We are selling more teas, coffees and groceries every day. Why? Because the people are beginning to realize the value they receive for their money. The Family Store, J. W. Beasley, Agent. Adv.

Some mishap at the Plymouth Light and Ice Company last Monday night caused the town to be enveloped in darkness on that night. The trouble was remedied, however, and now the town is as brightly illuminated as ever.

It is only a matter of a few weeks before the town will be enjoying the most conveniences. All the streets of the town have been installed with sewers with the exception of Washington, and rapid progress is being made on that one.

Cahoon's is giving the entire back page in telling the people that we must have "quick cash". And he is offering some very attractive inducements to bring this about. Read his ad and we are sure you will find something you need, and there is no doubt but that you will profit by attending this sale.

Card of Thanks.

Mr. and Mrs. Haywood Swain wish to express their deep gratitude to their many friends who by their manifold tokens of kindness and sympathy shown in many ways during the recent illness and death of their daughter, Miss Dean, have had some part in tempering that unavoidable sorrow which each one must sooner or later experience on his earthly pilgrimage.

Editors Meet In Durham.

On Wednesday and Thursday of next week the organized editors of North Carolina will hold their annual convention in Durham. That city has tendered a most generous invitation to the scribes, and are making elaborate preparations for their entertainment while there.

It goes without saying that the editors were well pleased when they were informed that Durham would be their convention city this year, and good representation of this association is expected to be in attendance.
