

$243,000.00 FOR WASHINGTON COUNTY.

One of the greatest counties in North Carolina is Washington County, and our government has been fit to ask us to buy $243,000 worth of War Saving Stamps, which should be a small item for such a great county, and a small service to render our government in these war times. We are at war with Germany and her allies, and we may as well realize it as a picnic frolic, but a real fight for liberty, democracy, and a better civilization for the world and the existence of our personal freedom in our "GREAT COUNTRY, AMERICA."

The war savings plan is one by which you can lend small savings to your government at a rate of interest averaging 4 per cent, compounded quarterly, and this may be done by purchasing War Saving Stamps and Thrift Stamps, which you can buy for 4 1/2 and in five years it is worth 5 00. You can buy these stamps at any post office or bank, and every dollar you spend for War Saving Stamps is a patriotic dollar, and will help to save the lives of our Washington County boys who have gone to save our freedom and property.

If we are allowed to stay at home, and enjoy the home pleasures with our families, it is a little thing for us to do so buy some War Saving Stamps. Every man, woman and child in this county both white and colored, should buy War Saving Stamps. Go to your banker or post-office and buy some stamps without delay, and be a Patriotic Thrift Saver.

Better Farming in the South

FERTILIZER PRECAUTIONS

Plant Food Should Have A Legal Guarantee Of Availability If It Is To Measure Up To Nation's Pressing Food Demands

J. C. Pridmore, Farm Service, Bureau, Atlanta, Georgia.

J. C. PRIDMORE.

If the southern farmer is to do his share in producing foods for man and beast, and, at the same time, grow cotton fibre for the nation, he must either increase his crop acreage, or else grow considerably more per acre than customary.

In view of the scarcity and high price of labor at the present time, it seems to be the part of wisdom for farmers generally not to materially increase the crop acreage, but to increase the acre yields.

Increase Yield Per Acre
Acre yields can be increased by better preparation of the seed bed, by the use of good seed of varieties adapted to the region, by using a more liberal application of the right kinds of fertilizers and by better cultivation of the growing crops.

While all of these factors influence acre yields, let us call particular attention at this time to the kind and amount of fertilizer to be used. Practically all of the southern soils are deficient in phosphoric acid, nitrogen and potash and these must be supplied in some form to get the largest yields and biggest farm profits. While the proper use of these materials will increase the yields per acre and help supply the nation's needs, the wise farmer will at the same time strive to get the largest financial returns from their use. To do this, he must exercise care in buying them as well as in applying them.

The farmer should understand that plants use fertilizers as foods only after they have been dissolved by the soil water, and that which is not soluble is not available to the plant. It is to the farmer's interest, therefore, to know that the fertilizers he is buying are guaranteed to contain a stated amount of available plant food.

Quick Acting Form.

For the best results in the cultivation of general field crops, materials carrying phosphoric acid, nitrogen and some potash should be applied. Potash is more deficient in the light and sandy soils than in clay soils. Not less than 150 to 250 pounds of complete fertilizers per acre should be used and hundreds of farmers find more than this amount to be most profitable. Fertilizers containing these necessary plant foods are generally essential for the most profitable production of all field crops. Since there is such a world-wide need for crops, and since farm products are higher now than ever before, it follows that the farmer who strives to fulfill the nation's needs just now by the use of such plant food as is necessary, secures at the same time the largest possible financial returns for himself.

American-Made Potash

Good As German Kind

If there is any doubt in the mind of a farmer about using fertilizers containing American-made potash, in the belief that it is not as good as that which was formerly obtained from Germany, his mind can be set at rest by any chemist or agricultural authority. Any one who knows in what form the potash exists in the American-made product will declare that muriate or sulfate of potash is the same to the plant whether it be obtained from American sources or Germany, and that the plant asks no questions as to where it originated, but feeds on it just the same.

Raise Home Supplies

And Some To Spare

"Store bought" foods and feeds are too high priced for any farmer to pay, even if he could find them for sale. The wise southern farmer will get in a crop of corn and velvet beans, potatoes, vegetables of various kinds, grow a few hogs and poultry and otherwise look out for the needs of his family and his tenants. With all of food products bringing such good prices, the southern farmer should do a patriotic bit if he would raise enough to spare some for the armies while he is raising his cotton crop.
