THE SCENE HAS SHIFTED

Responding to the call of Pres. Wilson the Congress of the United States of America assembled in extraordinary session on last Monday. For the first time in eight years the republicans have a majority in both branches and if they shall stand together they will be able to shape the legislative affairs of the nation to their own liking.

A "talk feast" is predicted of the present session of congress but it is said that "when congress talks the Country is safe." Danger lies in the voting. While this is a republican-controlled congress a democratic president will have to be reckoned with and big party issues are likely to be kept in the background until the important affairs of the Country have been adjusted.

The "Old Guard" is having little difficulty in organizing both the House and Senate, but appears a bit conciliatory towards the few progressives who have weathered the storm in recent contests. Lodge and Penrose will dominate the new Senate and Mann is having his way in the House, notwithstanding the elevation of his Massachusetts colleague, Mr. Gilbert, to the speakership.

Congress convened for the first time since free government was established on the American continent with the Chief Executive out of the Country, but no hitch was experienced in the initial ceremonies. A message from the President clearly discloses the purpose for which the session was called and a large share of weighty responsibilities have been shifted from the executive to the legislative department of the government.

or to withhold information from the American people which they are entitled to have. He stands four-square to every breeze and makes no attempt to "round corners" in dealing with the people's business. But he can do no more than suggest legislation that the Country needs and trusts congress to measure up to the standard he sets.

Momentous questions are to be considered and settled by this congress and the people expect prompt action in the interest of the many rather than the employment of "sharp practices" with the view to political advantage in the next campaign. Let petty politics have its turn at the bat when the pressing business of the Country is out of the way.

WAR ON VICE

The great world struggle between the forces of might and right, from a governmental standpoint, has been concluded and democracy is in the ascendancy. Militarism must perish from the earth. The mailed fist shall no longer exercise a deterring effect upon the acts of men and women in any civilized state, country, or principality. The world is approaching the dawn of a new day. Peace, sweet peace, is to be enthroned where the stealthy hand of danger and death has been the dread of the helpless and the oppressed.

The enemy abroad has been vanquished and our heroes are returning home with victory over German arms written large upon their foreheads. They have made the world safe for democracy and the United States Government now seeks to make the home land safe for them. The Government Health Service has started a war on vice in hope of having our soldiers return to their families and to civil life uncontaminated by preventable disease.

The need for this propaganda became apparent in the selection of men fitted for military service and it is now proposed, as far as possible, to make sure that demobilization of our splendid young men shall not mean demoralization at the same time. The reports of the draft boards and camp surgeons revealed for the first time, the menacing seriousness of the venereal problem and the failure of the country's pre-war attitude towards the whole question.

The government health program is a comprehensive one. It invites to service all citizens who feel responsible for their community and their nation in times of peace as well as war. The call is to state, county, municipality, community club and all betterment societies. The North Carolina Board of Health has taken up the fight, adopting as its slogan, "There should be no peace with prostitution, no truce with the red-light district, no armistice with venereal diseases." And unconditional surrender is the demand. The war against the enemy of society and home is on. Are you going to be a slacker?

Germany mourns her wretched state alone. Civilization can have no sympathy with a country which sought to rule the world at the point of the bayonet. Repentance will not suffice. There must be restitution as well.

DUCKWORTH & ALLISON FORM PARTNERSHIP

W. H. Duckworth and S. F. Allison have formed a business partnership for the purpose of providing the people of Brevard with an up-to-date market. They will sell all kinds of first-class fresh and cured meats and country produce.

The new firm will occupy the City Market stand and will be known as the City Market. While the firm of Duckworth & Allison is new to local business circles, neither of its members are new to the meat business or strangers to the people of our town. Mr. Duckworth was a successful dealer in fresh food products here a number of years and Mr. Allison ran the City Market two years ago to a wide and rapidly increasing circle of satisfied customers.

The Salvation Army's slogan is "A man may be down, but he's never out!" The "Army" will ask for $12,000,000 during the week of May 29-36. Your contribution will help prove the truth of the slogan.

"FAKE" ASPIRIN WAS TALCUM

Therefore Insist Upon Genuine "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin"

Millions of fraudulent Aspirin Tablets were sold by a Brooklyn manufacturer which later proved to be composed mainly of Talcum Powder. "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" the true, genuine, American made and American owned Tablets are marked with the safety "Bayer Cross."

Ask for and then insist upon "Bayer Tablets of Aspirin" and always buy them in the original Bayer package which contains proper directions and dosage.

Aspirin is the trade mark of Bayer Manufacture of Monoaceticacidester of Salicylicacid.

GOLD IN NEARLY ALL LANDS

Yet it is Today, to a Very Large Extent, the "Mainstay" of a Nation.

