DEATHS IN STATE FROM TUBERCULOSIS

Sanatorium, N. C., Oct. 8.—A decrease of approximately fifteen per cent in the number of deaths caused by tuberculosis in North Carolina during the past four years is shown in figures tabulated at the State sanatorium for the treatment of this disease.

The total number of deaths from this cause in the States for the year of 1915 was 3,710. In 1918 the total number had been reduced to 3,160, a difference of 550. This reduction, considering the steady increase of population during the past four years, means an even greater decrease in the death rate of tuberculosis.

Careful observations and experiments have demonstrated that the ratio of active open cases of tuberculosis to death are as eight to one. This means that while more than three thousand died in the State during the past year there were at the same time in excess of twenty-five thousand suffering with the disease and menacing the health of those with whom they came in contact.

Tuberculosis is preventable and is curable. To save the unaffected from the danger of infection and to more adequate care for those stricken, North Carolina is joining with the National Tuberculosis Association and one thousand other State and local organization throughout the country in an extensive and intensive educational campaign culminating in the special campaign for the sale of Red Cross Christmas Seals during Dec. 1-10, $6,500,000 of which are being offered for sale this year.

AROUND THE WORLD WITH THE AMERICAN RED CROSS. In Roumania.

Soon after the entrance of the United States in the war the successes of the Central Powers in Roumania had reduced that country to a most tragic condition and in the summer of 1917, the American Red Cross despatched its first Roumanian relief contingent. Two hospitals were at once taken over and operated by the Red Cross, a canteen for the starving refugees established and food and clothing distributed over a large area. Transportation was one of the Red Cross workers in Roumania had to deal. Here is seen an oxcart used by the Red Cross to carry its relief supplies up into the mountains.

You Get What You Pay For
When you lay your money on a local dealer's counter and tell him what you want, you get just that. If it happens to be temporarily out of stock, he tells you so and asks your second choice.
You get nothing you do not want. And what you get is yours at the time you pay for it. He doesn't make you wait until he is ready to give you your merchandise.
These are only two of the many reasons why trading at home is better than buying by the "sight unseen" methods.
