Dress Covers.

Five yards of paper cambric cut in two strips two and one-half yards long will make a suit cover. Join by selvtages, lay over the other two selvages and button down the front. Cut a flap at the top and button over crosswise envelope shape. Make a small opening at the top through which the center hanger or skirt tapes can pass to hang by. It keeps your suit or light dress from the dust and is too tight to crush them.

VACATION HINTS.

Be observant as to your companions and your hours. Never loiter until an unseasonable hour with young men on the beach or in the dark corners of the porch. You may think such conduct is an indication of your popularity, but in reality it will cause you to be shunned by the nice girls and boys later on. If subscription parties, sals or dinners are given either subscribe your dress or ask your chambermaid to subscribe for you. Guests must do these things to be really in the swim at a summer resort. If a fair or bazaar is given for charity try to think up some original article to make and sell or something new in the way of a booth. Originally and a willingness to help makes time fly at a resort and are always at a premium. If the "big boys" do not flock around you at first do not hold aloof and talk. Make yourself agreeable to some of the older folks, and the admiration of middle aged men or even old men that you on to helpship with their sons and younger brothers. Keep your hotel room in good order. Do not toss your clothes about or strow your bed and lounge with trophies of wood or beach. You would be surprised to learn how chambermaids carry tales and gossip about your personal habits.

SOME LESSONS IN FIRES

It is a Time That All Parties Should Become Terribly in Earnest in Fire Prevention.

It is time that all parties should become terribly in earnest in the matter of fire prevention. This applies with special force to city officials and business men. Three recent fires in the South bring out forcibly some of the troubles that stand in the way of prevention of fires. We pride ourselves in this section that we are not in danger of the conflagration hazard, but it must be borne in mind that the conflagration hazard depends upon the proportion that the amount of loss in any one fire bears to the amount at risk. Judged by this, we can have a conflagration even a small city or town.

The fires referred to above were at Paris, Tex., Nashville, Tenn., and Augusta, Ga. All occurred within less than two days of each other. Thorough investigations show that the cause of these fires were poor and faulty construction, shingle roofs, open elevators and wooden stairs. Without the shingle roofs the fires would not have spread as they did. The results in these fires are startling. In Paris 254 acres were burned over, embracing 1,440 buildings with 1,651 combustible roofs. At Nashville six blocks were entirely consumed and part of twenty-seven blocks, the loss amounting to $1,250,000, with insurance of $855,685. At Augusta the loss was given at $7,000,000, with insurance of about $2,000,000. The fire swept over thirty-two blocks and 218 acres, destroying 151 business houses and 541 dwellings.

It is well for us here in North Carolina to sit up and take notice of and warning from these fires. It is possible, even probable, that such fires may strike us also.

LICENSING INSURANCE AGENTS.

It is well to understand the law governing the licensing of insurance agents and the duty imposed on the Insurance Commissioner under it: (Chapter 79, Laws 1913.)

The General Assembly of North Carolina do enact: Section 1. That before any license is issued to an insurance agent in this State, the agent applying for such license and the company for which he desires to act as agent, shall apply for such license on forms to be prescribed by the Insurance Commissioner, and before any license to such agent is issued the Insurance Commissioner shall satisfy himself that such person so applying for license as an agent is a person of good moral character, that he has not willfully violated any of the insurance laws of this State, and that he is a proper person for such position.

Gentlemen:

We wish to acknowledge receipt of draft for Fourteen Hundred Dollars ($1400.00) drawn on the Liverpool and London and Globe Insurance Company, Limited, same being in full settlement and discharge for all claims for loss and damage by fire which occurred on or about December 27, 1913, to property insured under policy No. 10924875. In view of the fact that our property was totally destroyed—practically all of our records were burned—and that it has taken quite some time to get duplicate bills, etc., to substantiate our claim, we think the company has been very prompt in adjusting our loss.

Thus writers of all other machines can immediately run the Oliver Number "9" with more speed and greater ease.

WARNING!

This brilliant new Oliver comes at the old-time price. It costs no more than lesser makes—now out-of-date when compared with this discovery.

For while the Oliver's splendid new features are costly—we have equalized the added expense to us by simplifying construction.

Resolve right now to see this great achievement before you spend a dollar for any typewriter. If you are using some other make you will want to see how much more this one does.
