OVER THE TOP

By Oliver Gray of the Brevard High School.

The order is given; to over the top. And as the men emerge some begin to drop.

But these men are determined, nor does their fury abate;

In the rage they're in now they'd charge Hell's own gate.

And on they push—on, on, and on 'Till they're scarce fifty yards from the den of the Hun.

It seem like a terrible nightmare to men crossing this space,

With the Huns throwing liquid fire in their face.

The brows of the men grow dark with fury and fear;

And in this terrible moment they think of all they hold dear.

With this thought comes the determination to win or to die,

And there is many a tear glistening in their eye.

They form up in order, and in a volley they send

Straight towards the liquid fire that comes from Black Fritz's Den.

The fire stops at once and onward they go.

They are now grappling with Black Fritz; they are fighting the foe.

They drive the foe backward and backward and back,

And make themselves safe from a counter attack.

This trench it is taken! and hold it they must

For the sake of Liberty, Democracy—and Us!

HAL HAMILTON—AN APPRECIATION

At the county commencement two years ago, among those who were to take part in the declamation contest, the writer remembers one bright faced boy who sat on the U.D.C. Library platform which was used as a stage, and who, rising to speak in his turn, caught the ear of the multitude and held in wrapt attention even those on the rim of the crowd till he had finished his declamation.

Later when I saw the same striking face in the Boys' Class at Oak Grove I learned that the boy was Hal Hamilton. Upon inquiry, I also learned that he had been cared for and brought up from a tiny infant by Mr and Mrs "Croge" Hamilton, an aged couple, whose son had married the child's mother and gone out West. Since then I had watched the boy merging into young manhood, noted the affection for them. A solicitude which led him to stop his school work and find employment at Pisgah Forest that he might share the burden with the aged couple that had cared for him from infancy.

It was while engage here that he was caught in the machinery and received fatal injuries from which he died in the Hendersonville Hospital on March 21, having just passed his 16th birthday. Who can tell whether the life, begun with such promise, but cut off just as it began to unfold into young manhood, may not have somewhere, somehow to come into full fruition of that promise?

The funeral was conducted from Oak Grove Chapel in the presence of a large congregation, including the pupils from the Pisgah Forest Graded School, and the remains were tenderly laid away in the adjacent cemetery to await the resurrection. May the Lord comfort those who mourn this untimely taking away. W. E. P.

CANTEN SERVICE FOR SAMMIES IN FRANCE

Red Cross To Serve Boys in The Front Line Trenches

The American Red Cross has just arranged to establish with the American troops in France a front line canteen service similar to that through which they have served more than a million poilus with hot drinks during the last six months, according to a cable just received by the War Council from Major James H. Perkins, Red Cross Commissioner to France.

This will consist of rolling canteens stationed close behind the front line trenches. There are now fifteen of these operating behind the French lines, from which fifty or more large receptacles of hot drinks are sent forward daily, usually in the small hours of the morning. These drinks are served free to the men going on or coming off duty.

This service has proven of such value to the French that the American army has asked the Red Cross to have this service directly in touch with the medical relief stations nearest the front. The work is often done under heavy shell fire and requires men of great bravery and sympathy.

The American army officers are manifesting a keen interest in having this service at the disposal of the American troops and have asked the Red Cross to enlist a substantial number of men of the highest caliber to undertake this work. It will be performed at the point nearest the firing line at which civilians are permitted.

ARE YOU GUILTY?

A FARMER carrying an express package from a big mail-order house was accosted by a local dealer. "Why didn't you buy that bill of goods from me? I could have saved you the express, and besides you would have been patronizing a home store, which helps pay the taxes and builds up this locality." The farmer looked at the merchant a moment and then said: "Why don't you patronize your home paper and advertise? I read it and didn't know that you had the stuff I have here." MORAL—ADVERTISE
