The U. S. NAVY & Passing Through the Canal.

The U. S. S. Wyoming and the U. S. S. New Mexico are shown here passing through the Pedro Miguel locks of the Panama Canal.

The electric engines along the side of the locks are called "mules" in deference to their four legged predecessors—they have just hauled the battleship through the locks. If you are interested in mathematics you might figure out how many old style mules it would take to do the job.

The Wyoming at the left, is moving out to the lower level, and as soon as the water in the other lock is let out to the correct level the New Mexico will move ahead.

This picture was taken from a U. S. Navy flying boat, during the recent trip of the Pacific Fleet to the West Coast. They were royally received at all of the ports along the trip.

U. S. NAVY Jack's Reading Room.

The men's quarters on our new battleships are more luxurious than the Admiral's quarters of fifty years ago. This is a corner in the reading room of the U. S. S. New Mexico. A big library and complete file of current magazines, as well as newspapers from all the large cities, help to take care of any stormy hours when Jack may not prefer to be on deck. A good title for this picture would be, "Why boys leave home," and the best part of it is that they come back real men.
