BREVARD INSTITUTE CLOSES BEST YEAR IN ITS HISTORY

Continued from page one. much of the actual work of the school that it has seemed impossible to get thoroughly adjusted without him. His memory will long be with the students and teachers as an holy influence leading heavenward.

Summer School.

The fifth session of the Brevard Institute Summer School will begin on Tuesday, June 12th. The faculty will be essentially as it was last summer. Professor L. B. Haynes, Dean of Meridian College in Mississippi, will be director of the summer school. Mrs. Haynes and one other professor from Meridian will teach. Mrs. Reece, Miss Leatherwood, Miss Callahan, Mr. Peck, and other institute teachers will also offer work in their various departments. The regular daily session closes at one o'clock. The morning schedule consists of regular classes and covers, in general, the work of the County Institutes except that the session runs for six instead of the usual two weeks and is consequently much more thorough than County Institute work can be. At the same time other classes are in operation and, in general, any one who wishes to make up any high school or college entrance work is able to do so at very little expense and under the most comfortable conditions. In the past few years there have usually been students in attendance who wish to do some college work, and the number of college professors in the faculty makes it possible for one to carry practically any line of work desired if the pupil is willing to recite in the afternoon. The summer climate in Brevard is famous for its delightfulness, and an increasing number of people each year are attending the summer school for the recreation which a few weeks in the mountains affords. There were between fifty and sixty people in the dining room last summer, and the correspondence indicates a considerably larger enrollment for the coming session. Many of those who enroll in the summer school remain for some weeks afterwards, as they do not like to return to their homes at the season when the summer is most disagreeable. Summer school rates are low both for tuition and for board. Very simple combination meals are served at low rates and those who wish more variety or a large quantity of food are able to supplement the combination meal by special orders, so that the table fare can be made to a large extent adjustable to each taste and each purse.

The Prospects

The prospects for the session of 1917-18 are very bright. The correspondence concerning that scholar's year is unusually large for this time in the year. Brevard is more fortunate than most schools in holding its teachers, and at present it is expected that all the teachers will return. It seems possible that the faculty may be increased to secure more satisfactory work in some departments where the teachers are overcrowded. No work anywhere is more attractive than that of the modern, well-equipped, vocational school, where every pupil is able to see many kinds of work going on that he may discover where his talents lie and may train himself for successful work in that vocation where he will be most successful.

CAMP SAPPHIRE CATALOG FOR 1917 IS DISTRIBUTED

A handsome booklet has been gotten out by the directors of Camp Sapphire for the 1917 season. Besides the rules for the regulation of camp life, a statement of the educational advantages offered, and the items of information to possible patrons, the booklet contains descriptions and pictures of the camp, lake, and neighboring mountains, making it a good advertisement to the section as well as to the camp.

A glance at the list of boys there in 1916 shows that the camp enjoyed a patronage from more than a dozen southern states.

Under the management of W. McK. and R. A. Fetzler Camp Sapphire has justified its founding and has become a permanent attraction in this community.

W. McK. Fetzler has been at the camp for several days looking after the preparations for the opening.

RESTORED VITALITY CHANGES YOUR ATTITUDE TOWARD WORK AND PLAY

Run Down Systems Need Iron and Plenty of It—Take Natural Iron if Run Down.

You are nervous, at work, in your sleep and at home. You seldom sleep without vivid dreams and often you are melancholy and things don't seem to be going right for you. Maybe you are cross and irritable sometimes and have dizzy, weak spells and probably you do not act naturally at all times. You have lost confidence and physically and mentally if things keep up you are likely to become a nervous wreck.

There are thousands of men and women just like that. Their whole system lacks strength and stamina. Iron, and still more iron, is needed. Good, pure, strong and powerful natural iron known as Acid Iron Mineral is what you need.

Your muscles are flabby, you are debilitated and debilitated. Your memory is poor, your lack of ambition and business and social duties bore you. Nature is crying aloud for iron, the great system renovator and builder.

Don't Take Alcohol.

Often when a man gets in such shape he will turn to drink and for a time this seems to buoy him up, but everyone knows that a reaction must set in, and alcohol is now known to be a deadly enemy of the nerves, brain, stomach, kidneys and bladder. No! Do not take even a medicine if it contains an excessive quantity of alcohol. No matter how good the other elements may be. Avoid alcohol and other habit-forming drugs which only have a temporary effect.

Take iron—plenty of it in a highly concentrated and powerful form as put up by the Ferrandine Chemical Corporation. It is not a patent medicine. Contains no alcohol. It is just as nature intended it should be taken. Take a half teaspoonful after meals and on retiring. Watch how quickly life begins to look better to you when you are well and enjoy work and pleasure. Dale and hearty again you will find that home and family means more to you. Business gets better, you feel like running a foot race like a kid once more. Go to the nearest drug store and get fifty cents or a dollar's worth of Acid Iron Mineral. It goes two to ten times as far as other and less powerful iron preparations and helps instead of injures stomach, kidneys and liver. Ask for Acid Iron Mineral today—Advertisement.

TEACHERS' APPLICATIONS

Teachers who desire work in this county during next school year should file their written applications at once, as I shall meet the committees of the county from the 6th to 9th of June inclusive for the purpose of assisting in locating teachers. All teachers should be located before the summer schools begin, so that they may arrange their summer school courses with a special view to the work they will have during the year.

MR. MINER'S BOAT WRECKED

J. J. Miner's motor boat was badly wrecked last week on French Broad when a snag tore three boards from the bottom of the boat and the occupants, Mr. Miner, W. P. Wright, W. T. Brown and Robert Wright went down into four feet of water. After three hours of work the boat was landed and repaired, temporarily, the men having to resort to the extremes of patching the cracks with an undershirt before being able to return home.