Gold has been much talked about during these years of war, and every one-pound and ten-shilling note is a monument to the power and value of gold. It is to a great extent the mainstay of a nation, says a writer, in London Answers.

And yet in spite of its being counted among the rare and precious metals it is surprising how universally it is found. Almost every country in the world can boast of a gold mine.

Gold is found in the ground in rock formation when its presence is often discovered on the surface. The fine particles of gold are extracted by crushing the rock and amalgamating with mercury. Another place where gold is found is in river beds and ditches, when the gravel is collected and the gold separated by washing.

In the British Isles gold is found in small quantities. There are a few mines in North Wales, where it is won from rock of poor quality.

The greatest mines in the world are in Africa; the Rand mines, which are worked by large limited companies. Up country, in Rhodesia, and also in West Africa, there is plenty of gold. America is the next largest gold-producing country. Extensive operations are carried on in Alaska and California, and the metal is obtained in many other American states.

Australia is one of our colonies whose reputation as a gold producer is known to many. Gold was first discovered in 1851 in New South Wales and Victoria, and there are possibilities in gold mining in Queensland and Western Australia.

PUTTING THE CASE MILDLY

Condemners of Brutal Murder Could Not Be Accused of Undue Denunciation of Crime.

The example given in recent issues of the Companion of understatement of facts reminded a reader of a glaring instance of such caution in speech. One Monday morning, she says, our colored laundress came to us all agog with the gruesome particulars of the brutal murder of a little girl that had happened a few hours before.

"Ya-as'm," she drawled, bending over steaming suds, "it suttinly was a mean thing to do—a right mean thing!" At the time that seemed to me the acme of moderation, but—strangely enough—I was later to meet it exaggerated in the mother of the little victim of that mad assassin. When I paid my visit of condolence to the poor woman, she spoke at length of all the sad circumstances of the tragedy.

Maybe by 1925.

"We are reorganizing the police department to make it more efficient and to speed it up in its operations, but I think this would be just a little bit too fast for Indianapolis," remarked George V. Coffin, chief of police, as he handed over a letter he had received from an eastern corporation urging the Indianapolis police department to put in an aviation section in connection with its other departments.

The letter explained how a machine equipped with a wireless telephone, and operated by a police aviator, could keep the chief informed of conditions at all points within a radius of twenty miles of his office. It also said that many lives and millions of dollars would be saved in such catastrophes as the Minnesota forest fires, the Dayton and San Diego floods, by the use of airplane communication.

General O'Ryan's Constellation.

It is not often that a military commander perpetrates a pun, observes Outlook. A veritable pun, however, has been imprinted on the helmets and motortrucks of the American Twenty-seventh division. A recent number of the Gas Attack shows a device in which a number of stars are so arranged as to correspond with the constellation Orion. Now, as every one knows, the gallant and efficient commander of that division is General O'Ryan. The idea is clever, and perhaps a bit humorous. Certainly General O'Ryan has proved himself a military star, and the Twenty-seventh division in its capture of Mont Kemmel and its thrust through the Hindenburg line south of Cambrai is truly entitled to be considered some constellation.

Alaskan Indians End War.

War, mostly of the smoldering variety, but which in past generations has blazed up and drawn blood, no longer exists between the Sitka and Wrangell clans of the Kock-Wan-Ton caste of the Thlinket Indian tribe of southeastern Alaska. Peace has been declared. The Indians decided to set aside their tribal customs. Disputes, the Indians decided, in the future, will be settled by the white man's law. Instead of by hostilities. No Indian now living can remember the time when the Sitkas and Wrangells were at peace. With the passing of many of the old tribesmen, however, the younger men, imbued with the ideas of modern civilization taught them in the government schools, decided their want of peace.

TRY IT! SUBSTITUTE FOR NASTY CALOMEL

Starts Your Liver Without Making You Sick and Guarantees Not Salaries.

Every druggist in town—your druggist and everybody's druggist has noticed a great falling-off in the sale of calomel. They all give the same reason. Dodson's Liver Tonic is taking its place.

Calomel is dangerous and people know it, while Dodson's Liver Tonic is perfectly safe and gives better results. A prominent local druggist, Dodson's Liver Tonic is personally guaranteed by every druggist who sells it. A large bottle costs but a few cents, and if it fails to give easy relief in every case of liver sluggishness and constipation, you have only to ask for your money back.

Dodson's Liver Tonic is a pleasant-tasting, purely vegetable remedy, harmless to both children and adults. Take a spoonful at night and wake up feeling fine; no biliousness, sick headache, acid stomach or constipated bowels. It doesn't gripe or cause inconvenience all the next day like violent calomel. Take dose of calomel today and tomorrow you will feel weak, sick and nauseated. Don't lose a day's work! Take Dodson's Liver Tonic instead and feel fine, full of vigor and ambition. Advertisement.
