THE EDITORS IN LINE

The North Carolina editors are standing squarely for the League of Nations. In their annual meeting at Wrightsville Beach on August 2nd a resolution endorsing the Covenant in unmistakable terms was adopted with only three dissenting votes. One member of the Association objected to article X and two others voted with him on a reconsideration of the question, which was reopened for the purpose of debate, out of courtesy to objector who was absent when first vote was taken. All objections were finally withdrawn and a unanimous vote was recorded in favor of the resolution as it came from the committee. A copy was ordered sent to President Wilson, Ex-President Taft, Senator Reed of Missouri, and to each member of the United States'

Article X of the covenant of the League of Nations appears to have been the target selected for attack by practically everyone who feigns any objection at all. Fully nine-tenths of these have neither read the article, nor heard any fair exposition of its contents. They are blindly following a class of folks who seek to reasons. Those who have taken a ships. Here is the exact text of it:

"The members of the League undertake to respect and preserve as against external aggression the territorial integrity and existing political independence of all members of the league. In case of any such aggression or in case of any threat or danger of such aggression, the council shall advise upon the means by which this . obligation shall be ful-

This is as plain as the English language can make anything that the league contemplates the protection of the small nations against the threats or aggresssions of the larger ones. It does not signify that hasty action must be taken by any party to the compact, but specifically provides consideration by the council first. The New York World very aptly suggests that Article X is the Magna Charta of the small nations; for it lays down the rule that wars shall not be undertaken for the purpose of conquest. And further, that striking this article from the covenant would be equivalent to striking "Thou shalt not steal" from the Ten Commandments. The World goes on:

"The alternative to Article X is Prussianism. Either we are against wars of conquests or we are not, and if we are against them, our antagonism matters little unless we are ready to make it effective. Article X is the embodiment of the great lesson of this terrible conflict, which began as a war of aggression on the part of a powerful country against a weak

"Article X is the noblest statement of international policy that came out of the Peace Conference. For the first time the great nations are committed to the vital principle of the Declaration of Independence, and whoever really believes that the individual has an unalienable right to life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness must likewise believe that the nations to which the individual be longs has similar rights.

"When attacks on Article X are sifted down they reduce themselves to this: That a League of Nations might properly concern itself with any of the causes of war except the most infamous cause, and that above everything else is must not concern itself with the causes of the war that has all but reduced civilization to

The American people do not believe in wars of conquest and are, therefore, in favor of Article X being a part of the covenant in its present

In America today we have two million wage-earners employed by the railroads of the country presenting, through their representatives, a proposition that the government shall take over these various lines of transportation and inaugurate a co-operative plan of management in which the employees would have a large share of responsibility. Labor has, in a measure, succeeded in cooperative enterprises when it consisted simply of co-operative stores and marketing. In the larger sphere of business undertakings results might be different. But this is a matter for Congress and we dare say will be given the consideration it deserves.

The President of the United States has requested all of the shopmen to return to work pending a settlement of the differences. Not only that, the President is engaged in working out plans for the reduction of skyrocket prices on necessities and asks for the united support of all classes of citizens in the effort to stamp out profiteering and relieve a situation which is highly repulsive to the Amer ican conscience. It is hoped that Mr. Wilson will receive the active and the earnest support of every fair-minded man and woman in the country as he proceeds with the gigantic task congress has imposed upon him. United we stand, divided we fall.

The Republicans have been critdiscredit the President for partisan icising the Democrats for high prices but congress, republican that it is, broad and liberal view of the article has offered no remedy. In fact, the consider that it represents one of the members were on the eve of departbeen taken in international relation- President asked them to remain in Washington and attend to the business of the country. And he is giving the bretheren something to think about, in the meantime. Woodrow Wilson is the man of action. See?

The New Pied Piper

DON'T LET HIM LURZ AWAY YOUR GOVERNMENT SECURITIES.

You remember how the Pied Piper of Hamlin Town played a siren tune on his pipe and lured the children away. The land is now full of Pied Pipers who are trying to induce people to sell their Liberty Bonds and War Savings Stamps. They are making "golden" promises; they are offering stock in concerns which they say will make you rich. Hold your government securities. Don't let the Pied Pipers make a laughing stock and a sucker out of you.

