeeded in getting a bill through the Legislature. And for the pension which they now have, they are in a great measure indebted to his great warm-hearted love for his old comrades in arms. I fear the old soldiers of North Carolina are not aware of these facts.

I am an old Confederate soldier. Know them to be true. It is known by the people of North Carolina and especially by the old North Carolina soldiers, that the mother of Colonel Beasley, not only sent her son to front to battle for her dear old State, but she was among the first (if not, the first woman) in North Carolina to go to the front as a nurse, leaving an elegant and comfortable home and going to the front and devoting her time and attention to those who espoused the cause of her loved Southland, and this, too, without any remuneration. Do they honor her? This noble woman deserves to have a marble shaft erected to her memory which would reach the clouds. Col. Beasley has never asked the people of North Carolina for anything himself, whatever he has asked for has been for the soldiers or for the orphans of North Carolina. I would not (even if I could) have any of my old comrades fail to give honor to any of those who have of late years worked so faithfully and have spent so freely of their means in providing for my old comrades. I, as an old soldier, extend to them my sincere thanks. They have done, and we are doing, a noble work. While they deserve honor and thanks, do not we old soldiers of North Carolina owe more to Col. W. F. Beasley than to any of those who have been, or are connected with the North Carolina Soldiers' Home? I believe that every old soldier who reads this article will say, "Yes, Colonel Beasley deserves most honor, and that we as North Carolina soldiers, will give honor to whom honor is due."
