Why You Should Buy Your Clothes Here

How many of you realize that the average merchant does a large credit business?

This credit business means losses which must be averaged and added on each and every article he sells.

By this method the man who comes into town on Monday or Saturday with his cash pays the same price as the fellows that take all the goods they want and say, "Charge It," and sometimes they pay and sometimes they don't.

No "charge it," with us, hence no credit losses added on for you.

That's another strong point why you should buy your clothes at Coopers.

That's another reason why we can and do sell guaranteed $15.00 and $25.00 Suits and Overcoats the year round at $10. and $15.00.

U. D. C. State Meeting.

At the U. D. C. meeting on Saturday the following were elected delegates to the state meeting in Kinston: Mrs. Ida Bryant, Mrs. O. L. Erwin and Mrs. O. L. Jones. Their alternates are Mrs. Goode Cheatham, Mrs. Fred Miller and Miss Katherine Erwin. At the first meeting in October each member is asked to bring a quart tin of fruit or vegetables for the Old Soldiers' Home and one for the Confederate Woman's Home.

Baraca Social.

The Baracas of the Baptist Sunday school were entertained on Thursday evening of last week by Joe Tinsley at his new cottage on Maple street. The members of the class and their invited friends enjoyed a very pleasant evening in games and songs and social intermingling. It was also a kind of house warming for the host, his pretty bungalow being thrown open to visitors for the first time.

In the absence of a hostess by divine right, Mrs. H. L. Wilson acted as chaperone.

JENKINS MOVES INTO NEW BUILDING

A. N. Jenkins, moved his stock of goods into his new store, which stands on the site of the old one. The building is constructed of concrete blocks, roofed and ealed with fire proof material, and floored with cement.

TO THE FARMERS OF THE COUNTY

I note that there will be a Farmer's Institute at the Court House in Brevard on Thursday 13th of Sept.

This will be conducted by men representing the Agricultural Department of the State and will be worth the time and attention of all the farmers in the County.

I would suggest this as a most favorable time for the farmers of the County to meet and adopt plans to encourage wheat growing in Transylvania.

The many thousand dollars sent from this County every year for flour, is simply nonsense.

My flour from last years crop cost me about $3.00 (three dollars) a bbl; from this years crop will cost less, while the farmer who bought his flour paid fifteen to eighteen dollars a bbl. for it.

Many say they don't raise wheat because we have no mill; and the fact is we have no mill because we don't raise wheat. Raise the wheat and the mill will come as a natural consequence.

At present you can send your wheat to Biltmore and return for about 10c a bushel and get as good flour as you can buy.

The bottom lands on French Broad may not be first class wheat land as a rule, but practically every farmer has a few acres, that will make good wheat. Two acres, properly managed, will make forty bushels at a safe estimate.

Four bushels for threshing will leave you thirty-six bushels.

After paying the mill toll, this will yield you twelve hundred lbs. of fine flour, that would have cost you this summer at $2.00 a quarter sack, $96.00, and you have about twenty lbs. of bran and shorts per bushel, the best of feed.

There is wheat enough in the County for seed, so lets get together, in connection with the Institute on the 13th, and discuss plans for preparation, seed, etc., and do the most that can be done at one stroke for our own benefit.

Respectfully,
R. H. ZACHARY.

ROAD MAINTENANCE.

The greatest waste of public moneys that is being committed today is in surfacing our country roads and then apparently abandoning the same, says E. B. House of the Colorado experiment station. No county that engages in real road building can afford to dismiss its workmen when the road has been constructed. The fact of the matter is that the work is just then well underway.

It rarely ever happens that the initial work on the road is done wisely, but there are a multitude of little things that later on must be added or repaired in order that the road may be in good condition. Ruts and chuck holes are sure to form, and these must be filled or the road soon goes to pieces. These things should be planned for and done quickly if the improved road is to do the fullest service, and this is the one thing that it seems to me some of our county commissioners are neglecting. They become so imbued with the idea of building good roads that they fail to prepare for the maintenance of roads already constructed.

FIRST NATIONAL FOREST ROAD.

To Be Built by the Federal Government in the Apache National Forest.

The secretary of agriculture has authorized the location survey of a section of the first project in road construction submitted under the "national forest section" of the federal aid road act. This section is the only one in the law which provides for actual construction of roads by the federal government. Roads built under authority of this part of the law are designed primarily to promote economic development and to serve public convenience in localities where much of the land is in national forests. The proposed road on which action is taken is in the Apache national forest, Greenlee county, Ariz.

The preliminary estimate of the cost of construction of the seventy-one miles of road to be surveyed is $342,500. Greenlee county proposes to hold a bond election to raise the necessary funds to contribute 50 per cent of this amount. An additional twenty-nine miles of road in Apache county will be necessary to complete the project and, according to the preliminary estimate, will bring the total cost to $420,000.

Approval of the plans for survey was based upon the industrial resources which will be opened up and also upon the offer of one-half co-operation by the county. The construction of the road will make possible a north and south trunk line through a region now inaccessible and will connect with existing east and west state highways. In addition, it will, it is stated, make possible the sale of large bodies of timber for the use of copper mines in southern Arizona and will afford means of travel for settlers, besides cheapening the cost of protecting and administering the national forest. The development of water power in the region will be assisted, and a beautiful recreation area will be opened up for tourist travel and for the residents of the desert cities during the summer months.

In each case under the terms of the law the road funds must be derived partly from local sources, and the amount expendable in any county by the government is limited to 10 per cent of the estimated value of the timber and forage resources of the national forests in that county. Several other projects for which co-operation has been offered are pending for roads in California, Montana and Idaho. Where two projects have equal claim for consideration the decision will, it is stated, be made in favor of the one for which the best offer of co-operation is made.

Roads That "Stay."

With the recently awakened interest in the cause of good roads the question of financing road building is of first importance. How road building can be paid for is not the only serious question, however, but which one of several possible methods of construction will best suit the needs of the community and give the people the best roads at as small cost as possible within the limit of the available funds.

The first cost may be only a small part of the total. Roads must be maintained in good condition, and the cheapest road is the one that costs least per year to build and keep in shape for travel. In New York state it was found cheaper to expend $25,000 a mile in the construction of brick highways than to pay from $7,500 to $10,000 a mile for macadam because of the difference in cost of upkeep. To save maintenance expense the idea of present economy must not be allowed to overshadow the importance of building permanent highways. As a rule, the roads which cost the most at first will be the cheapest to maintain.—R. W. Gay, Mississippi Agricultural Station.

Good Road Movement in Texas.

The construction of good roads is not confined to the more populous sections of Texas, but has spread to the remote and newly settled parts of the state. In the Panhandle and South Plains region, where road improvements had heretofore received little attention, the different counties have become interested in the propaganda and much progress is being made in constructing first class highways.