HE TELLS WHAT HE THINKS OF AMERICA

Syrian Says Now Is Time For Every Man To Prove Patriotism-Answer Found in War Savings

It sometimes takes the new-comer to appreciate America. The nativeborn is often too close to the situation to realize what this country means to the world today. He is used to all that it offers, taking it as a matter of course, and frequently loses the vision in sordid detail; while the new-comer-but listen to what one of them had to say.

He is George E. Rihbany of the 1919 class of the Boston High School of Commerce and he came to this country from his native land, Syria, when he was 10 years old. In a fourminute speech on the value of War Savings Stamps, given at the school recently, he said in closing:

"Hate is not characteristic of the American people, but the Germans taught us unwillingly how to hate them. Now it is a sin not to hate the spirit the Hun showed and not to abolish it from the face of the earth. Of the latter we are positively sure, because the American passion for justice is a hundred times stronger than was the German passion for conquest.

"I never entertained the idea of becoming an orator and I am sure that ment, and not even the best oration of their own to sell. the greatest speaker of all times.

UNCLE SAM'S MONEY BEST IN THE WORLD

Color Looks Good To Boys Coming .Home After Seeing Only Foreign Currency for Months.

Just how good American money looks to a man away from home is the war for the preservation of civilisction, and who afterwards saw service across the border in Germany.

Sergeant H. H. Coffee was attached six months was at Trier, Germany, 30 miles from Luxemberg. Now he is back home.

"While we were in France," said Sergeant Coffee, "we were paid in German money. The difference between the French and German money, as compared with United States money, is amazing. It is printed on white paper, and one gets an awful wad of of Argrican money. "When we got this foreign stuff the boys were very liberal with it. They would gamble with it, would lend it when we got to Brest on our way ed zealously." That is one of the lessons the war has taught. American money, any promise to pay on the part of Uncle Sam, is mighty valuable in the eyes of the world. That is why the Liberty Bonds found so ready a market, and promise to pay. There is no record be reached. yet that he ever failed to meet an Advertising Clubs Issue Warning To Protect the Public Against Ubiquitous Stock Swindlers.

Various ways for prospective investors to detect the unscrupulous stock promoters are contained in a bulletin recently issued by the National Vigilance Committee of the Associated Advertising Clubs of the World. The bulletin indicates several unmistakable signs of the "wild cat" stock peddlers which owners of War Savings Stamps and Liberty Bonds will do well to consider before exchanging their valuable securities for the offerings of northern stocks. The warning to prospective investors is as follows:

certain not a single case has ever been reported where the promoters of a legitimate, worthy enterprise have offered to take Liberty Bonds in payment for the capital stock of a new offer to take Liberty Bonds should prompt the bond owner to consult a banker or legitimate broker as to the value of the stock that is offered in exchange for the bonds. The offer to exchange is an earmark which should serve as a warning.

"Another earmark of the faker is his attitude when it is proposed to postpone action pending an investiga-I lack oratorical ability, but such tion. HAND GRENADE BANKS WILL SOON BE READY

Children Are Urged to Begin Saving Money At Once So That They Will Not Lose Any Time.

Some 250,000 hand grenade banks will be ready for distribution in the illustrated by the story told by one of Fifth Federal Reserve District by those boys who fought in France in August 20, according to a statement issued at the War Loan Organization of this district.

Every one of these hand grenades was manufactured to carry destructo Company L, 354th Infantry, and for tion to the Huns, and now, with percussion cap and explosive removed, they are to serve in the campaign for thrift. Made into penny-slot banks they will be lent, one to each child under seventeen years old who calls at French money. And afterward, when a bank. Then, if enough money to we were in Germany, we were paid in purchase one or more War Savings Stamps is saved in a specified time, the hand grenade becomes the property of the child.

There has been some delay in Washington in getting the grenades it for comparatively a small quantity ready for distribution, due to the large number that had to be prepared for their new capacity, but it is now assured that they will shortly be ready.

Every child who would like a real and handle it very carelessly. But souvenir of the great war can get it by calling at the brak as soon after home, and that money was exchanged August 20 as possible, for there will for real American money, all that lib-probably be more than 250,000 chilerality disappeared, and it was guard- dren in the district who will want the grenades, and the supply is necessarily limited.

Meanwhile, the children are urged to begin saving at once so that they may have a "running start" when the grenade banks are delivered. The sooner enough money is saved to buy that is why the War Savings Stamps a War Savings Stamp the sooner the look just as good as money. They are hand grenade belongs to the child both er lences of indebtedness on and the sooner the child begins to Uncle Sam's part and his written save the sooner the desired end will
